CUBA FINDS SHIP SET AFIRE BY SABOTAGE RING

Claims Radical Trio Razed Morro Castle.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 14.—From unimpeachable military sources THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent tonight learned that members of the army intelligence service coöperating with police in a sabotage investigation of the Morro Castle disaster have unearthed sufficient evidence to confirm fully the suspicion that a woman and two men on the ship were involved in the vessel's destruction.

The woman, investigation revealed, for several weeks previous to the disaster had been the secret link between two men on the ship involved in the conspiracy against the Ward line and leaders of a sabotage ring here and in New York.

Investigators are now checking the theory that the fire was started by a short circuit in the electric wiring, either in a parlor or stateroom.

Lay Short Circuit to Ring.

The investigators claim that the short circuit was brought about by the sabotage ring, the fire spreading so rapidly because "a certain undetermined inflammable substance probably was concealed in the parlor and other rooms near the passengers."

The military informant added likewise that he had established that the gang is communistic.

Dr. Jesus Portocarrero, counsel for communist organizations, who was jailed here yesterday, gave information leading to the discovery of the sabotage evidence. The informant mentioned, first, that the woman had already admitted that she was the first to become aware the ship was on fire.

Furthermore, it was learned, she and her confederates grabbed the first boat to be launched, and without the least effort to save other passengers, abandoned the vessel.

LINER CALLED FIRE TRAP

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The United States board of steamboat inspectors, inquiring into the Morro Castle disaster of a week ago, learned today from William O'Sullivan, keeper of stores, that the ship carried a supply of inflammable polish prohibited by the government safety regulations.

Because he knew it was illegal, O'Sullivan testified, he would have none of it in the storeroom for which he was responsible in the boy of the Morro Castle. All he kept there was the polish in paste form permitted by the steamboat regulations.

The inspectors asked O'Sullivan if he thought it would have been possible for the stewards, equally unable to keep a prohibited polish among their supplies, to store it in the writing room locker where the fire was discovered. He said they might, so far as he knew.

Supplied by Line.

"How do you know it was supplied to the steward's department?" he was asked by Dickerson N. Hoover, director of the steamboat inspection service, who is representing Secretary Roper of the department of commerce.

"It was supplied by the Ward line," O'Sullivan answered.

"Did anybody know it?" Mr. Hoover asked.

"It was used on the bridge of the Morro Castle," O'Sullivan answered.

"How do you know?"

"They asked me if I had a can of it because they used to shine the brasses of the bridge with it," he replied.

"Was it very effective in polishing?" the inspector asked.

"Yes; that was why it was used."

He said he knew the steward's department had plenty of it, because the seamen who wanted polish came to him as their proper storekeeper, but refused to take the regulation paste. They used to tell him, he said, that they would get a can of "that same polish" from the stewards.

Unable to Recall Name.

He said it was inflammable and not on the government permitted lines of polishes, but could not recall the name.

"It is one of those silly names," he said, "and it has slipped my mind. It will come back to me later. It comes in cans with a screw top and smells strongly of benzine."

A further light on the first hazard on the Morro Castle was given by Storekeeper O'Sullivan while telling the location of hoses on deck and the use made of them. As a matter of routine, he said, it was necessary to hose the decks after the tubes of the oil burning boilers were blown every morning at 2 o'clock because oily soot descends

DANGER AHEAD!

Paul [Sunny] Cuprea, 34 years old, operator of a handbook at 879 North State street, was shot and fatally wounded last evening near Clarendon and Windsor avenues, in the midst of a stream of heavy north side traffic.

Although Cuprea, before he died at the Lake View hospital, told police that he was shot by holdup men, the investigators were skeptical of the story and thought it possible that his gambling activities were responsible for the assassination.

Gunman Enters Car.

According to the story Cuprea told Sergt. Michael Ahearn, he had just driven up to his home at 4200 Hazel avenue when a dark sedan, containing three men, pulled up beside him. One of three, a young man wearing a brown sweater, leaped into Cuprea's car and at the point of a pistol forced him to drive away. The sedan with the other two men, followed.

At Windsor and Clarendon avenues Cuprea's car paused for traffic, and Cuprea attempted to grapple with the gunman. The revolver was fired, but neither man was hit, and Cuprea leaped from the car.

The gunman also jumped out and fired another shot, which passed through Cuprea's arm and into his body.

Slayer Escapes in Car.

The slayer then got into the sedan which was following with his companions and escaped. Passing motorists who witnessed the shooting gave chase, but were outdistanced by the fleeing car.

At the hospital it was found that Cuprea had $65 in his pockets, a fact which, police said, tended to contradict his story that robbery was the motive for the assault. The money was turned over to his wife, Pauline, before Cuprea died.

Dairy Company Official Kidnaped and Robbed

Maxwell Rifkind, secretary-treasurer of the Lincoln Dairy company, 1925 South Kedzie avenue, reported to police last night that he had been kidnaped from the rear of his home, forced to return to the dairy with three armed men and there open the safe. The kidnapers, he said, took some $90 in cash from the safe and his ring and watch. He also said that the leader of the trio identified himself as a man who had been calling him during the last week, posing as a newspaper man, and attempting to extort $3,000 from him.

COOL WAVE WILL BANISH SUMMER WEATHER TODAY

Summerlike temperatures, which have prevailed in Chicago for several days, are to be driven away early today, according to the official forecast, by a cool wave from Canada and Alaska.

Falling temperatures and a drizzle early last night marked the approach of the wave.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said that by tomorrow morning there might be frost in the suburbs. He was of the opinion that the freezing mark would not be touched in the city. Today, it is expected, will be cloudy, but fair weather is indicated for tomorrow.

Frosts were reported yesterday in North Dakota and Canada, and marks below freezing in Canada. There also were light snows north of the border and in South Dakota.

BRITONS VOTE BY BIG MAJORITY TO ISOLATE NATION

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Daily Express has recently sent representatives to 689,301 homes to ask the question:

"Are you in favor of Great Britain isolating itself from all foreign entanglements, treaties and understandings and refusing to engage its armed forces in any war unless our territory or that of our dominions and possessions is menaced?"

The paper announced tonight that 606,165, or 87.9 per cent of those voting, replied "Yes." Only 18,670, or 2 per cent of those voting, favored foreign commitments. Nine and a half per cent refused to vote, and .6 per cent were indefinite.

STATE ORDERS 52 INSANE WOMEN TO BE STERILIZED

Vinita, Okla., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Oklahoma board of affairs today ordered the sterilization of fifty-two women inmates after a hearing at the Eastern Oklahoma Hospital for the Insane.

It was the largest group ever ordered sterilized in the state. Eleven patients were operated upon at the Central State hospital at Norman some weeks ago and as a result of a hearing at the state penitentiary at McAlester a test case has been appealed to determine whether the new state law applies to habitual criminals.

There was no opposition to the sterilization orders here.

Rob Daughter of Sherif; Then Action Starts

Rosemary Tiffany, 16 years old, daughter of Sherif Lester Tiffany of Lake county, and a party of five other high school boys and girls, were held up last night about three miles northwest of Waukegan while returning from a school party and robbed of Rosemary's car.

Less than half an hour afterward Sherif Tiffany, with the party of young people in his car, sighted the two bandits in Rosemary's machine and opened fire. The gunmen fled on foot, abandoning the automobile.

Small Sedan Blocks Road.

Rosemary told her father that she had been forced to stop her car when a small sedan blocked the road. The two robbers then appeared, both holding guns, and demanded money.

There was a total of about 35 cents in cash in the crowd and Rosemary saved a diamond ring by holding it in her mouth. The bandits took her car, leaving their own. Getting to a telephone, Rosemary called her father, who came after the group, with Deputy George Tiffany, his brother.

Leaving George at the scene, the sherif drove the young people toward Waukegan. At the outskirts of the town, near Glen Flora and Pine streets, Rosemary sighted her car with the two robbers in it. Calling to the boys and girls to lie on the floor, Sherif Tiffany gave chase, firing as he drove.

Two Robbers Flee Afoot.

Within a few blocks the fleeing gunmen abandoned the car and ran away. A short time later other deputies summoned by the sherif arrested two Chicago youths found in the vicinity of the abandoned automobile.

The youths were Steve Bardiel, 17 years old, 4506 South Laflin street, and Frank Nendza, 18 years old, 4513 South Laflin street. The two denied any knowledge of the holdup and declared they were in Waukegan to visit relatives.

The young people with Rosemary, who is a student at the Holy Child High school in Waukegan, were Rosemary Barker, 993 East Maplewood avenue, Lake Forest; Gertrude Guerin, 726 Grand avenue, Waukegan; Edward Durkin, 224 Ridgeland avenue, Waukegan; Timothy Killoran, 1710 Monroe street, Waukegan, and Theodore Goldsmith, 915 Hickory street, Waukegan.

The girls attend the same high school as does Rosemary and the boys are all pupils in the Waukegan Township High school.

RAINBOW MEETS ENDEAVOUR IN FIRST OF SERIES

British Make 15th Cup Challenge.

Today's Sports

The international race between Rainbow and Endeavour today is the leading event of the busiest sports program of the season. Besides the yacht race, today's big sporting events include:

The Ross-McLarnin championship fight.

The third game of the series between the New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, which may decide the pennant in the National league.

The $100,000 Belmont Futurity at Belmont Park, the richest horse race of the year.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—As a billion dollar audience awaits the first of the America's Cup races here tomorrow, perhaps the most refreshing and interest-inspiring aspect of the encounter is the utter uncertainty concerning the outcome.

Some knowing lads around New York City have been offering odds of 8 to 5 in favor of the Endeavour, the British challenger, to win over the Rainbow, the American defender. But the experts wax scornful at the idea of either yacht being made favorite. Not until at least two races have been run may odds justifiably be posted, they declare.

So small a matter as a difference of two miles an hour in the strength of a breeze may determine the winner, according to the authorities.

The Weather's the Thing.

In fact, the more one delves into this matter of yacht racing the more it is apparent that it may be compared only to a game of chess, with this difference—that the board is a white-capped stretch of ocean and the pieces are two magnificent creations of burnished bronze and gleaming steel, clean white pine, and snowy canvas.

But these costly pawns will be moved over a large expanse of sea with all of the caution of two deliberate graybeards toying with ivory pieces on a chessboard. The angling into position for a favorable start; the breaking out of an extra sail to catch a fugitive breeze; the zigzagging along the course for the best position—any one of these may prove the winning move. So say the experts.

Just how delicate a matter the navigation of racing yachts has become may be judged from the fact that the Rainbow is favored to win if the breeze remains at ten knots or less. If the wind increases to a speed greater than that the Endeavour should have the edge. Inasmuch as the average September breeze around these parts is about 12 knots, the British boat should therefore have an advantage if the weather runs true to form.

British Crew Inexperienced.

On the other hand, there is said to be no comparison between the rival crews. The professionals under Harold S. Vanderbilt on the American yacht have been trained for years in their jobs. The owner of the British yacht, who rejoices in the name of Thomas Octave Murdoch Sopwith, has a crew of amateurs and a few professionals. The amateurs have never worked aboard a big boat before, their experience being confined to craft of ten tons and less, mere rowboats when compared to the America's Cup yachts.

Again the weather will enter into the chances of the two contestants. If there is a wind free from shifts the American crew will not have a chance to shine. It will be a matter of setting sails and letting the fastest boat win. But it is only one of the fascinating features of this sport that the fastest boat often does not win.

The starting gun will be fired at 12:40 p. m. tomorrow. The first race will be over a distance of 30 miles, 15 miles into the wind and 15 miles back to the starting buoy. If neither of the competitors finishes within five hours, the race is off, such speed being considered beneath the dignity of international competition.

Provisions of the America's Cup contest provide that one yacht must win

Tippling Juror 'Hics' Way Into Contempt Cell

When a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington retired Thursday evening to debate the case of James H. McMasters, charged with the embezzlement of $3,000, there was an immediate division.

The foreman, Robert H. Wellington of 532 Sheridan road, Evanston, called for a vote on the guilt of McMasters. Nine jurors voted guilty. Two voted not guilty. The twelfth juror, John A. Morrison of 3304 Harrison street, didn't vote, as no one present was able to interpret a series of hiccoughs he gave.

Thereupon the eleven other jurors exercised their police power. They took Morrison into a washroom and gave him a cold bath. They took a bottle away from him [it was well-nigh exhausted anyhow] and they let the cool autumn winds play on his brow. These measures eventually restored him to thick-tongued speech, and another vote was called for.

"Give Him a [Hic!] Break."

"Guilty [hic]!" said Morrison. "But give 'm a [hic] break." In all succeeding ballots his answer was the same, composed in equal parts of guilties, hics and breaks.

The division on the merits of the case was then ten to two. And there it remained until it was plain a disagreement must be announced. At 10:30 p. m. the jurors filed into court, with Morrison leaning heavily on two of his mates and blinking owlishly.

Judge Harrington accepted the disagreement report, and the trial of McMasters, who was alleged to have defrauded Misses Nellie, Etta, Mary, and Genevieve McCormick, sisters, was officially declared a mistrial.

Others Reprimanded, Words.

But the other indignant jurors let it leak out that Morrison was incompetent, and the judge yesterday called the twelve before him. The sober ones related that the twelfth man had been nibbling at his bottle all during the trial Thursday and that when they went out to dinner before retiring they had to hold him up. In the restaurant, under the watchful eye of the guarding bailif, they filled him with coffee and soup.

But, alas, Juror Morrison was unable to profit from these ministrations. All he could hold, it appeared, was liquor. So the eleven jurors testified, and Judge Harrington ordered a contempt citation prepared. Morrison, who still felt bad, declared he only took the liquor because he was ill and didn't think he could get through the case without it.

For Old Times' Sake.

When Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty declared that his was a serious offense, Morrison said:

"You can't get away with that, Charley [hic]. I know you for twenty years."

Mr. Dougherty did get away with it, however. Despite a plea of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach for leniency, the bottle nibbling juror was sentenced to jail for ten days.

NRA CHIEF SAYS LABOR VIOLATES ITS AGREEMENT

Norman Thomas Is Also Assailed.

BULLETIN.

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, denounced Gen. Hugh S. Johnson tonight for his "unwarrantable utterances" before metropolitan area code authorities and for his "prejudiced intrusion into the textile situation."

(Pictures on Back Page.)

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, charged in a speech here tonight that the textile strike was in "absolute violation" of an agreement made by the United Textile Workers with the government last June in settling the strike threatened at that time.

"If such agreements of organized labor are worth no more than this one," he added, "then that institution is not such a responsible instrumentality as can make contracts on which this country can rely."

Addresses Code Leaders.

The general was the principal speaker at a meeting of NRA code authorities at Carnegie hall. Other speakers were Mayor F. H. La Guardia, Grover Whalen, chairman of the retail code authority for New York City; Nathan Straus Jr., recently resigned as head of the state consumers' advisory board of the NRA, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Gen. Johnson specifically charged Thomas McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, with bad faith at the time the textile code was adopted.

Blames Norman Thomas.

Charging that the strike was "political" rather than for the improvement of economic conditions, Gen. Johnson warned that you "cannot unleash the forces of riot and rebellion, because you never know when you can control them."

He declared that the strike had been called, despite the previous agreement, because Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and others had circulated among the delegates to the union convention, telling them that the men would be fed by the government if they went on strike.

The cotton textile industry, he went on, was the last one in which a strike should be called, as increased costs under the code and the processing tax had doubled the costs of cotton goods.

Asks Industrial Unions.

Gen. Johnson revealed that he had proposed to the industrial advisory board today that it recommend the organization of industrial unions, one for each big industry, instead of craft unions or company unions. He predicted such an announcement would be made in a day or so and hoped it would bring peace between labor and capital.

As to the proposed reorganization of NRA agreed upon by President Roosevelt and himself at Hyde Park the other day Gen. Johnson said he favored the breakdown of its functions in executive, legislative, and judicial branches, because now "NRA is too big to be right" and too much power was concentrated in his hands. The quicker his present power was taken from him, he added, the better he would like it.

"Let somebody else stop some of the dead cats," he remarked.

Text of Speech.

Gen. Johnson recounted the history of the textile situation from the beginning, telling of the part McMahon had in the negotiations. McMahon was the only textile union man mentioned.

"This is possibly the worst time in the world to make a speech," Gen. Johnson continued. "I know that you are all concerned with many things. What about the textile strike? What about the reorganization of NRA? And so forth, ad infinitum.

"All these things are so much in the formative stage that there is almost nothing I can say to you, and as much as I know your concern and as much as I would like to clear up your doubts, there is almost nothing that I can say to you.

"But if we cannot talk specifically, perhaps we can get somewhere with pure generalities. I know that you do not mind a man talking straight from the shoulder about all. That is what you want in these days of excursions and alarms. I want to say a word about the textile strike.

"The textile code was the first one to be presented under NRA," he said. "I had been working on it as as March, 1932, long before Mr. Roosevelt became President.

"After exhaustive studies it was determined that a forty hour week would reemploy all the people normally attached to the textile industry.

"Tom McMahon sat in on the arbitration and agreed with that result. Of all the codes the textile code was subject to the most exhaustive analysis, and became a precedent for all others.

"But the moment the hearing opened and without any notice to me of a change of heart, he appeared on the platform in our first great goldfish bowl proceedings and repudiated the agreement that he made with me in the preliminary discussion.

Experience Not Encouraging.

"It was my first experience with organized labor in the textile industry and it was not encouraging. Last June a strike was threatened in the textile industry.

"We reached an agreement on that controversy and on that agreement the strike was called off. The present strike is in absolute violation of that understanding. And I must say here with all the solemnity which has characterized such an announcement that if such agreements of organized labor are worth no more than this one, then that institution is not such a responsible instrumentality as can make contracts on which this country can rely."

"But I would not condemn these men cavalierly. I know young Gorman [chairman of the textile strike committee]. I doubt if there is a more conscientious patriot and sincere man in the country than he.

Unleash Forces of Riot.

"The trouble is that when you unleash the forces of riot and rebellion you never know when you can control them. I know now how this strike was pulled in contravention of the solemn engagements of the federation. Men circulated around the delegates and told them that the government would feed the strikers. Norman Thomas appeared and urged the strike. He is a politico. Whatever there is of economic doctrines in the Socialist party, it is political first and economic afterward, and Norman Thomas—as much as I respect and admire him—had no business there. When a strike becomes political it has no place in the ex|con of the NRA.

Code Increases Employment.

"The cotton textile industry is the very last place in this country where a strike should be ordered. It was the first industry to come forward with a code. The code increased employment by 140,000, or nearly 33 1-3 per cent.

"According to our studies it increased hourly wage rates by 70 per cent. When I think of George Sloan [head of the Textile institute] my heart weeps. I knew what kind of opposition he went up against.

"He overcame it all and got these concessions for labor which were opposed by practically the whole industry. It is a pity that he now has to take the rap in the dissension between labor and management of the whole proposition.

"What is it that labor now demands? A thirty hour week, a 25 per cent increase in the wages of labor. But adding the processing tax to the increase in the price of cotton and increase of labor wages under NRA, the cost of cotton goods has been doubled."

"The increase in the price of raw cotton alone has been 100 per cent—and the farmer and the workman are yet to be heard from. The price of overalls and cotton work gloves has increased 100 per cent.

His Idea of NRA.

"NRA has been attacked as obscure. As a matter of fact, it is very plain. It guarantees to labor the right to bargain collectively, through representatives of their own choosing. To my mind that is a right which is absolutely essential in our modern industrial environment.

"Industry, under NRA, is given the right to organize to the ultimate. Labor should also have that right. The other day a commentator in Harper's magazine said that in the first draft of the law the right of labor to organize was omitted.

"As a matter of fact, labor did not want that right written into the statute. They thought they had that right inalienably, and so did I.

"I have today proposed to the industrial advisory board—and I think with their complete agreement—that they recommend to their employes industrial organization of labor not company union, but industrial unions—one for the steel industry, one for the cotton textile industry, and so forth.

"I think that this is now a matter of moments, and I hope that it will bring peace to the most distressed situation that has arisen under the recovery act.

"As you know," he said, "Justice Brandeis thinks that anything that is too big is bound to be wrong. He thinks NRA is too big and I agree with him.

"I don't know whether dividing it up in this fashion will satisfy his idea or not, but I want to make one thing very plain—whatever there is of reorganization in NRA will be worked out by the President—and no one else.

"I think there is such a thing as too much power to repose in the hands of one man and I have said that over and over again. And the quicker it is divested from me the better I will like it."

Strike Union Acts to Cripple Textile Shipments to U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—While the President's textile inquiry board was obtaining additional data today for its report to President Roosevelt, union leaders laid plans to cripple shipments of textiles from foreign countries.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the United Textile Workers of America strike committee, announced that the union is appealing "to all transport workers to stop shipments of textiles to the United States from other countries."

"We are calling upon workers in the United States to refuse to handle imported textiles in every case where such textiles are imported to replace products that normally are made in this country," he declared.

The unions to which the appeal was made are the longshoremen, seamen, clerks, and freight handlers.

Gorman was asked whether such action contemplated sympathetic strikes. He said that this would not be necessary if the ship owners and other employers agreed to the request of the respective unions and refrained from unloading the imported cargo.

The decision to ask support from other unions was made as a result of recent reports from London to the effect that textile manufacturers in certain lines abroad are receiving large orders for their goods from selling agents in this country.

"Today strike lines are longer than ever," Gorman said. "The strike situation is just about perfect. Reports that workers in a few scattered cases have gone back to work indicate that the employers are trying to pump hope into their case by spreading alarms. The fact is that more workers go out every day. The number on strike today is the largest since the strike began."

NEED FOR ARMY PASSES

Providence, R. I., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The textile strike situation in this strife torn state was so quiet over night that "there will be no occasion for calling on the federal government for troops," Gov. Theodore Green announced today after a conference with Adjt. Gen. Herbert R. Dean of the National Guard. The state legislature met and adjourned today without taking action on the request for federal troops made by the governor yesterday.

The closing of the Sayles Finishing company and the Woonsocket Rayon company plants have helped to relieve the situation considerably, the governor said.

Meanwhile regular army troops, called back from drills in Maine and Massachusetts, were ready for strike action in this state, and other regular units assembled at New York army bases.

More Guardsmen on March.

At the same time more National Guard troops were ordered into the Connecticut strike area to augment the 500 soldiers already in the field. At Sterling two National Guard planes took the air to watch activities of 2,000 pickets at the U. S. Finishing company mill.

In Maine, too, there was martial action. A battalion of the National Guard was ordered to Biddeford to protect mills from "flying squadrons" of strike rioters.

Gov. Green, in declaring the Rhode Island situation under control for the time being, made it clear that his order to arrest all known communists stands.

The governor said he is not attempting to interfere with the preaching of the communist doctrine. His order to arrest all known communists was merely to question them to determine what part, if any, they may have played in inciting riots, he said.

In compliance with the governor's order twenty-five men and three girls were arrested here but were released after questioning. Fifteen others who were arrested yesterday and last night are still held.

Forty persons accused of looting in Woonsocket, the scene of the most serious disorders, are still being held, some having received terms of six months each in the workhouses.

Two Minor Outbreaks.

The only disturbance of the morning occurred at Warwick, ten miles distant, where two minor outbreaks were reported. Seventy-five guardsmen were sent there to preserve order.

New England faced another strike tonight, although not directly in connection with the textile walkout. It was that of the National Wool Sorters' association. Three thousand workers were ordered out at 11:30 o'clock in a demand for more pay and a 30 hour week.

U. S. Army Forces Ready.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The United States army forces standing by here for a possible call to the Rhode Island textile strike area were reinforced today by 800 additional soldiers from Camp Dix, N. J. The additional troops arrived on a special Pennsylvania train and were moved to Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn.

These 800 augmented 2,000 troops already at Fort Hamilton, Fort Wadsworth, S. I., and on Governor's Island.

More Bloodshed in South.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Rioting and bloodshed marked the southern sector in the national textile strike today as more National Guardsmen were ordered to mills in North Carolina and Georgia.

At Concord, N. C., Sergt. Charles A. Fleming of a machine gun company of the 109th cavalry was stabbed in a battle with 250 strike rioters in front of a Cannon mill. The soldiers, using fire hose, tear gas, and bayonets, finally drove the mob from the mill gates. Arthur Fortner was arrested as the mob's leader.

At Burlington, N. C., five persons were slightly injured by bayonets in clashes between guards and pickets at the E. M. Holt plaid mill.

Gov. Talmadge, in his call for more troops in Georgia, said he would station them at all mills if pickets continued to annoy workers.

Flees from Holdup Men and Is Shot in Shoulder

William Karafiat, 49 years old, of 4220 West 21st place, was shot through the shoulder last night by holdup men, who accosted him as he was nearing his home. According to Karafiat a car containing four or five men pulled up to the curb near him and two men jumped out, calling on him to halt. Karafiat fled and was wounded when the gunmen shot after him. His assailants then sped away in their car.

PRESIDENT SAYS HE IS PREPARED TO ACT IN STRIKE

Goes Aboard Nourmahal for Yacht Races.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt announced just before noon here today that he was still ready to take immediate action in the Rhode Island strike violence and then left aboard Vincent Astor's luxurious yacht Nourmahal for the international yacht races at Newport.

The President reiterated a White House statement of last night that Secretary of War Dern and Maj. Gen. Fox Connor, commander of the 1st corps area, would be dispatched to the scenes of the rioting to make a special report if the Rhode Island legislature requested federal troops. In any event, the President added, Secretary Dern and Gen. Connor will come aboard the Astor yacht at Fort Adams, at Newport, tomorrow.

Secretary at Cape Cod.

These military authorities today were at Cape Cod, Mass., inspecting a canal. It was announced that the conference with the President aboard the Nourmahal tomorrow morning would determine whether he would attend the America's Cup races or disembark and take a destroyer.

The President's course will be determined by events, but it was stated in official quarters that he confidently expects the situation to permit his attending the races. Only renewed outbreaks of violence and the absolute necessity of ordering out the regular army would change his plans.

Newport Near Strike Center.

The President is fortunate in the sense that Newport is very near the strike centers of Woonsocket and Saylesville, which, in his own words, will provide perfect liaison facilities.

The President was driven from his mother's Hyde Park estate by automobile to the dock of the Dutton Lumber company here, where the Nourmahal was tied up. Wearing a blue suit and a white panama hat, he went aboard in a drizzling rain. His mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, accompanied him to the boat.

None of the family accompanied him on the trip, but his son James was to go aboard at New York. The President took no secretaries, only secret service operatives accompanying him.

SCHOOLS CLOSE, FARMERS VISIT WITH LINDBERGHS

Woodward, Okla., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, forced down here yesterday when their plane developed motor trouble, held court for hundreds of western Oklahoma plainsmen, ranchers, and school children today in the farm home of Homer Aitkens, where they stayed overnight.

Schools were closed and teachers brought their pupils to the Aitkens farm in buses. Farmers sat on the porch with Lindbergh and talked about drouth, crops, and the farm program.

MYSTERY SHOT KILLS PRINCIPAL OF BOYS' SCHOOL

Northfield, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Elliott Speer, principal of the Mount Hermon Preparatory School of Boys, was shot to death tonight, state police said, as he sat in the study of his home on the school campus. His assailant fired through the window of the room, wounding him in the chest. He died shortly afterward.

Mrs. Speer and Dr. and Mrs. Welles of Philadelphia, her parents, were the only persons in the house at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Speer and her father told officers they heard the sound of the shot and ran to the study, where they found Speer attempting to walk from the room, but he collapsed in their arms. They summoned Dr. H. G. Stetson of Greenfield, but Speer died before his arrival.

There were two large holes in the window of the study and police said they were made by the discharge of a shotgun. They dug several pellets from the farther wall of the room and said several of them had entered Speer's chest.

Speer, about 35 years old, was the son of the Rev. Robert Elliott Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. No motive could be assigned for his slaying by members of his family.

Speer's home, known as Ford Hall, is one of several buildings on the campus which house the faculty of the school. The room in which he was slain overlooks a large lawn from which the shot was fired. The rest of the house is surrounded by woods which come almost to the building.

CLEANERS FAIL TO REACH PACT ON PRICE SCALE

Two Chains Will Open Plants Today.

Efforts to reach an agreement that would bring an end to the tieup of the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago, which has now endured for ten days, failed last night.

At the close of a conference of the interested groups in the Stevens hotel it was announced that the lockout of employes of the Cleaning and Dyeing Plant Owners' association and the picketing of nonunion plants would continue. Represented at the parley were the association, the five independent cut rate cleaning plants, the Unity Retail Cleaners and Dyers, or small tailor shop owners, and the union workers of the industry.

Price Scale Suggested.

It was suggested by the independent plant owners that prices be stabilized at 69 cents a garment, cash and carry, and 85 cents a garment for delivered work. These prices were regarded by the other plant owners as satisfactory and they were willing to go along with such an agreement for ninety days.

The small tailors' group, however, insisted that they be given the right to cancel on fifteen days' notice if they found any competitors were not observing the standard price scale. On this point the conference foundered and the representatives all departed.

Association members locked out their employes, who are all unionized, on Sept. 5. They announced that they could not continue to operate while paying the union scale in competition with price cutting by chain establishments, some of which were paying their help only the minimum set by the NRA cleaning and dyeing code, less than half the union scale.

500,000 Garments Tied Up.

As soon as the lockout became effective unions in the industry called out their employes in the plant of the Becker cleaners, the only one of the five independents then unionized, and forced the other plants to organize by picketing. As a result, the city has been without cleaning facilities since and some 500,000 garments are tied up in the closed plants.

The Becker concern and the Sanitary-Sterling cleaning chain, which has signed a contract with the cleaning and dyeing unions since the lockout started, expect to re-open today. Union officials would not say last night whether they would permit their members to work in the plants.

It was made plain, however, that the plants of the Peacock chain, the Checker chain and Aberbaneli Brothers, which are not unionized, would be picketed vigorously.

Peter Spomar, 7657 Cottage Grove avenue, who operates cleaning stores at 7657 Cottage Grove avenue and 1029 East 82nd street, was severely beaten last evening by one of ten men who found him at work in the latter place.

Spomar told police that they demanded to know why he had reopened the shops, which had been closed for a week, and refused to accept his explanation that he interpreted a radio news broadcast yesterday afternoon to mean that the tieup of the industry had been ended.

Illinois Federation of Labor Asks More Education Funds

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Becoming school minded, the Illinois Federation of Labor today went on record as favoring an increase from seventeen and one-half to 30 million dollars in the state school distributive fund. Discussion of the resolution was to the effect that the federation should in the future take the lead in matters of education.

The proposed increase, while unanimously voted for, brought forth views from Secretary Victor A. Olander and others that labor should do its own thinking on school legislation or leaders of organized teachers must show a way to go faster.

Tells Illinois' Ranking.

The resolution asserted that Illinois is third in wealth, 42d in its educational standards, according to the United States bureau of education, and fifth in its share of school support borne by state government.

Secretary Olander said he did not want to appear critical of organized teachers and their leadership, but that it is the duty of the federation to raise the standards of education. He urged officials of local unions and central bodies to be more active in school affairs in their respective districts.

Serious consideration of any break with organized teachers in the educational-legislative fields was urged by John Walker, former state president and now business manager for union teachers in Chicago.

Adult Education Approved.

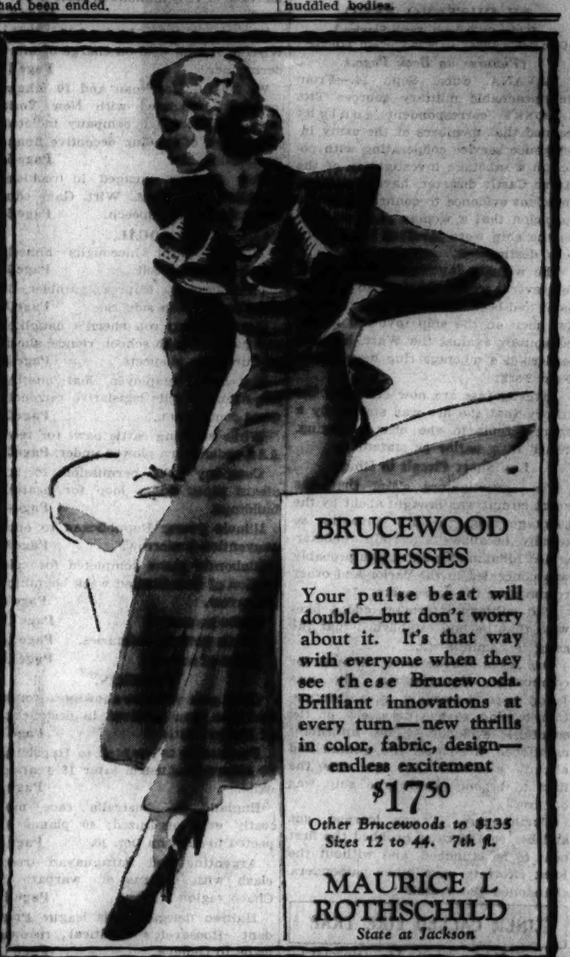

State and local governments were urged to increase the proportion of tax funds allotted to education. Adult education with the aid of federal and state funds was approved with the recommendation that the work be in charge of professional teachers who otherwise would be unemployed.

The federation went on record favoring a six hour day for employes in all Illinois industries and a five day week.

Seven Mountain Climbers Found Dead; One a Yank

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 14.—(AP)—On famous Mount Zugspitze, the highest in Germany, seven mountain climbers were found dead today, probably from freezing. One of them was Karl Arnman, 23, a resident of East Hartford, Conn. Missing for two days, the mountain climbers, three of them women, were believed to have lost their way. The bodies were found upon a ledge. Thirty expert guides, assisted by an airplane, located the huddled bodies.

STATE EMPLOYES LOAF ON THE JOB, COMMITTEE TOLD

Attorney Charges Two Do Work of One.

In their search for means of reducing the costs of state government, the legislative retrenchment commission was told yesterday that state house employes at Springfield spend considerable time gossiping in the corridors and resting with their heels on their desks, particularly when the general assembly is meeting.

Paul Mathias, attorney for the Illinois Agricultural association, was authority for that statement, given before the commission in the offices of Attorney General Kerner at 33 North La Salle street. He also expressed wonder that twelve janitors are necessary to keep in order the Illinois Supreme court building, not a large structure, and suggested an inquiry into the parallel duties of the state highway police and the automobile investigators who operate out of the secretary of state's office.

Mentions "Rabbit Shepherds."

Before the lawyer finished he also paid his respects to the department of conservation and its corps of "rabbit shepherds"—game wardens—and the state's method of inspecting foods and dairies, and weights and standards, suggesting, in the latter case, that at present two men often do the work that one could do.

"The administration," said Mathias, "has issued ord-rs to stop the 'resting' which goes on about the corridors, but it would appear that there are too many employes or else they are not competent to do their work—perhaps both. Conditions can't improve until it is realized that the distribution of patronage often alienates as many people as i. satisfies."

Mathias suggested that the commission also determine why the highway police and the auto investigators have the same duties. "The police," he said, "are not patroling the highways as they used to. No one ever sees them. It's also true that you seldom encounter a game warden."

Fish Car Conductor Gets $1,800.

"Right along that line, here's an interesting thing," broke in Senator R. W. Karraker [Dem., Jonesboro], who had been studying the budget. "We're paying somebody $1,800 a year to be a fish car conductor. I wonder what he does?"

The question went unanswered and Mathias turned to the food and weight inspection units. Often, he said, inspectors for both divisions travel the same territory on the same day.

"One merchant told me," came another interruption from Karraker, "that he was so busy entertaining inspectors he couldn't wait on the trade."

While Mathias' testimony provided the most sprightly incidents of the day, the commission also heard Simeon E. Leland of the state tax commission; John C. Watson, tax expert for the agricultural association, and then went across the street to the city hall for a visit with Mayor Kelly.

Promises Reduction in Jobs.

The mayor told the chairman, Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], that park consolidation would result in reduction of jobs through the abolition of overlapping work in the smaller park districts. He also advised against recommendations for the consolidation of villages near the city with Chicago. "They want their own home rule," he said.

When Senator Karraker asked his opinion on the abolition of sheriffs and the substitution of a county police force which has been suggested to the commission, the mayor said he doubted if a county force would prove more efficient than the present sheriff system.

The mayor did suggest that Chicago's city treasurer and clerk be made appointive offices and that the city controler be made the fiscal officer of the city.

While it had no recommendations to make at the end of the day's session the commission will meet again tomorrow and plans several other public hearings, probably at Springfield, before the assembly convenes in January. A report will be submitted then.

NATHAN HAS IT! BUSINESS SENSE; HERE IS PROOF

Nathan Cohen, owner of a tavern at 1410 Roosevelt road, was a business man at all times yesterday. Shortly before 1 a. m. closing he noted two youths loitering near the door. As a matter of prudence he removed $300 from the cash register and hid it under the bar.

He was right. The two were robbers and all they found was $26.40 and four quarts of whisky. Cohen at once telephoned the police and a radio message resulted in the capture of the robbers at Western avenue and Madison street. They identified themselves as Joseph Catrina, 28 years old, 914 South Ashland avenue, and Thomas Russo, 25 years old, 1511 Elburn avenue. They had the money and the liquor, which Cohen at once claimed.

"We must hold the money and liquor for evidence," explained Sergt. John Gapinsky of the detective bureau. Cohen refused to sign a complaint against the two prisoners until he was given the personal receipt of Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan for the money and liquor. One receipt was refused because it did not mention the liquor. Then the complaints were brought to Cohen in blank.

"I won't sign the blank form," Cohen stated. "It might be a mortgage on my property."

It was duly filled out, then signed, and Cohen, with his receipt, returned to his bar.

2 SHOT, 1 STABBED IN BATTLE OVER WINE MAKING

Chris Demos and Peter Besbes had a quarrel over who could make the best wine, and the result was a free-for-all fight in a rooming house at 772 Congress street last night, in which two men were shot and a third stabbed.

The most seriously hurt is Eracleys Vitourkis, alias Harry Kallas, who lives at the Congress street address. He was shot in the chest and shoulder, and at the County hospital it was said he may die.

Demos, 53 years old, 722 South Halsted street, was shot in the arm and leg; and Besbes, 52 years old, also of 772 Congress street, was stabbed over the eye. Both are in the Bridewell hospital.

Demos, who has his left arm amputated just above the elbow, told Detective John Hannon of the Des Plaines street police, that he and Besbes had quarreled over the merits of their respective wines, both charging the other with stealing customers.

As a result, he said, Besbes beat him with his fists. Last night, accompanied by Vitourkis, Demos went to Besbes' room, where the quarrel was renewed. Besbes began shooting after Vitourkis drew a knife and stabbed him.

AAA ORDERS CORN KILLED AS COWS BAWL FOR FEED

10 Acres Plowed Under; Cattle Starving.

The New Deal crop reduction program is being discussed heatedly by neighbors of Carl Gable, whose farm is in the northern part of Will county near Lockport, since AAA officials ordered—and saw the order carried out—that Gable plow under ten acres of mature corn.

There is no question that Gable signed with the Agricultural Adjustment administration last spring to reduce his corn crop to 86 acres, nor that he planted 96 acres. He was to receive $262 for the corn he didn't grow. But when Gable, at the command of the local burocrats, went out with a disk and destroyed the ten acres of good feed, the sensibilities of veteran farmers who cannot become accustomed to wanton waste were shocked.

Feed Supplies Meager.

Their own feed supplies are meager, in many instances too meager to carry their live stock through the winter. The drouth has made great ravages in their fields. And not far away, in the West Chicago stockyards, are numerous cattle purchased by the government in even more drouth stricken areas, awaiting transportation to sections where there is ample feed, if AAA officials can find such sections.

"It's a pitiful sound to hear those cattle with their ribs sticking out bawling for feed," said one farmer. "And a pitiful sight to see Gable's corn being cut to pieces when it's so badly needed. It looks like flying in the face of Providence to ruin any of the little we got this year."

Many Can't Buy Feed.

A few miles away from the Gable farm, near Orland Park and Lemont, there are farmers who have been unable to feed their cattle and hogs this summer and who assert they cannot afford to buy imported feed at current Gable himself is not well fixed as to feed. His herd of dairy cows already has eaten half a silofui of green corn. He was refilling it yesterday from the permitted 86 acres. It is a long time until the spring pastures will be available, and those cattle will eat a lot of ensilage in the ensuing months.

Generally speaking, the neighboring farmers hold that a contract is a contract and that Gable should not have planted more than 86 acres.

"But," they maintained, "the government men used high pressure methods to get the signup. Every bit of corn that's grown is needed now and it looks like the government could have found some way to save that ten acres. You can't end this thing right by telling Gable he cuts down the corn or gets no check for signing up."

HAPSBURGS GOING BACK TO AUSTRIA; END 16 YEAR EXILE

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BRUSSELS, Sept. 14.—The Hapsburgs at last are going home to Austria.

Sources close to the royal family that once ruled the mighty empire of Austria-Hungary said this evening that former Empress Zita, widow of Emperor Charles I., who lost his throne in the upheaval that followed the world war, expects to be living in Austria by Christmas.

Preparations are already under way at Steenockerzeel castle here for the return of Zita and her eight children, including Archduke Otto, the Hapsburg pretender to the thrones of Austria and Hungary.

Permission has been granted the family, it was understood, to reside in Austria as plain, ordinary citizens of that present day republic.

Tonight Zita, her month's stay at Villa Pianore, the Bourbon-Parma estate at Viareggio, Italy, at an end, was hurrying back to Brussels, while Otto, too, was en route to the castle here after his tour of Scandinavia.

At Viareggio, just before her departure, Zita received King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy, and after their call the "unofficial" engagement of Otto to Princess Maria of Italy was made known.

Otto Must Give Pledge.

But for Zita that triumph of matchmaking must have been surpassed by the knowledge that her sixteen years of exile—an exile that has sent her to Madeira, to Spain, to France, to Italy, to Belgium—was nearing its end.

If they go back to Austria, it was stated here, Otto must expressly promise that he will in no way seek to bring about the monarchy's restoration—unless Europe's great powers, their interest focused on Austria by the last year's events, consent.

In exchange for Otto's word, it was explained, part of the Hapsburgs' great estates confiscated after the fall of the dynasty will be returned to them.

An agreement to this effect was reached recently at conferences among the powers, it was said.

It was understood here that the little entente (Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania), strongly opposed to restoration of the Hapsburgs in Austria or Hungary, would not protest their return to Austria, but would hold the Vienna government entirely responsible for events of the future.

"Impossible," Austria Says.

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said tonight that the return to Austria of the Hapsburg family, even as private individuals, is "still impossible."

Some member of the Hapsburg family may be allowed to return to represent the family in the long pending lawsuit over the Hapsburgs' properties, he said, but this is not likely to be Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne, because of the danger that disturbances might result from his presence.

WISCONSIN MAN HELD AS SLAYER OF SWEETHEART

Find Girl Dying in Ditch; Victim Beaten.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Lawrence Kilmer, 26, was named in a warant charging first degree murder this afternoon following the slaying of Miss Agatha Arnold, 23, with whom he had been keeping company for years.

Miss Arnold was found unconscious this morning in a ditch alongside highway 41 near Byron. She had been beaten, suffering a fractured skull, a broken leg, and many bruises. She died a half hour after being brought to a hospital.

Undersheriff G. W. Booth advanced the theory that the girl was slain under the tireless wheel of an automobile. He said Kilmer was seen putting a wheel on his auto.

Kilmer Seized Near Scene.

Kilmer was arrested when authorities, summoned by persons who found the girl in the ditch, saw him running through a nearby corn field.

Authorities said that Kilmer admitted that he and Miss Arnold were at a tavern party last night. He denies knowing anything about her death, however.

Clark Arnold, father of the girl, was disarmed twice today. He went to the jail and asked to be sworn in as a deputy to guard Kilmer. Officers took a revolver from him. He appeared later at the police station and a second weapon was taken from him.

Pleads Not Guilty.

When arraigned before Judge H. M. Fellens this afternoon Kilmer pleaded not guilty. He was taken back to jail to await a hearing Sept. 27.

Authorities were informed by several persons who had been at the Byron tavern that Miss Arnold and Kilmer had quarreled.

Harry Hicken of Fond du Lac told authorities, he said, that he left the tavern shortly after Kilmer and Miss Arnold. He saw the unconscious young woman in the ditch. While Hicken was trying to put her in his automobile, he is quoted by authorities as saying, Kilmer tried to pull her away. Finally, Hicken said, he pushed Kilmer away and drove with the young woman to the hospital.

Asserts Woman, Two Men Burned Morro Castle.

He said the lumps of lampblack from the boilers left oily spots, so that in the course of the past four years of service not only the decks, but also the boats and life rafts had become thoroughly oil soaked, ready to blaze like the firebox under the boilers.

Fire Seemed to Rush.

"The fire seemed to rush along the deck," said Junior Electrician Joseph Penner, who fought it on a deck with a hose.

He added that he and two seamen tried to throw the life rafts over the side for passengers, but after they had picked the top raft off a pile between the smokestacks the others burst into flame as if spontaneously.

The previous fire fighting experience of John Kempf, New York City fireman, who was a passenger on the Morro Castle, contained nothing like the Morro Castle blaze.

"I never saw anything so inflammable as that ship," he asserted. "I saw the flames come down the deck and burn hoses."

The four steamboat inspectors, each questioning in turn, came at last to the fire drills and asked just how they were conducted. They learned from O'Sullivan that they occurred as often as the law prescribed, but that the crew did not really take its fire station "because we didn't want to disturb the passengers."

Fire Drills a Farce.

Instead, he said, the Sunday morning fire drills which have been cited heretofore as proof that the crew was properly trained consisted in assembling half the crew on the forward deck and half on the after deck and turning on a hose for a few minutes at both places.

"It is my honest belief," said O'Sullivan, "that a lot of the crew didn't know their fire stations."

As to fire or boat drills for the passengers, he said he never saw passengers called to assigned stations on the Morro Castle or on any other ship on which he had served.

Joseph Spiegle, able-bodied seaman in charge of the lifeboats on the starboard side, from which most of the boats succeeded in leaving the Morro Castle, said, however, that those who got away in the boats had no better chance than those who jumped into the sea with life preservers, because the buoyancy tanks in the lifeboats were pitted with rust.

Calls Buoyancy Tanks Bad.

If any of the lifeboats had turned over or been filled by the waves, he explained, the boat would have sunk because the buoyancy tanks were no good.

The inquiry will be resumed Monday morning. Mr. Hoover said he will go to Washington to make a routine verbal report to Secretary Roper. One fact that emerges from the evidence, so far, is the necessity for building ships to be fireproof in the superstructure as well as in the hull. He said he would seek to learn more next week of the contents of the writing room locker to determine what was kept there that burned so fiercely.

Meanwhile, department of justice agents, acting on orders from Washington, removed all that remained of the body of Capt. Robert R. Willmott, master of the ship, to Bellevue hospital.

The body, which consists of small bone fragments and ashes, arrived tonight from Asbury Park, and an analysis will be made tomorrow by toxicologists to determine, if possible, the exact cause of the skipper's death.

Capt. Willmott died at 8 p. m., Friday, supposedly of a heart attack induced by indigestion. The purpose of the autopsy will be to find out if possible if the captain met his death by poison or violence.

Attaches of the hospital said if the captain had been poisoned it would be difficult to find its traces in his remains unless it were a lead poisoning.

Francis X. Fay, head of the New York division of intelligence of the department of justice, said, however, it is his belief that other poisons could be revealed by an analysis.

BANK BECOMES OWNER OF SCHOOL; DOESN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Bellefonte academy, a preparatory school which failed to open this fall after operating 100 years, became the property of a bank today.

The new owner, the Fidelity Trust company, foreclosed on a $55,000 mortgage, but the bank officials admitted they didn't know what they would do with the school.

Bank officials said they owned only the real estate of the school, valued at $100,000. A spokesman said:

"We did not take over the personal property of Mr. Hughes. We do not have the books, the equipment, nor the charter for a school."

After obtaining the $55,000 loan Hughes is understood to have incorporated the school in a reorganization plan, which proved unsuccessful.

FREE 41 WOMEN JAILED FOR TAG DAY VIOLATION

Forty-one women arrested Thursday when they sold tags on the city streets without official permit were discharged yesterday by Judge Edward S. Scheffler in the Woman's court.

The women were taggers for the Chicago Federated Charities, which held the tag day in defiance of an order passed by the city council instructing the police to prohibit tagging. The arrests were made before the federated group gained an injunction restraining the city from interfering with the tag day.

City Prosecutor Michael Rosinia told the court since the women were of good families and there was no apparent intention to violate the law, he would suggest the charges be dropped. They were, and the women filed out with smiling faces.

DEATH DUE TO PNEUMONIA.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Harold Liss, 8 months old, 318 Loomis street, who was found dead in his crib Aug. 23, had died of bronchial pneumonia.

AUSTRALIA GOES TO POLLS; PICKS NEW PARLIAMENT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 15 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Three and a half million Australian men and women cast ballots today to elect the commonwealth's fourteenth parliament in triennial general elections. They filled the seventy-five seats in the house of representatives and the vacant half of the senate's thirty-six seats.

The issue was clear cut: Whether the United Australia party government of Prime Minister Joseph Lyons, thrust into power three years ago at a time when Australia seemed heading for financial chaos, was to be given a renewed mandate.

Supporting the Lyons ministry on all important questions was the country party of Dr. Earl Page.

Chief opposition was afforded by the Federal Labor party, under James Henry Scullin, whose Labor ministry was overthrown by Lyons in 1931. The extreme Laborites, under leadership of former Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales, carried out their own campaign.

OPEN TRIAL OF 7 ON BUCKET SHOP FRAUD CHARGES

Accused of $1,000,000 Investment Plot.

Trial of seven men charged with bucket shop operations which defrauded investors in the central west of more than $1,000,000 was begun yesterday before Judge Walter J. LaBuy of the Criminal court. The jury panel was exhausted yesterday afternoon after the selection of only two jurors, so Judge LaBuy ordered the trial postponed until Monday.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses, and with operating a confidence game. They are Len Rollnick, Ben Reuben, P. J. Greene, Barney Lavin, Ernest Wahl Simon, G. William Herbst, and Albert L. Sherman. Two other defendants, Henry Ellis and Harry Rudyns, are fugitives.

Reputable Concerns Acquired.

According to Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Wright and Vernon Thompson, Rollnick, Reuben, Lavin, Herbst, and the two fugitives, came here from the east in 1931 and established a brokerage concern known as Mathews and company at 105 West Adams street. The name was one formerly used by a reliable bond concern which had gone out of business.

During July, August, and September, 1931, the defendants branched out, taking over two other companies of reputable standing but in dimculties due to the depression. The two concerns were Paul A. Leschuck and company, 231 South La Salle street, and Keane and company, 120 South La Salle street. The state charges the defendants promised to refinance these companies and permit their heads to continue operations under the old names. But once the deals were concluded, the prosecutors declare, the defendants installed their own managers and launched high pressure sales campaigns to push stocks they were promoting.

Old Customers Solicited.

In October, 1931, the license of Mathews & Co. to sell stock in Illinois was canceled by the Illinois securities commission. This action followed the receipt by the commission of some 80 complaints against the company's sales methods, and the earlier collapse and suspension of May Radio and Television corporation stock on the New York Curb exchange.

Business was continued in the two acquired companies until November, 1932, when they were closed. According to the prosecutors, the method followed by the defendants was to solicit the companies' former customers by mail, and later by telephone and personal calls. After the customer had turned over cash or securities presumably for the purchase of standard listed stocks, the state charges, he was advised that his account had been switched to some inferior stock, in some cases that of a diamond mine, or had been sold out.

Investigations resulted in indictments by both Cook county and federal grand juries in May, 1933. The present trial follows the county indictments. Federal indictments for mail fraud are still pending.

SHIP, ON FIRE, WINS 550 MILE RACE TO PANAMA FIREMEN

BALBOA, C. Z., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fire and smoke bursting forth as the hatch cover of the British freighter Bradburn was removed late today led port authorities to take hurried precautions to protect other shipping in the harbor. The boat had completed a 550 mile race to port since the fire was discovered three days ago.

A Canal Zone tug tied up to the ship, ready to tow her to sea if the blaze increased. The docks in the immediate vicinity of the freighter were closed to trafic.

Firemen, after abandoning earlier efforts to quench the flames with steam under pressure, decided to use water despite the danger of ruining the cargo of cotton aboard.

Three lines of water were turned on the vessel, the water sizzling as it hit the decks. Firemen had to stand on planks, so hot was the footing. A heavy rainstorm complicated the problem for the firemen.

If the cotton in the hold were removed to let the firemen get at the flames, insurance agents pointed out, it would be ruined by the rain.

The vessel listed heavily to starboard owing to the tons of water pumped into her. It was impossible for men to enter the hold owing to the presence of dangerous gases, and authorities could express no opinion on how long the fire would continue to burn. One fireman was overcome while trying to enter the hold.

Neither the ship's master nor her agents would express any opinion as to the cause of the fire. Nor could they tell whether the vessel could be saved.

AND HERE'S WHY CHARLEY DIDN'T APPEAR IN COURT

Charles Chambers, 26 years old, 3301 Cottage Grove avenue, was not in Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry's court yesterday to press his charge of assault and battery against Dan C. Duke, 29 years old, barker for the Midget Village at the World's Fair.

Chambers was in the county hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, a fracture of the jaw, deep scalp lacerations and a black eye.

All this damage was inflicted upon Chambers by Duke Thursday night, it is charged, after Chambers allegedly had "crashed" a party of the midgets at the Hotel Warner, 3301 Cottage Grove avenue, where Chambers stays. Chambers amused himself for a while, Duke said, by swinging Midgets about his head like Indian clubs, dangling others at arm's length for unseemly periods, and otherwise making himself unwelcome to the little people. Chambers' fun ceased when Duke stepped in.

The case will be heard by Judge McGarry if Chambers is able to leave the hospital.

Women Endurance Flyers Forced Down Fifth Time

Dense fog at Galesburg and Moline early yesterday brought to an unsuccessful conclusion the fifth attempt of Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, Texas girls, to set a new women's refueling endurance record. The young women were forced down in a cornfield outside Galesburg at 8:40 a. m. when they ran out of gasoline while their refueling ship was hunting them through the thick weather. They had been in the air approximately 54 hours. The record is 240 hours.

DAIRY COMPANY SUES TO HALT STORE PICKETS

Temporary Writ Denied; Hearing Monday.

The Meadowmoor Dairy company went into the federal District court yesterday in an attempt to enjoin local 753 of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union from picketing some 500 outlets cash and carry milk stores in the city which sell Meadowmoor dairy products.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes refused to grant the company a temporary injunction without notice to the union. Later in the day David Riskind, attorney for the union, agreed that picketing will be stopped pending a hearing on the bill for injunction Monday morning before Judge Barnes.

Bill Charges Threats.

Attorneys Joseph E. Green and Joseph R. Roach filed the bill on behalf of the company. The bill charged the union pickets had threatened the store operators and in some cases sought to prevent deliveries to them of ice cream and bakery goods, which they also sell. The charge was also made that the union has refused to admit employés of the Meadowmoor company, and that the picketing is the latest manifestation of a conspiracy which, the company charges, started July 1 with the object of ruining the company's business.

Defendants named in the suit besides the union are three of its officers, Robert G. Fitchie, president; James Kennedy, vice president, and Steve Sumner, treasurer.

Charge Jobs Destroyed.

Kennedy said the union has 30 of its members, otherwise unemployed, working as pickets, carrying signs which charge that the cash and carry stores have destroyed their jobs. The pickets are being paid $40 a week from the union treasury, he said.

For some time, Kennedy said, the union paid weekly unemployment benefits to more than 1,000 of its 6,700 members. Recently the number of unemployed members has decreased to about 400, and unemployment benefits were stopped July 1.

6 BANDITS GET $15,000 IN GEMS IN N. Y. HOLDUP

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Six calm bandits robbed an Eighth avenue pawnshop of about $15,000 worth of jewelry and other articles today. There were four clerks and five customers in the College Loan company office when the robbers entered. Two of the robbers herded nine persons into a back room and kept them there, threatening them with guns.

The other four holdup men, each of whom carried a bag, then proceeded to pack away everything in sight. Within a few minutes every shelf and drawer in the shop was bare.

When there was nothing left to take the two men guarding the prisoners backed out of the office, still covering the prisoners with their guns.

The bandits locked the office door after them, and then drove off in a car which had been parked at the curb.

Asks Permit to Lay Steam Pipes Under Loop Streets

The city council committee on public utilities will meet next week to consider an application of the Illinois Maintenance company, a subsidiary of the Commonwealth Edison company, for permission to lay pipes in the loop for the purpose of heating buildings by steam. The committee also will discuss a resolution calling for an investigation of the character and extent of the Chicago Tunnel company's use of the underground transportation system.

Since the Chicago Tunnel company recently built a line of steam pipes in a portion of its tunnels under Jackson boulevard, west of Wells street, and is preparing to deliver steam to adjacent buildings, the application of the Illinois Maintenance company is expected to place the two companies in a competitive position.

Company Asks Ordinance.

However, officials of the Illinois Maintenance company, which is headed by John F. Gilchrist, vice president of Commonwealth Edison, disclaimed any plan to enlarge the scope of its operations in the field.

"We've been supplying steam to a number of buildings in a restricted area for more than 30 years," William H. Culver, an official, said. "Heretofore we've been operating under special permits issued by the city. We decided that it would be best to come under some regulation and to have an ordinance covering the business. The company has a similar application pending before the Illinois commerce commission."

The resolution asking for an investigation of the manner in which the Chicago Tunnel company is using the tunnels was introduced by Ald. John J. Mason (1st).

Authority Given in Franchise.

S. W. Tracy, president of the Chicago Tunnel company, was apparently undisturbed by the resolution.

"Under the present thirty year franchise, granted in 1932," he said, "the Chicago Tunnel company has authority from the city to install in its tunnels various kinds of equipment, including pipes for transportation and transmission of property."

The tunnel company, Mr. Tracy said, has a contract with the Union Station company (railroad holding concern) which calls for approximately 200,000,000 pounds of steam yearly. The steam, purchased from the station company's surplus, is to be marketed by the Chicago Steam corporation, a subsidiary of the tunnel company.

Proponents of the central heating system have pointed out that it would rid the city of much smoke and dirt. Union labor men have objected to it on the ground that several hundred stationary engineers and firemen might be thrown out of work.

Seven Reported Executed in Guatemalan Revolt

SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A revolt in Guatemala against President Ubico was reported today by the newspaper Diario Nuevo, which said two high military officials and seven officers had been executed by a firing squad.

FINDS DIABETICS FACE DANGER OF EYE INFECTIONS

Expert Asserts Disease Causes Retinitis.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Retinitis, an inflammatory condition of the eye retina, which, if neglected, often causes blindness, occurs more frequently in diabetic patients than is commonly believed, according to a report given yesterday at the closing session of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology in the Hotel Sherman.

The report was based on a two year study of 150 diabetic patients and a control group of 150 nondiabetic patients of the same ages, made by Dr. M. L. Folk and Dr. Samuel Soskin of Chicago. Dr. Folk read the report.

Affection of the retina occurred in 33 per cent of the diabetics, 26 per cent being of the diabetic retinitis type. This was contrasted to an incidence of 6 per cent in nondiabetics.

Varies with Disease.

Diabetic retinitis was found more frequent in severe cases of diabetes, and depended little on the age of the patient or duration of the diabetes although it occurred only in adults. It was found that retinitis might be caused only by diabetes, without complications acting as a factor.

"Heretofore it was thought that when retinitis occurred in diabetics it was caused by arteriosclerosis," said Dr. Folk said. "We found that at least in the early stages it may be due to diabetes only.

"The propert treatment consists in controling the diabetes," he continued. "If the disease is controled by diet and insulin under a physician's instructions and with the patient's full coöperation the retinitis can be cured, unless the affection has passed into later stages and arteriosclerosis retinitis developed. For the latter there is little that can be done."

Find Theory Upheld.

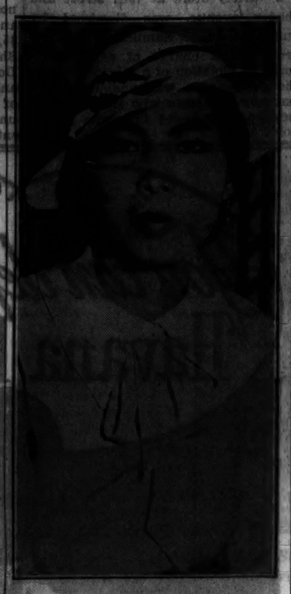

Dr. Hanford McKee of Montreal, in discussing Dr. Folk's paper, pointed out that examination of 1,272 diabetics at the Montreal General hospital had revealed that 127 were victims of retinal lesions. Of these, 21 patients suffered from diabetic retinitis.

Dr. Walter H. Fink and Dr. B. Bryngelson of Minneapolis gave a preliminary report on an investigation of 60 persons suffering from crossed eyes to determine whether they may be caused by shifting a normally left handed child to the dominant use of the right hand, or vice versa. This long has been known to cause stuttering and lack of muscle control.

Dr. Cesarea M. Goduco, native of the Philippine Islands and superintendent of the women's federal penitentiary at Manila, left Chicago yesterday to enroll in the Harvard university school of medicine. Dr. Goduco, who is 25 years old, had been in Chicago since last Sunday. She visited the World's Fair and many medical and penal institutions here. The government is defraying her expenses, Dr. Goduco said.

LOSTINE LOST; OREGON TOWN FOUND AWRY

Lostine, Ore., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Lostine is lost. Residents of this little Wallowa county town have discovered everything here is out of plumb, that their houses, quite possibly, are not on their own lots, and that the garden plots they have been spading probably belong to some one else.

The discovery Lostine was awry followed the applications of William Magee and George Ward for federal home loans. The abstractor found the boundaries were incorrect. The titles were clouded. Further investigation revealed descriptions of all property in the town were incorrect, and that virtually no one had a clear cut title. Every one was where somebody else belonged.

It developed that when Union county was carved from Wallowa county about 20 years ago the surveys omitted an essential decimal point. All data, therefore, was considerably out of plumb.

The folks here plan a massmeeting. They believe they'll have to hire a lawyer.

NEW DEAL PLAN ON FALSE BASIS, DR. WIRT AVERS

Sends U.S. Into Gambling, Educator Asserts.

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The New Dealers have plunged into the most reckless gambling ever indulged in by launching a great people on an experiment being tried out on false doctrins, Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, declared here today.

Dr. Wirt, superintendent of schools in his home city, created a considerable stir last spring by bringing charges to congress that the "brain trust" had socialistic or communistic tendencies. His address here was delivered before the twenty-first annual national business conference.

Instead of a recovery program they profess to be trying out, the New Dealers' plan is a social and economic reform in which they are attempting to convert the public to a number of false doctrins, the educator said.

For Wealth Distribution.

"Their first step has been to convert us to the false doctrin that we are living in an age of surplus plenty," Dr. Wirt said. "We have been told that we have too many machines, that we produce too much and that the rich are robbing us. All this has been to prepare us to accept the fundamental idea of reform—a violent redistribution of wealth.

"But have the rich actually been robbing us?

"During our most prosperous years we had an annual production of wealth, measured in dollars, of about 85 billions. With about 50 million persons in our population who should have been gainfully employed, we were producing about $1,700 for each gainfully employed person.

"But since our national tax bill was 10 billion dollars it was necessary to charge $200 per person for taxes. There was left $1,500 of wealth for each gainfully employed person. Any gainfully employed person who received more than $1,500 of produced wealth was receiving more than his equal share.

Get More Than Their Share.

"Since the average income for factory workers during this time was $1,700 they were getting more than their equal share.

"Today our national production of wealth has dropped to at least 45 billions, valued in dollars. Our annual tax bill has risen to 15 billions. We have left only 30 billions to divide among 50 million persons who should be gainfully employed.

"If the total annual production of wealth be divided equally and every person works who should work there will be only $600 per gainfully employed person now. Any one who is now receiving more than $600 per year is getting more than his equal share."

Dr. Wirt declared that it is evident that the amount of our wealth received by our rich has been grossly exaggerated. If all incomes over $5,000 had been confiscated by the government and divided equally during the prosperous years, the sum would have amounted to less than $90 per worker, he said.

"Under our system we have produced more wealth and we have distributed it more equitably than it has ever been done in any country in the entire history of the world under any form of government," he said. "Is it possible, therefore, to believe we have failed and that a century or more of effort should be discarded?"

GLACIER PRIEST FINDS VOLCANIC VALLEY IS LOSING FORLORN LOOK

SEWARD, Alaska, Sept. 14.—(AP)—"The valley of ten thousand smokes" is described by Father Bernard Hubbard, Alaska's glacier priest, as losing some of its forlorn look.

On his return yesterday from the Katami volcanic region of the Alaska peninsula Father Hubbard said the valley, denuded for years of vegetation, is beginning to show some plant growth.

"We found two fresh water pools there," he explained. "And the winds, of course, have been carrying seeds into the valley. The smoke and the fume holes also seem to be lessening in their fury compared with previous years."

Father Hubbard is en route to California.

HORSE TO MEET TRACTOR IN PLOW CONTEST TODAY

A lot of land will be plowed free today on Roy Patterson's farm, six miles southeast of Aurora. The unpaid workers will be plowmen taking part in the 57th annual Wheatland plowing competition.

The feature contest will be one in which experts of the plowshare from all parts of the country will seek to wrest from Carl Shoger of Plainfield the championship he has held for the last three years. His most formidable opponent is Homer Lapp of Wheatland, former titleholder. Shoger will plow with a tractor, Lapp with a team of horses.

Straightness of furrows, evenness of depth, and general neatness of the field are the chief points upon which the contestants are judged.

Lake County Plans Suits to Collect Personal Tax

The Lake county board of supervisors yesterday instructed State's Atttorney Charles E. Mason to file suits against all persons who have failed to pay personal property taxes to the county in recent years. Mr. Mason said that the suits would be filed and levies made on the personal property of the delinquents. The majority of the nonpayers, he added, were residents of Waukegan.

W. A. HARRIMAN IS INDICTED IN STOCK INQUIRY

Ten Others Accused of False Statements.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Ten former directors and one former officer of the New York Title and Mortgage company, including W. Averill Harriman, close friend of President Roosevelt, were indicted today on charges of sending out deceptive financial statements.

Eight are charged with misdemeanors and the others with misdemeanors and felonies. All are to be arraigned Monday, but only those charged with felonies will have to appear in person.

Those indicted with Harriman are:

James A. O'Gorman, former United States senator.

J. Stewart Baker Indicted.

J. Stewart Baker, president of the Bank of Manhattan.

George T. Mortimer, former president of the New York Title and Mortgage company.

Fred J. Fuller, Mortimer's successor, and now president of the companies that have taken over the business of the New York Title and Mortgage company, the Servicing Corporation of New York, and the New York Title Insurance company.

H. Pushee Williams, former chairman of the loan committee.

Base Charges on Statement.

The charges grow out of a financial statement dated Dec. 31, 1932, sent to 5,000 stockholders and certificate holders and employed as a means of selling additional certificates.

In this statement cash on hand was listed as $8,823,000, but according to he district attorney Fuller, Kahler, nd Williams arranged loans of $1,000,000 each with the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company and the Irving Trust company, the loans extending only from Dec. 31, 1932, to Jan. 4, 1933, and never representing more than bookkeeping transactions.

The statement also listed bonds and mortgages at $30,208,000, representing these as "available for sale." Actually, the district attorney charges, $12,000,000 of them had been pledged with the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Irving Trust company and were not in the title company's control.

NRA EXEMPTS "L" LINES FROM CODE PROVISION

A three month exemption from transit code provisions as they apply to watchmen, flagmen, and crossing guards has been granted by NRA to the Chicago Rapid Transit company, according to word received here yesterday from Washington.

Officials of the company said they requested the action on behalf of approximately 200 employes in the lower pay bracket who, under the code provisions, would be forced to work shorter hours and consequently receive less pay.

The company has also requested code authorities to increase from 5 to 8 per cent of the pay roll the number of workers who can thus be employed, thus providing employment for many veteran workers whose physical condition limits them to less strenuous work.

Report 2 Youths Confess Aiding Five to Break Jail

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Floyd Michaels, 21, and Robert Lovell, 23, arrested today, are said to have confessed to having smuggled saws and other tools to five prisoners in the Noblesville jail who escaped three weeks ago. They are reported as saying they were paid by W. H. Mason, one of those who escaped and who was awaiting trial on the charge of shooting a policeman.

COURT PUTS 3 HANDBILL MEN ON PROBATION

Three hand bill distributors, arrested in the loop, were fined $25 yesterday by Municipal Judge Oliver H. Gorman. Their fines later were suspended and they were granted six months' probation.

The three are James W. Stone, 1943 Jackson boulevard; Wesley Honeycutt, 508 North State street, and Edward Owens, Negro, of 4137 South Lawrence avenue.

Six "snap as you pass" photographers also were arraigned under the city hand bill ordinance, charged with cluttering up the loop and obstructing traffic.

G. O. P. RENEWS ITS ATTACKS ON ADMINISTRATION

Ladling Out of Money Is Chief Target.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Having surveyed the New Deal victory in Maine and the results of numerous primaries in which some New Dealers won and some were defeated, the Republican managers have returned to the onslaught on the Roosevelt policies with redoubled vigor.

The influencing of votes through the liberal lading out of government money to win normally Republican states which was so conspicuous a factor in Democratic success in Maine, is to be a special target of Republican attack, according to the national and congressional campaign headquarters of the G. O. P.

Primed with Warnings.

Republican orators are going into the congressional election campaign primed with warnings of the currency inflation, the increased taxes, and the higher cost of living certain to ensue unless the reckless outpouring of government funds on New Deal projects be speedily halted.

To what extent the New Deal will be attacked, however, in each state will be determined by the leading Republican candidates therein. In Ohio and Indiana, for example, Senators Simeon D. Fess and Arthur R. Robinson, both candidates for reelection, have heartily indorsed the program of the Republican high command and are giving the New Deal both barrels daily.

Soft Pedaled in Michigan.

In Michigan the New Deal issue is to be considerably soft pedaled on account of the attitude of the leading Republican candidate, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, who was renominated this week. Senator Vandenberg, whose Democratic opponent is Frank A. Picard, a 100 per cent New Dealer, is taking a middle of the road course. As he indicated last spring in announcing his candidacy Senator Vandenberg sees much that is good and much that is evil in the New Deal. He believes that the government must assume larger social responsibilities but opposes state socialism, state collectivism and national regimentation.

"I believe that government must accept larger social responsibilities than heretofore and build more seriously toward mass protections and mass advantages," said Senator Vandenberg today. "Thus I believe in federal bank deposit insurance, for example. Thus I believe in the experiment to be tried in respect to railway retirement pensions. I believe in the necessity for rational and practical unemployment insurance.

Favors Market Control.

"Certainly I believe in the practical control of market speculation. I believe in taxation scrupulously reflecting the ability to pay. I am opposed to tax exempt securities. I am opposed to private profits in war or in preparation for war. I have emphatically favored the emergency use of public credit for debt harassed home owners and farm owners.

"I prefer composition of debt to repudiation of debt. I believe in the elimination of child labor and sweat shops and in the minimum wage law principle. I continue to believe in the equalization fee principle of farm relief. But I believe we suffer more from underconsumption than overproduction. So it goes. If this be New Dealing then I believe in it.

"But I am just as unequivocally opposed to state socialism or state collectivism or national regimentation. The latter violates both practical economic and essential liberty if America is to remain America. I am opposed to Fascist or communistic trends. I am opposed to congressional abdication and executive concentrations. I am opposed to dangerously growing bureocracy, and particularly a bureocracy which frankly abandons the merit system and substitutes spoilsmanship. I am opposed to national price fixing. It never worked and never will. I am opposed to the suspension of anti-trust laws, and the encouragement of monopoly.

"I am opposed to printing press money and believe that such inflation inevitably becomes suicidally uncontroled. I believe in balanced budgets. I am opposed to government in business except where the business is unavoidably dominated by direct public interest. I am opposed to elastic powers in the hands of the President respecting money, tariffs, expenditures, and other factors which create the deadly uncertainties now defeating the very recovery to which they presume to be dedicated.

Sees Election as Vital.

"I favor a restoration of the constitutional mandate for three independent branches of government. I believe the next election is the most important since the civil war. If this be 'anti-New Dealing' then I am an anti.

"The whole point is that I insist upon taking each proposition upon its merits, regardless of its source. I decline either a blanket indorsement or a blanket indictment of the New Deal. To say that all is bad would be silly. To say that all is good would be ridiculous. The need of the hour is resistance to ignorant change and resistance, equally, to ignorant opposition to change. The need of the hour—aye, and the desperate need of the New Deal itself—is a vigilant, vigorous congress which will separate wheat from chaff, speak constructively for itself, declining either to throw or to ignore rocks.

"This has been my pre-primary position in Michigan. This continues to be my post-primary position. What happens to me politically is of no moment to me or to the country, but what happens to the country is of vital moment to us all."

Jury Convicts Promoter of "Salting" Placer Mine

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A federal court jury today convicted M. C. Metz, well known in western mining circles, on five counts of misuse of the mails in promoting a "salted" placer gold mine in the Cucurpe district of Lower California. Metz allegedly obtained $25,000 from investors. H. J. Coger, local mining man testified the Metz claim had been "salted" with tiny particles of gold which Metz allegedly bought from a miners' supply store. Metz will appear Monday for sentence.

Long Will "Go the Limit" to Win New Orleans Rule

New Orleans, La., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long showed his hand today.

He intends to go the limit to obtain full control over the city of New Orleans. At a session of the legislative commission investigating vice conditions in New Orleans he concentrated his fire on Superintendent of Police George Reyer, Chief of Detectives John Grosch, and Civil District Judge Nathaniel Bond.

By bank books and other records he strove to show that the head of the police department within six years had deposited more than $30,000 in several different banks, that he was the possessor of valuable real estate properties, and that he lived in luxury.

At the inquiry bank records were produced to point out that Chief of Detectives John Grosch had properties valued at $28,000 and approximately $13,000 to $15,000 in cash. Reyer's salary is $6,000 a year and Grosch's is $3,700.

Tells of "Loans" to Judge.

A witness identified as W. E. Wood, assistant state bank examiner, testified that Judge Bond had secured loans from homestead associations in the last few years approximating $140,000. It was Judge Bond who enjoined Senator Long and Adj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming from using National Guardsmen to hold the registration office preceding Tuesday's primary.

Senator Long announced that he was just starting. He made several short speeches over the radio during the testimony of witnesses and once he said:

"We intend to get 'em all."

Just what procedure he will take is not yet apparent, but it is believed that he intends eventually to call a special session of the legislature and legislate the present administration out of office.

Continues Check on Books.

It is also believed that he will bring proceedings against some of the city officials through the attorney general's office. He announced just before the vice committee adjourned subject to call probably next week, that he had instructed expert accountants to continue delving into the city's financial affairs.

Senator Long announced at the hearing that a man who represented himself as W. E. Clark had offered to secure evidence of slot machine graft in connection with Gus Blancand, defeated candidate for congress, for $25. Senator Long announced that he had the man shadowed and discovered that he was really Arthur L. Heitner, a federal fugitive from justice from New York. He did not call Heitner or Clark to the stand but read a statement which the man is said to have made in which he described a plot to ensnare Senator Long. The man is being held by federal authorities. At the federal building Heitner was unable to identify Blancand.

2 YOUNG ROBBERS CONFESS MURDER IN STORE HOLDUP

Two youthful holdup men were held at the Warren avenue police station last night after having confessed to the murder of a man during a holdup in a grocery store at 5010 Ferdinand street on last Feb. 8. The prisoners were Albert Schwalge, 23 years old, of 5007 West Erie street, and Ralph Denning, 23 years old, of 2810 Flournoy street.

Schwalge was arrested after Warren avenue police had a call that a woman was being beaten in front of 2150 West Monroe street. He was taken to the detective bureau for the showup and among the spectators was Mrs. Marie Matsen, owner of the grocery store on Ferdinand street.

She tentatively identified Schwalge as one of the men who shot and killed her brother, Jack Vanders, of 1836 North Halsted street, in her store. Confronted with this, Schwalge confessed and implicated Denning, who was arrested at his home. He also confessed and admitted firing the fatal shot.

STATE'S YOUNG REPUBLICANS TO MEET TOMORROW

Record Crowd Expected; Enthusiasm High.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Such a crowd gathered at Republican county committee headquarters yesterday for a final conference on arrangements for the convention of the Young Republican organization of Illinois tomorrow that it was necessary to transfer the meeting to a large room in the Hotel Sherman.

This was said by leaders of the movement such as John T. Dempsey to be indicative of the enthusiasm in the more youthful element of the party over the plan to consolidate fifty organizations scattered throughout the state into one unit for concerted action.

Convention Opens Tomorrow.

This is the purpose of the state convention at the Sherman tomorrow afternoon and evening. It has been sanctioned by the Republican national, state, and county committees and it is expected that 1,500 delegates will attend.

There are to be two sessions. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a meeting for the election of a temporary organization and the appointment of committees. This will be called to order by Paul Prehn of Champaign who will turn the gavel over to Dempsey who is slated to be permanent chairman.

Theodore Roosevelt to Speak.

In the evening session business matters will be concluded, but in addition two speakers have been announced. They are Theodore Roosevelt, who has been encouraging the Young Republican movement throughout the country, and C. Wayland Brooks, nomines for Illinois congressman-at-large.

"The keynote of the convention," said Dempsey, "is to be adherence to the constitution." Behind the speakers' rostrum will appear the preamble to that document in heroic size—eight feet high and twelve feet long. It has been proposed that the organization's own constitution center on a declaration for the promotion of love for and loyalty to the United States of America, its constitution, and its laws.

Cites Purpose of Move.

"The purpose of the movement is to preserve the form of government established by the constitution. It will aid in selecting men and women best qualified for public office and in establishing and maintaining Republican principles and doctrines.

"Unlike similar movements in the past, this plan has the sanction of the regular party organization which augurs well for its success. We also have for the first time a purpose strong enough to solidify us on a permanent basis. Thousands of young men all over the country feel that the constitution is threatened and that although Republicanism alone can protect our form of government from drastic, undesirable changes."

LIMITING OF PRIVATE RADIO CHANNELS IS FAVORED BY PRINTERS

A resolution demanding that the federal government assign not more than 50 per cent of American radio frequency channels to private owners and that the remainder be given to labor, educational, religious, and fraternal organizations operated not for profit was adopted yesterday by the convention of the International Typographical union in the Palmer house.

Other resolutions approved included a demand for the immediate release of Tom Mooney, held in a California prison for a bombing many years ago, and an expression of approval for the News Writers' guild, composed of newspaper editorial workers.

The convention also called on the new federal communications commission to determine whether unemployment had been lessened through private control of existing communications and, if the commission thinks it in the public interest, to declare news services and news gathering organizations public utilities.

The convention took no action on a request from textile unions, now on strike, that the printers vote them financial aid. In his request, Ray Nixon, head of the textile workers, declared the "situation was serious and success of the strike depends on food for strikers."

NOTED PHYSICIST ASSAILS SINCLAIR "EPIC" PROGRAM

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winning physicist and president of California Institute of Technology, yesterday characterized Upton Sinclair, the Socialist nominated recently by the Democrats for governor of California, as "a demagog who is riding the crest of popularity in a period of confused thinking, supported by a poor, deluded public."

Dr. Millikan, accompanied by Mrs. Millikan, arrived in Chicago on the California limited of the Santa Fe railroad. They are on their way to London, where Dr. Millikan, a former member of the University of Chicago faculty, will attend the conference of the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics.

Sinclair's EPIC program for "ending poverty in California," the scientist said, "is just as desirable and effective as the program for eliminating disease throughout the world, advocated ten years ago and based on the Abrams theory of electronic reactions."

"That," he continued, "was a stupendous medical fake which the public fell for to its detriment. Sinclair might be elected, but his type cannot possibly last long."

4,000 County Employes Are Paid Up to Date

Checks totaling about $400,000 for the last half of August were given out yesterday to the 4,000 county employes, thus bringing the salaries up to date, since pay for the first half of September is not due for several days. The money was obtained from county office fees and penalties on delinquent taxes.

Free South Side Dealer in Sale of Fireworks

Robert Banville, 37 years old, owner of a variety store at 79th street and Rhodes avenue, was dismissed by Municipal Judge Samuel Trude yesterday on a charge of selling fireworks in violation of a city ordinance. The prosecution was unable to present any witnesses who would testify they had purchased fireworks in the store.

Rob Suburban Home of Arthur J. Donovan

Thieves broke into the home of Arthur J. Donovan, on Cuba road, just north of Barrington, and stole rugs and clothing valued in excess of $5,000, Donovan reported yesterday to Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county. Donovan said his wife is out of town, and an exact estimate of the amount of clothing taken could not be made until she returns. The thieves gained entrance during Donovan's absence.

GERMANS LAY IN WAR SUPPLIES DESPITE TREATY

Arms from U.S. Smuggled In, Senate Group Told.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Testimony that war supplies apparently are being piled up in Germany despite the Versailles treaty was given today to a senate munitions committee that earlier had suppressed evidence it felt was even more explosive.

Jaded by disclosures, senate investigators nevertheless straightened in their seats to hear also that the du Pont company, in February, 1933, hired an "international spy" to sell powder in Germany and Holland.

The narrative of the great concern's dealings with Del Fungo Giera, said to have been a secret agent for 13 countries, included the hasty cancelation—and destruction—of the first contract made with him on Feb. 1.

Du Pont Admits "Mistake."

In anticipation, apparently, of modification of the treaty of Versailles, the du Pont company had failed to include any reference to arms prohibitions imposed upon Germany by the pact, and had given the one-time associate of Capt. Boy-ed and Von Papen a free hand.

"I made a mistake," ruefully declared young Felix du Pont, who figured in the testimony today for the first time.

It was Lammot du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours, who told the senate committee he had reports that "indicated" Germany was making war explosives in considerable quantities, despite treaty bans.

Evidence was presented also that German political associations in 1933 were being armed with American made weapons smuggled in through Holland.

Censorship Is Imposed.

The committee earlier had imposed a strict censorship on material in its files after charges that du Pont and its English ally, Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., had combined to prevent Argentina from getting a powder plant of its own.

"If these cables were made public," said Stephen Raushenbush, secretary of the committee, pointing his finger toward the material before him, "it might mean actual destruction of life and property."

Also kept secret were names of certain Chinese officials who accepted "commissions," which committee members have termed bribes, from the Du Ponts.

The action was taken following a conference between the committee and Secretaries Hull and Roper to discuss protests resulting from the munitions inquiry.

Major disclosures about the du Ponts' munitions business followed one another today like explosions of Fourth of July firecrackers.

Amid them Senator Clark [Dem., Mo.] asserted that the rise of Adolf Hitler had been financed indirectly by French munitions manufacturers to stimulate arms sales.

Tells of French Backing.

"Don't you know," Clark asked Lammot du Pont, "that the rise of Hitler was partly financed by Skoda [Czecho-Slav] munitions trust, which in turn is controled by Schneider [French arms company], and was used by them to cause a war scare in order to sell more munitions?"

"No, I don't know that," snapped du Pont, but conceded later he had read such a statement.

Felix du Pont detailed the story of the firm's relations with Giera, which cost it $25,000.

Clark read a contract which gave Giera a special agency in Holland and an exclusive agency in Germany. Felix said it was substantially the same as the contract signed Feb. 1, "destroyed," and replaced by another contract Feb. 15.

"Why was the first contract destroyed?" Clark asked.

"Wrong Kind of Contract."

Felix hesitated, and then replied that "it was not the right kind of a contract."

He explained that it failed to refer to the German arms bans imposed by the Versailles treaty, and that "Giera gave us his copy."

Clark said he found several copies of contracts in the files of the du Pont company and had been informed that one was a facsimile of the agreement withdrawn by frantic efforts of the du Ponts.

"That's right," smiled Felix.

Contract Limits Agent.

"It limited Giera to negotiations for the sale of powder and propellants with the German government."

"That's right."

The second contract was terminated in April, 1933. Felix testified Giera was paid $25,000 for a release. Other correspondence and the second contract, itself, showed a state of mind on the part of the du Ponts and the Imperial Chemical industries which might have explained the haste which caused the "mistake" in the first agreement.

A philosophic discussion on munitions making brought the explosion from Irenee, vice president of the concern, that he felt "the constitution is on the verge of going into the scrap heap."

"Speaking very seriously, senators," he said, "I question whether we have a democratic form of government today. That's why I joined the American Liberty league."

Argentina Launches Quiz.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Aroused by reflections cast on some Argentine officers by testimony presented to the United States munitions inquiry, a commission to "safeguard the honor and prestige" of the navy started functioning today.

Headed by Rear Admiral Orlandini, the commission will investigate circumstances under which the navy acquired airplanes abroad.

SUNDAY TRIBUNE WILL CARRY REAL SAMPLES IN AD

Mandel's Sends Fabric Direct to Reader.

More than 3,500 yards of cloth will be distributed as part of tomorrow's CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNES.

The cloth consists of "swatches," samples of goods that will be part of a four page special advertising section for the Mandel Brothers department store.

Its inclusion will mark the first appearance in THE TRIBUNE of this recently devised form of graphic advertising, and the most pretentious undertaking of its kind in Chicago.

Show Readers Real Thing.

"It is another endeavor of our store to show prospective customers exactly what we are asking them to buy," Leon Mandel, general manager of the store, explained yesterday. "We are supplementing the printed word with actual samples to show quality, texture and color as words alone can never do."

One of the swatches in the advertisment is of wool worsted suiting. Another is of silk satin d'lune used in gowns and slips on sale. A third is of broadcloth shirting, and a fourth of "rayvoile" curtain material.

3,500,000 Operations Required.

Some notion of the immensity of the undertaking may be gained from the fact that 3,500,000 separate hand operations are required to paste the samples in place.

The work is done by 500 girls working day and night for three days.

The material alone represents a retail value of more than $6,000. Each of the special sections must be hand inserted in the society section of Sunday's paper.

U. S. TO ENFORCE TAX LAW AGAINST ILLEGAL STILLS

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue in the Chicago district, announced yesterday that he had received from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering instructions to enforce a federal law requiring a special excise tax of $1,000 for any person engaged in distilling or brewing or the selling of liquors contrary to state laws or municipal ordinance. Internal revenue officers have been instructed to investigate and upon learning the identity of any persons violating the federal law, passed in 1926, to make the tax assessment against them.

Crew Seeks Wages

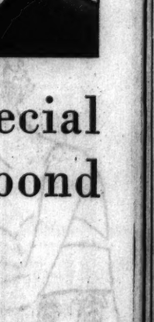

The excursion boat Florida was seized yesterday at its dock in the Chicago river east of Michigan avenue by deputy United States marshals on an order issued by United States Commissioner Walker. Marshal William H. McDonnell appointed James Haigh, first mate of the boat, as special custodian pending a court hearing or settlement of the claims of twenty-one members of the crew for $3,000 in back wages. The boat is owned by Attorney D. K. Cochrane and his brother, W. H. Cochrane.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes is sued an order during the day for the seizure of the steamboat Alabama, also a lake excursion boat, and the motorboat Dolomite. The court order followed the filing of a suit by the Merchants' Lighterage company seeking damages of $1,500 from the owners of the Alabama and Dolomite as the result of a three boat collision on the Chicago river.

According to the bill of complaint the accident occurred on July 28, east of the Michigan avenue bridge, when the Alabama collided with the Dolomite, causing it to strike the lighter Commerce, owned by the Merchants' Lighterage company.

FORT SHERIDAN CHAPLAIN RAISED TO PAPAL POST

Announcement was received yesterday from Rome that Maj. A. V. Simoni, chaplain of Fort Sheridan, has been made papal chamberlain and a member of the pontifical court with the title of very reverend monsignor.

MSGR. SIMONI.

Maj. Simoni served during the world war as a chaplain with the 28th and 33d divisions and was decorated with the Distinguished Service cross for extraordinary heroism under fire in helping wounded and dying men between the lines. He also received decorations from several allied nations. He served three terms as national chaplain of the Army and Navy Legion of Honor.

The newly appointed monsignor is vice postulator of the cause of beatification of Mother Cabrini, whose canonical process was held in Chicago under the supervision of Cardinal Mundelein last year. Chaplain Simoni is now at Camp Custer, Mich., for the 6th corps area war tactics.

CALL MEETING ON CALUMET HARBOR LOAN CONDITIONS

Conditions imposed by the government for the proposed federal loan of $2,814,500 to complete the Calumet harbor improvement will be discussed at a special meeting of the sanitary district board Monday morning. Kenneth A. Godwin, representative of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, head of the Public Works administration which would lend the money, will be present. The sanitary district is involved in the question of obtaining easements on property and elevating bridges. Sponsors of the project maintain that it will make the harbor the northern terminus of the Lakes to Gulf waterway.

BRITISH AIR RACE TO AUSTRALIA TO COST 2½ MILLION

40 Planes Are Expected to Start Oct. 20.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The England-Australia air race, which will start on Oct. 20, not only will be the most ambitious contest yet organized but the most costly. The outlay will probably exceed $2,500,000. Figures obtained show that if, as expected, forty airplanes start, the gross value of the machines will probably be $1,750,000. Gasoline costs alone will amount to about $100,000. Warship patrol, wireless, insurance, and other items are likely to involve an additional cost of $1,250,000.

It is estimated that the cost of running a plane in the speed division of the race will be between $10,000 and $15,000. The handicap commission will be less exacting. The first prize in the speed section will be $50,000, but it is pointed out that outside Australia this is not worth more than $37,500.

Claim Prizes Are Low.

In view of the heavy cost entailed, the amount of the prize money—of course without criticism of the generous donor—is held by some to be too small, in fact out of proportion.

Of the 64 original entries, 59 are still on the list, but it is expected that further withdrawals will reduce the number of starters to about 40. Consequently, the gross value of the machines assembled at Mildenhall for the start will probably be about $1,750,000.

$3,000 for Gas and Oil.

Gasoline and oil alone will cost each competitor from $2,000 to $3,250, an aggregate of about $100,000, if 40 competitors start.

Many of the competitors are wisely taking all possible measures to avoid failure to complete the race. Some, including three of the Americans, already are studying the course chiefly by air.

JOBLESS FIGURE RISES IN FRANCE; FEAR BAD WINTER

Greatest Number of Idle Since War.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 14.—While still insignificant compared with the United States and most European countries, unemployment in France is on the upgrade and threatens to reach alarming proportions this winter. Unemployment has already reached the highest figure for France since the war.

These facts have been pointed out in a special report to Premier Doumergue by Adrien Marquet, minister of public works, who urged that to keep the figure down as much as possible action be begun at once to put into effect the huge public works plan which he sponsors, known as the Marquet plan. It is likely that by the end of September preparation for presenting the plan to parliament will be completed.

Figures on Unemployment.

The latest available figures, which are for the third week in August, show that in Paris there were 88,372 unemployed receiving state aid, 63,269 in the Paris suburban area, and 169,082 in the provinces.

These figures are small enough, but in submitting them Marquet pointed out that they show an increase of 44 per cent since 1914 in the provinces and 14 per cent in Paris suburbs. In the capital itself unemployment decreased by 1.9 per cent in the last two years. It must also be remembered that these figures do not show several classes of workers who do not receive government aid.

Marquet called on the premier, besides speeding the public works program, to bring forward suggestions for other means of bringing the total down.

Expel Alien Workers.

In this connection it was recently revealed that France, which once admitted great numbers of alien workers, has cut unemployment of its own people down considerably by expelling or encouraging the departure of 400,000 foreign workers since 1930.

At present it is nearly impossible for foreign workers to find jobs in France except in certain districts where, despite general unemployment, labor shortages are found.

3 NECKTIES, $1
For any man that goes in for light background type of neckwear, this clean-up of odds and ends of summer ties was made to order. There is an extensive variety of patterns and colors to choose from and there isn't a tie in the lot that does not come up to the Men's Store's enviable reputation for quality and styling in neckwear. The sale will continue as long as the limited quantity lasts.

$5
The color it's worn with doesn't matter
That might sound a little far-fetched as well as poor salesmanship on our part, but this new Covert color hat with its black band is the most amiable color we've seen in many a fall. Covert is a neutral tone—smoky shade—and as to its looking well with any color, you might put it to the test today. With raw, welt or silk-bound edge. Other colors in our all hair felt hat collection are grey, brown, blue, and anywhere from three to four shades in each color.

Neckties of imported silks combine two good ideas
The two good ideas we have reference to are the diagonal stripes that are a take-off from the popular reps and a silver-flecked rough-faced silk. It's a case of continental weavers having taken enthusiastically to stripes and rough stuff and they've done a beautiful job of it. The colors and the combination of stripes are our own ideas so you won't find ties of this character anywhere else but the Men's Store.

Introducing a new oxford with a British isle background
To back up what we've said—the leather is an imported Scotch grain—with more than its share of brawn to stand anything the next seven months has to offer in the way of bad weather. At the same time the leather is of a flexible soft quality so you won't have to put up with "breaking it in." The last is of English design from toe to flared sole. In black or brown, wing or straight tip.

ENGINEER TELLS EFFECT ON ROADS OF TAX SLASHING

Cuts in Gas and License Levies Proposed.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—After describing needs for urban and rural pavement improvements, as told in yesterday's dispatch, State Highway Engineer Lieberman today cited figures to show that motorists cannot hope for relief from the dangerous, uncomfortable and uneconomic street and road conditions they now encounter if the gasoline tax and the registration fees are cut as is being advocated by politicians and others stumping the state.

This article deals solely with road finances, and on this subject Mr. Lieberman gave detailed facts as compiled by his auditors.

$3 License Fee Urged.

The most widely advocated proposal calls for a cut from 3 to 2 cents on the motor fuel excise and for a flat $3 state license fee.

According to the state's figures, the 2 cent gas tax and the $3 license fee would leave the Illinois highway department with nothing for new construction and reconstruction and would fall short by $6,326,000 of its fixed charges.

Under this set up Illinois would lose its $5,100,000 annual allotment of federal highway aid.

With the counties' share of the gas tax cut from 1 cent to two-thirds of 1 cent, $2,892,500 would remain in 1936 for distribution among 101 counties. Cook county would run into the red in future years.

Other Cuts Proposed.

Another reduction proposal calls for a 50 per cent cut in the license fees and 1 cent less for the gasoline tax. This would leave the state with nothing for construction and would fall $2,741,000 short of the fixed charges in 1936.

Another suggestion is to cut license fees 25 per cent and gasoline tax 1 cent. This leaves the state department in 1936 with $1,609,000, not enough to match federal aid. With a 1 cent gas tax cut and the license fees remaining the same, the state would have $5,984,000 for road building and would be able to match federal aid if it were not that many trafic requirements are for projects on which federal aid cannot be used for red tape reasons.

A 50 per cent reduction in license fees with the gasoline tax remaining at 3 cents would give the state in 1936 $975,000 for road building and in 1940 would leave the state with $490,000 less than its fixed charges.

Revenue Is Estimated.

Actually, this department's revenue for 1935 is estimated by its auditors at $29,830,000, consisting of $17,250,000 in license fees, $12,330,000 in gas taxes exclusive of the cities' and counties' share, and $250,000 in miscellaneous collections.

This revenue, without being exaggerated, would be more than needed for an enthusiastic good roads promoter were it all available for construction, but the auditors list $21,450,000 that will have to be deducted from this total.

SAMUEL INSULL SUED BY COUNTY FOR 1932 TAXES

Samuel Insull headed the list of Chicagoans of fashionable addresses who were sued yesterday for unpaid 1932 personal property taxes. One of the 17 bills in which a total of $40,278 is sought charged that Insull owes $2,145 in taxes on the personality in his former office at 72 West Adams street.

Two of Insull's former companies also are being sued for a total of $324,397. Of this amount $214,507 is sought from Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., 72 West Adams street, and $109,890 from the Middle West Utilities company, 20 North Wacker drive.

Bills for $1,310 each were filed against F. D. Montgomery, 999 Lake Shore drive; Thomas A. Beesley, 200 East Chestnut street; Harold T. Strotz, 1250 Astor street, and H. L. Baumgardner, 999 Lake Shore drive. Collection lof $1,091 each is sought from William McClellan Drake, 220 East Walton place; Julius Goodman, 190 East Pearson street, and Albert Lower, Drake hotel.

Others sued and the amounts asked for are: Charles Thorne, 2344 Lincoln Park West, $8,735; Samuel J. Tilden Strauss, 140 East Walton place, $4,367; Julius Balke, 999 Lake Shore drive, $4,367; Mrs. F. Edson White, 70 Scott street, $8,305; R. E. Peacock, Drake hotel, $2,469; Howard Elting, 900 North State street, $2,183; R. S. Ripple, 42 East Elm street, $1,501; Warren E. Wright, 999 Lake Shore drive, $1,389, and Elizabeth Doolittle, 400 Deming place, $1,304.

WOMAN KILLED WHEN AUTO SKIDS ONTO SIDEWALK

Two Severely Injured in Freak Accident.

Mrs. Emma Propst, 50 years old, 2455 Berteau avenue, was killed and two other persons were severely injured late last night when an automobile skidded at Berteau and Western avenues, ran up on the sidewalk, and struck the trio. The driver of the car was Richard Stahlman, 5728 North Talman avenue.

The injured are Mrs. Ida Wagner, 43 years old, 3726 North Hermitage avenue, and Glen Holdy, 29 years old, 4218 North Leavitt street. Mrs. Wagner, who suffered a fracture of a leg, and Holdy, whose skull was fractured, were taken to hospitals. Stahlman was not held by the police.

Farmer Killed in Collision.

Herman Krabeer, 56 years old, a farmer who lived at Saunders and Palatine roads in Northbrook, was killed last night when an automobile driven by his son, Raymond Krabeer, 20 years old, crashed into the rear of a parked truck at Palatine road and Milwaukee avenue. Mrs. Sylvia Burns, 32 years old, of Wheeling, was in the truck and was injured. Her husband, Walter, is owner of the vehicle.

Following the accident young Krabeer, who was unhurt, fled. The highway police at Morton Grove were instructed to arrest him for questioning.

These deaths and one other yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 839. The other victim:

John Riley, 80 years old, 1601 South State street, fatally injured when he was struck near his home by an automobile driven by John Perone, 21 years old, 2637 West Harrison street. Riley died at the Mercy hospital.

Crash Sets Street Car Afire.

Twenty passengers fled from a surface car yesterday after it was set afire by a collision with a truck at 86th street and South Chicago avenue. The truck's gasoline tank burst and the fuel, spilled on the street car and the truck cargo, burst into flames. Louis Nelson, 48 years old, 6545 Evans avenue, motorman, was injured. Edward Ison of Hartford, Mich., driver of the truck, escaped unhurt.

John Biagani, 19 years old, 350 West Grand avenue, was killed and two companions were critically injured early yesterday when their car collided with a truck on route 6 south of Joliet. William Elander, 28 years old, of 774 Chidester street, Glen Ellyn, and John Czarnota, 24 years old, 4517 North Keating avenue, were injured.

FOUR DRUNKEN DRIVERS DRAW 10 DAYS IN JAIL

Four motorists, convicted of driving while intoxicated, were sentenced to the Bridewell for ten days and fined $100 each yesterday by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Safety court.

Willard Willis, 60 years old, 2140 Cortland street, drove his auto into a police squad car at Talman avenue and Madison street on Aug. 23, and the policemen using the car testified he was intoxicated. The other three defendants were also involved in accidents as a result of their drinking. They are Henry Erickson, 30 years old, 1324 Washington boulevard; Frank Nolick, 56 years old, 2246 South Kostner avenue, and Donald A. Evans, 29 years old, 4955 Montana street.

Evans got a stay of sentence pending an appeal. Lincoln park police testified that Evans, captured after a three mile chase on Aug. 14, resisted arrest so violently that it required three of them to get him to a cell.

Thornton Smith, 21 years old, 4544 Evans avenue, a Negro, was also sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell on a charge of reckless driving. Hyman Smith, 25 years old, 1973 Evergreen avenue, was sent to the Bridewell for five days for leaving the scene of an accident.

Identified in Milwaukee as Chicagoan's Assailant

George Peterson of Milwaukee was identified by three witnesses in the Wisconsin city yesterday as the man who on June 22 shot and seriously wounded James Pinc, 32 years old, 5143 South Fairfield avenue.

KIDNAPERS' VICTIM FALLS OUT OF AUTO AND GAINS FREEDOM

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Accidentally falling out of the speeding automobile of two kidnapers, H. D. Snell, wealthy merchant and farmer of Cordell, Okla., unexpectedly gained his liberty near here early today from abductors who had tortured him in an attempt to extract $50,000 ransom.

The victim was knocked unconscious by his fall, but revived and stumbled several miles to Alamo Heights, where a special policeman saw him.

Snell said he was kidnaped yesterday morning at his home. Two masked men seized him, forced him into his own automobile and drove away. Near Wichita Falls the kidnapers were met by two confederates, Snell told police. The four tortured him by choking him, stepping on his neck and poking pistols in his side in an attempt to force him to sign a note or check for $50,000, the victim said.

Finally the men blindfolded and gagged him and placed him in an automobile. Snell, lying unbound in the tonneau of the car, reached his hand blindly above him, pulled on the door lever, and rolled from the car when it lurched. Apparently the kidnapers drove on without stopping.

DUBLIN ENTERS 8TH WEEK WITH NO NEWSPAPERS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 14.—The Dublin newspaper printers' strike, now entering upon its eighth week, has reached a state of deadlock. With the printers' rejection of the terms of a proposed settlement yesterday, the prospects are that Dublin will continue to be a news-starved city for weeks more.

The issue upon which the printers are at variance with the newspapers is the question of a fortnight's pay that the printers contend should have been paid to them when they were locked out. The newspaper managers contend the printers themselves broke the agreement between both sides whe they exercised their censorship rights by refusing to set certain copy.

The commercial interests of the city are suffering severely through lack of advertising mediums. Vendors of pamphlet-form journals purporting to give Irish news are doing a brisk trade. English newspapers with limited Irish news services are eagerly sought after, even at increased prices. Every Dublin newspaper office has hundreds of birth, marriage, and death announcements that have piled up, awaiting the production of the newspapers.

BLUE EAGLE LOSS UNJUSTIFIED, SAY GOLDBLATT BROS.

A statement predicting that further investigation will show there was no valid reason for the order to turn in their Blue Eagle was issued yesterday by Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., who operate a chain of department stores. The order alleged violations of the hour and wage provisions of the retail code, selling below list prices, and violations of the loss-leader provisions of the retail jewelry code.

"Yesterday at 10:30 a. m.," the Goldblatt statement said, "we received a wire from Washington advising us that we had violated the jewelry code and the retail fair practices code, and asking us to return our Blue Eagle.

"We are at a loss to understand this action, and believe after further investigation it will be found that there was no reason for it."

TEST TRAINMAN'S AUTO; HE KNOWS VALUE OF BRAKES

Lives Depend on Them, Says Engineer.

George Grehn, who, in his work as engineer of a North Western railroad suburban train gets daily lessons on the value of good brakes on both locomotives and automobiles, drove his family car through THE TRIBUNE'S free safety lane at 401 East Ontario street yesterday. Mr. Grehn lives at 315 Elm avenue, Elmhurst.

Motorists can learn a lesson in safety from the routine precautions which every railroad takes to protect its passengers and employés against faulty equipment, said Mr. Grehn. The locomotive which he drives receives a more thorough inspection every day than many motorists give their cars in the course of a year.

Checked After Each Trip.

"A locomotive's brakes are inspected after every trip, even if it has run only twenty miles," said Mr. Grehn. "I must test my brakes before I start every run. I test them again when I have run a thousand yards out of the terminal, and on a run into Chicago I test them before I enter the terminal interlocking block system.

"Every locomotive receives a general mechanical inspection after 300 miles running, at most, and the brakes and other mechanical appliances on cars are tested at every division point. At regular intervals a locomotive goes into the shop for a general overhauling and replacement of worn and faulty parts.

Drivers Scare Him.

"If motorists were just half as careful of their cars, we engineers would be spared a lot of nervous shocks. More than once I've slammed on my brakes with my heart in my mouth, wondering whether a driver's brakes were going to stop him from skidding out into my path at a grade crossing. I don't want my family to take any risks like that with our car."

Mr. Grehn discovered that his car needed a brake adjustment. He recently had the brake linings replaced, and the pressure on the two front wheels was so unequal as to put the car in danger of a skid if the brakes were applied suddenly on a slippery pavement. That was going to be fixed as soon as the car got back to a shop, Mr. Grehn announced as he left.

QUINTS WINNING BATTLE AGAINST SERIOUS ILLNESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 14.—The famed Dionne quintuplets appeared today to be overcoming the serious illness which has caused worry over their chances for life.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the country doctor who brought the "quints" into the world 109 days ago and has battled since to keep them alive, was optimistic over their chances of recovering from their attack of intestinal toxaemia. He said that while he believed the crisis past, it would be several days before they have completely recovered.

EXTENSIVE PLANS OF CONSTITUTION WEEK COMPLETE

Notables Will Speak at Fair Monday.

Patriotic, civic and educational groups throughout the city yesterday were completing plans to make Constitution week, which opens tomorrow, the most memorable since the movement began.

By speeches and other means these workers bent their efforts toward focusing the city's attention upon the country's charter of government, which in recent months has been widely discussed.

Monday is to be a high point of the week's observance. On that day, officially designated as Constitution day prominent speakers will urge their listeners to study the constitution and to lend their aid in its perpetuation.

Great Demand for Bulletin.

Mrs. Harry Atwood, executive director of the Constitution Education association and widow of its founder, has announced that demand for the association's special bulletin is far greater this year than ever before. The bulletin is used by speakers, teachers, and groups as the basis of programs for observance of of Constitution week, originated by Mr. Atwood.

R. W. O'Farrell, president of the Young Democrats of Cook County, yesterday urged all members of the organization to study the constitution, particularly on Constitution day. The task has been simplified by THE TRIBUNE, for in tomorrow's rotogravure section will appear an illuminated reproduction in color of the American organic law, as prepared by the Constitution Education association.

200,000 to Attend Fair.

Constitution day at the World's Fair will be celebrated on a grand scale. Advance sale of the special $6 tickets for $1 yesterday approached the 200,000 mark. Fair officials expected the sale to pass a quarter of a million before Monday. Weather permitting, the observance will probably help in making Monday a record day at the Fair.

Among the nationally prominent speakers who will give addresses to the Fair throngs are former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, an authority on the constitution, and Hanford MacNider, past national commander of the American Legion, who will speak in the evening in the Court of States. Former Senator Otis F. Glenn of Illinois will speak in the afternoon at the Illinois Host house.

Walter F. Dodd, former president of constitutional law at Yale university, will address the Union League club at noon Monday. Special talks will be given at the same time in schools and before other civic, political and social organizations.

ROMANCE SPANS SEA; CHILDHOOD LOVERS ARE WED

The childhood romance of Xavier Schmid and Miss Maria Fischer, which began in Buhlerzell, Germany, resulted yesterday in a wedding in St. Anne's church in Barrington.

Seven years ago Schmid, who is 22 years old, came to the United States and purchased a farm near Barrington. When he left Germany he told Maria that he would send for her as soon as he had made enough money to allow them to marry.

Seven years of separation failed to dim the romance and Maria arrived in Chicago Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Wagner of Arlington Heights.

BUSINESS GAINS REPORTED BY BIG FAIR EXHIBITORS

Sales 50 to 100% Over 1933 Exhibition.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A decided uptrend in sales and sales prospects as a direct result of the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition was reported yesterday by practically all the major industrial concerns with exhibits at the Fair. The business increase directly attributable to the Fair participation ranged from 50 to 100 per cent over that which resulted from the 1933 Exposition, officials reported.

This increase over last year's sales results was particularly impressive when compared with attendance figures of the two Expositions. As of yesterday morning the 1933 Fair had entertained 15,065,213 visitors, while during the same number of days the 1934 Exposition had registered 10,880,970 paid admissions. A previous survey among concessionaires showed that 1934 visitors averaged a larger expenditure for food and amusements than did those of 1933, so that spending in 1934 increased in all brackets.

'34 Business Best.

Many exhibiting companies were unable to give exact figures as to the increase over last year, but all were unanimous in saying that, as far as new business went, the second year of the Exposition was much more important than the first. A majority of the concerns have kept records on new business to test the effectiveness of the Fair promotion.

One of the largest percentage increases was reported by the General Motors corporation. Despite the fact that attendance at the corporation's exhibit this year is 27.9 per cent less than that at the same time in 1933, sales from the exhibit have increased by more than 100 per cent. A still greater proportion of sales, according to officials, were made indirectly as a result of the company's exhibit at the Fair.

More than a million dollars' worth of automobiles have been sold to Fair visitors at the Chrysler exhibit since the opening of the Exposition, according to D. S. French, exhibit manager. With six weeks of the Fair remaining Chrysler motors have sold 1,263 automobiles as compared to 754 for the corresponding period of last year, for an increase of 61 per cent.

"To me this is marked evidence of a new automobile buying wave," Mr. French said. "We do not expect that this will materialize immediately but, viewed most conservatively, it presages an early gain in automobile sales volume."

General Electric Reports.

K. R. Ross, manager of the General Electric company exhibit in the Electrical building, reported that inquiries relevant to sales "which were received at our Fair office and referred to local branches" are approximately 60 per cent more numerous this year than last year. No direct sales are made at the exhibit.

"As far as we can determine at the Firestone factory," C. D. Smith, manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company exhibit, said, "there is a favorable reaction from our Fair exhibit shown in business totals. We attribute a greatly strengthened trend in our organization to contacts made and improved here. Public interest in our tire production definitly has increased, as shown by the increased ratio of attendance at the exhibit to the attendance of the Fair itself. Since the Fair opened in 1933 we have had more than thirteen and a half million visitors."

While no accurate figures as to tire sales were furnished by the company, sales of small souvenir items at the exhibit have averaged more than $2,500 a week.

Inquiries Show Increase.

A 50 per cent increase in the number of inquiries was reported by E. H. Sniffin, assistant vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, in charge of the company's exhibit.

"We have no direct sales plan in connection with our exhibit," he said, "but it is safe to say we have had a 50 per cent increase in sales prospects."

Despite indecision as to coming into the 1934 Fair and worry as to the gains that might result, the Singer Sewing Machine company is now vastly pleased with sales and prospects resulting, according to A. C. Germain, a director.

"I am gratified to say," he said, "that our sales this year are 54 per cent ahead of last year and there has been but one week all summer that we have fallen behind the record of 1933."

Not only has the influence of the Exposition been felt during the last two years, but it will have a direct bearing on sales results for the next ten years, was the declaration of the management of the American Radiator company's exhibit. The sales and sales prospects at the present time are far ahead of last year, the manager said.

Sears-Roebuck Pleased.

After a slow start this year Sears, Roebuck & Co. now is getting business from 30 per cent of the general admissions to the Fair, John H. Mullen, director of the exhibit, said. "These people have placed mail orders through our display which are 20 per cent in excess of last year," he said. "We are deeply gratified."

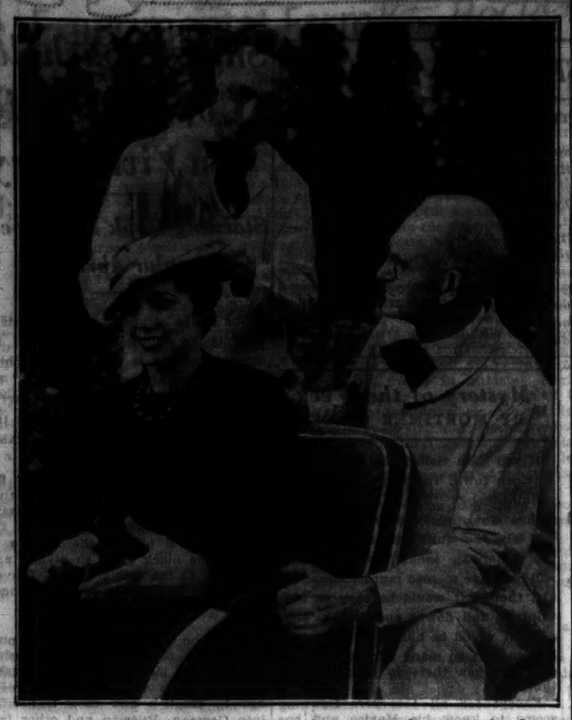

The crew of the Johns-Manville exhibit would not permit themselves to be quoted, but said the company was much better satisfied with the number of inquiries this year than those of last year. Sales from the International Harvester company exhibit will top those of last year, according to H. M. Hunting, exhibit manager. Sales at the present time are on a par with 1933, but inquiries and sales prospects are far in advance over last year.

"Right here on my desk is a letter from the New York office stating that they have lined up one of the biggest dealers in Louisiana on the strength of his visit to our show," said W. S. Shirk, director of the Sinclair Oil company exhibit. "This has been happening daily."

Sales at the Bristol-Meyers-Ipana toothpaste exhibit, despite a lower attendance than in 1933, are up by more than 20 per cent, according to T. E. Ingegretson, manager.

Satisfaction as to the results of his company's participation in the Fair was expressed by J. R. Hill, manager of the Gulf Refinery exhibit.

FAIR TO REDUCE ADMISSION FOR ALL UNDER 18

Admission to the World's Fair, effective Tuesday, will be cut to 10 cents for all visitors under 18 years of age. The lowered admission price, announced yesterday by Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager, will be effective at all gates at all hours of the day. The admission for adults remains at 50 cents.

Another cut price feature for children will become effective Monday morning at 8 o'clock. That is the student tour admission feature. Between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. students arriving in groups of ten with a teacher will be admitted for five cents each. The teacher, on the presentation of her credentials, will be admitted free of charge.

At midnight the official attendance was 55,253.

MIGHTY PAGEANT OF CITY'S HISTORY TO THRILL CROWD

Final Rehersal Tonight for Drama of Chicago.

Preparation for the production of "The Drama of Chicago on Parade" in Soldiers' field tomorrow night as the high point of Chicago's Homecoming week festivities, now in progress, will be completed tonight with a dress rehersal of the spectacular pageant depicting the city's history. The pageant tomorrow is to be free. No seats will be reserved.

Meanwhile, firemen and policemen from the city's forces who will become actors for the occasion, are busy polishing up their buttons and their stars. They are to play the rôles of heroes in two of the thriller episodes of the pageant, the great Chicago fire of 1871 and a dashing modern scene in which a holdup, a shooting, and a mad pursuit and eventual capture by the police are shown.

Five Thousand Will Take Part.

Five thousand persons will take part in the pageant, including 500 musicians, according to Barnet Hodes, secretary of the pageant. Members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Chicago Opera company orchestra, and all others are donating their services.

The vast crowds expected by Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Ahead committee, which by contributions from business men financed the $125,000 pageant, will be able to see and hear clearly, Hodes said. An improved loud speaking system is being installed.

Floats depicting colorful events in Chicago's history will move in succession across the field to take a position in front of a platform at the northern end. As each float maintains its position there actors, dancers, and others on the stage will supplement the float.

To Portray Historic Episodes.

The landing of Louis Joliet in 1674, the Fort Dearborn massacre, the first cabin built in Chicago by Jean Baptiste de Saible, fur trader, and the Columbian Exposition will be among the many spectacles portrayed. A narrator will read the story of Chicago while music plays softly and actors perform.

Among the actors will be 300 men from the Illinois emergency relief shelters, who will be paid for acting as members of the mob scene in the fire of '71. Firemen from the city fire department, dressed in old time uniforms, will battle the flames with ancient equipment, among which is a horse drawn steamer actually used at the time of the fire.

Chicagoans who are unfamiliar with the working of their police department are expected to find all the romance of a detective serial in the snappy chapter of modern Chicago life thirty-two policemen actors will provide. These include two police matrons, who with two policemen will ride in a high powered car as citizens returning from a social engagement.

Stage Big Holdup.

When a spotlight directed on their car turns red, five bandits holding shotguns and revolvers will pull up beside them and hold them up.

The climax of the police act comes after an alarm of the holdup is broadcast over the radio and the bandits are traced to a house in which they have taken refuge.

Six squad cars dash up. The gunmen's hideout is surrounded, tear gas is pelted upon them by police, and the scene ends with the death or capture of the robbers.

Despite the inclement weather of last night parades, fêtes, and other celebrations were held in various parts of the city, and as many more are scheduled for tonight.

"Spirit of Youth" Day.

Boys and girls throughout the city competed yesterday in citizenship, oratory, industrial arts, and athletics as the Spirit of Youth contests held the spotlight for the day in Chicago's Civic Homecoming week festival.

Abel Berland of 4702 North Drake avenue, won first place in the junior citizenships boys' contest, with a grade of 89.2. Dorothy Claypool of 7905 Luella avenue, with a grade of 87.1, was declared the winner in the girls' contest.

Alvin Winkler of 1055 Lafayette street was declared the boy winner of the industrial arts contest. Grace Palm, 4605 North Lowell avenue, was placed first among girl contestants.

First winner among boys in the oratory contest was Robert Mark of 4833 Washtenaw avenue. The city's prize winning girl orator was declared to be Marion Thon of 4319 Champlain avenue.

U. S. TAKES HIGH AND LOW RELIEF MEAT BIDDERS

Award Contracts on Drouth Cattle.

At the federal government's request the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in a meeting yesterday embarked on a meat processing venture that compelled it to let contracts to high bidders and low bidders alike, since none alone could handle the huge volume of cattle purchased in drouth areas. The program, involving more than 20 million pounds of beef, will be started immediately.

The commission approved bids totaling $525,946 for slaughtering and boning cattle and canning the resultant hamburger. A purchasing agent termed it a "bidders' paradise" as the Ottawa Packing company of Ottawa, Ill., was awarded the slaughtering and boning business at 71 cents a hundred pounds, 42 per cent more than the low bidder, T. F. O'Connell of Decatur, who quoted a price of 50 cents. Two other concerns got all the business they could handle at 65 and 54½ cents.

Canners Get Contracts.

Similarly, for canning hamburger, the Gibson Canning company of Gibson City, Ill., will be paid its higher bid of 5.75 cents a pound. The low bidder, Chappel Brothers of Rockford, will get 5.25 cents a pound. Their contracts will total $363,852. Slaughtering and boning 33,450 cattle will cost the commission $162,093.

The canned meat will cost an estimated 8 cents a pound, but this will not include the cost of the cattle to the federal government, or of distribution. All of the expense but the last item is chargeable to the drouth relief program.

"We've had 25 telephone and telegraph messages from Washington pushing us on this program," the commission was told by O. F. Beyer, district representative of the Federal Surplus Relief corporation. "The government has every storage house in Chicago loaded with beef. However, government officials indicated they may go from a slaughtering program to a feeding program."

At this there were snickers from members of the commission.

Commission Approves Plan.

"I don't see anything to do but to go ahead," Chairman Robert J. Dunham finally said, "as long as the government wants it. Let the record show we approve the procedure subject to the allocation of sufficient drouth relief funds to pay for it."

Grievances against the method of handling relief, coupled with a long list of demands for more relief, were presented to the commission by a committee of the Illinois Workers' alliance.

The committee demanded cash relief, with budgets ranging from $46 a month for a single person to $100 a month for a family of seven.

World's Fair Notes

FIVE tour parties totaling more than 1,000 people will arrive over the Milwaukee road today. Some of the parties include 300 Knights Templar from Milwaukee, here to take part in the grand conclave and parade of knights through the Fair grounds today.

Entries for the dahlia show, opening today at the Horticultural building, by far exceed those of last year, according to B. B. Melgaard of the Central States Dahlia society, staging the show.

Senator and Mrs. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin, Roy Barnett of the Standard Oil company and Mrs. Barnett, and Attorney John Hopkins visited the Fair yesterday as guests of Anthony Czarnecki, federal customs inspector in Chicago.

Porter Heaps, well known Chicago organist, will take over the console of the Kilgen organ on Swift bridge at the World's Fair Monday. He will succeed Jesse Crawford.

James A. Reed, former United States senator of Missouri, and Hanford MacNider, former assistant secretary of war during the last administration, will be heard on the evening program in the Court of States Monday, Constitution day at the Fair. Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator of Illinois, will be heard on the afternoon program in the Illinois Host House.

Herma Clark, writer of the "When Chicago Was Young" column of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE, will give her illustrated talk, "Footlight Favorites of Yesterday," in the Illinois Host House this evening at 8 o'clock.

One thousand employés of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company will visit the Fair this week-end.

Armed Warriors Fire on Argentine Outposts.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Two army airplanes arrived here today to aid land forces in smashing a band of Indians on the warpath in the Chaco region. Reports reaching Las Lomitas, chief military outpost in the Pilcomayo river region, said several Argentine soldiers had been wounded in a skirmish with the Indians.

Patrols on the Argentine side of the Pilcomayo river have been reinforced and Paraguayan troops across the border have moved to disperse those Indian raiders in Paraguayan territory.

Fire on Outposts.

The warriors, armed with more than 1,000 guns of various types, crossed the Pilcomayo river from the Gran Chaco a few days ago, butchered a woman and her two children, and began to fire on Argentine outposts.

It was understood that the Indians have been dislodged from their home territory by the Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia. Their food problem, too, has been complicated by the drouth along the Pilcomayo. It was believed the Indians had obtained most of their arms from Bolivian and Paraguayan casualties in the Chaco. Advices said the Indians apparently were being aided by Bolivian and Paraguayan deserters.

Radio Station Ordered Closed.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—The Argentine government has closed the Standard Oil company's wireless station at Tartagal, in Salta province, near the Bolivian frontier, on the charge of "suspicious activities" in the Chaco war that threaten Argentine neutrality.

Postal inspectors reported the seizure of messages concerning the delivery of large sums of money for the purchase and delivery of carts, mules, and war materials, and concerning interviews with army officers.

This report, read into the Congressional Record last night during a debate in the chamber of deputies, charged that the Standard Oil had constructed a 150 mile system of pipe lines in Salta province through a concession from the provincial authorities for bringing petroleum into Argentina from Bolivian fields after the national government had refused a permit for such construction.

Claims Bolivians Driven Back.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The war ministry today announced that Paraguayan forces in the Canada el Carmen sector of the Chaco boreal had pushed Bolivians further back.

Bloody patrol clashes occurred in the neighborhood of Fort Vitiones and Santa Cruz, the communique said.

Earlier heavy fighting had been reported in two other important sections of the Chaco, Carandayty and Ballivian, where artillery and machine gun fire supported infantry in sharp front line clashes.

Manifesto Made Public.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A purported manifesto directed by Gen. José Estigarribia, Paraguayan commander in chief, to his soldiers was made public by the war ministry here today with the comment, "here is the origin of the tragedy" of the Chaco war. The document, said to have been captured during recent fighting, read in part:

"To you is confided the definite conquest of this beautiful promise for Paraguay's economic expansion contained in the fabulously rich petroleum wells of Bolivia. Very few kilometers now separate you from those riches, which will compensate for the sacrifices of this war."

The high command today announced that Bolivian troops in the vicinity of Algodonal, important communications center in the Chaco, were pursuing Paraguayans.

HANGS HERSELF IN HER DIVORCED HUSBAND'S ROOM

Mrs. Margaret Roumell, 35 years old, divorced wife of George Roumell, owner of the Normandie inn, 158 West Washington street, hanged herself yesterday in her husband's room at the Washington hotel, just across the street from his tavern.

At the time of her divorce on last Dec. 10 it was brought out that she had attempted suicide on Thanksgiving day in her home at 1900 Lincoln avenue. She promised Judge Rudolph Desort then that she would cease her suicide attempts if he granted her the divorce.

Two weeks ago she moved into the Washington hotel and took room 302, her husband and Arthur George, an employé of the tavern, living in room 301.

When George went to his room last night he found the body of Mrs. Roumell. She had fashioned a noose from her husband's neckties and hanged herself from the bedpost. An envelope addressed "To police" contained a note which read: "You will find papers on me when you search my body." The papers consisted of a bank book and a will made on Aug. 4 last leaving all her property to her son, George Roumell Jr., 4 years old.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Authentic New Voice Emerges in First Novel

'Now in November' Lyric Prose Novel of Drouth.

"Now in November," by Josephine Johnson. [Simon & Schuster.] Published on Wednesday.

"Papa Pasquier," by Georges Duhamel [Harpers].

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

An authentic new voice in American fiction sings its first song in "Now in November." And the choice of that metaphor is not an inaccurate one, for it is unquestionably lyric prose that Josephine Johnson writes, exquisite, singing, lovely. Oddly and penetratingly wise for a girl of twenty-four. The whole book is oddly and penetratingly wise for one so young . . . in choice of subject, restraint, and the implications of social and human suffering.

"Now in November" is a pæan of the drouth. In its pages, tingling with the rich beauty of natural things and the passion of sensitive man for the soil, slowly the drouth emerges from the shadows of a mere sensed menace into the only living passionate thing left on the landscape. It absorbs all else . . . growing things, human beings, emotions. Even love is speechless in its clutch. The drouth grows . . . all else dies. That a girl of twenty-four should have been able to sense its cosmic power and be able to transcribe that power into prose is important. That she should have at the same time been able to make an epic of high tragic beauty from that material is remarkable.

Josephine Johnson has put into words something that has been lived inarticulately by thousands. And into words, too, she has put man's dependence upon what those who do not think would call the ephemera.

She writes: "I thought to myself—if anything could fortify me against whatever was to come . . . it would have to be the small and eternal things—the whippoorwill's long liquid howling near the cave . . . the shape of young mules against the ridge, moving lighter than bucks across the pasture . . . things like the chorus of cicadas, and the ponds stained red in evenings. . . . As long as I can see, I thought, I shall never go utterly starved or thirsty, or want to die."

The chorus of small and eternal things Josephine Johnson places against the central theme of her Greek tragedy of the drouth.

"Now in November" is a first novel which any writer might envy. It is more akin to the luminous work of Willa Cather than to that of any other American writer.

From the pen of Georges Duhamel comes another chronicle of family life in its battle against odds. M. Duhamel, being older, more sophisticated, the son of an ancient and knowing race, sees his story with a more ironic eye than does Miss Johnson, but there is something akin in the two books, a simplicity, a reality, a deep sapping of the springs of human actions and emotions.

The family which M. Duhamel chronicles is a French one in Paris consisting of a father who wants to be educated at any price, a mother who, like the mother in "Now in November," has cosmic peace in the midst of misfortune, unhappiness and tragedy, and three children.

"Papa Pasquier" is obviously merely the first of a series of records of the Pasquier family. In it the second son tells the story. (In "Now in November" the second daughter is the narrator.) All of the children are still small when the comic-tragic dénouement takes place. The years have been lived blown up like a balloon with the expectation of a legacy. With that idea M. Duhamel plays skilfully and brilliantly the while he records the lives of a simple French family individually and as a class. So gently does he deal with his characters that the reader does not realize until the book is finished how surgeonlike has been his touch.

M. Duhamel was, as you may have forgotten, destined for surgery. He served as a surgeon during the world war, and the scalpel sharpness of his mind was evident to any one who has read those two supreme books about the war, "Civilization" and "Life of the Martyrs."

"Papa Pasquier" is not bitter, as were those two masterpieces. It is genial and amusing, but sharp and incisive.

"Papa Pasquier" was translated from the French—excellently—by Samuel Putnam.

Works of Ring Lardner Are Collected by Seldes

A friend of Ring Lardner's was telling me the other day about a talk she had had with Ring Lardner a few months before his death when he was in Arizona trying to avert that inevitable end. "He was talking about his sons, one of whom wants to write fiction, and he said 'That boy will do something to make the Lardner name live and help the world to forget what a hack his father was.'" Gilbert Seldes has edited the "ephemera" which flowed from Ring's pen with the ease of a Niagara slipping over the cliff, and with a comparable power, into a volume called "First - to Last Ring Lardner" [Scribners]. And it proves how wrong Ring was in his judgment of his own work.

G.B.S. Omnibus Leading English Best Seller List

Oddity: 'A Poet Honored on His Own Heath.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The English do not as a rule give many honors to their poets. One of them, Sir William Watson, is living upon a small pension in a seaside village, almost unknown to the majority of his fellow countrymen.

But another is in a different case. Robert Nichols has just been made a jurat of the ancient town of Winchelsea; and in future when the town celebrates some event he will be entitled to wear a cocked hat and robes. He will also have to take an oath to defe' the town from the French. But that means the French of at least a hundred years ago, for Winchelsea used to be a seaport, and it is now many years since it was anywhere near the sea, owing to a recession of the tides.

Nichols has now finished his long satiric poem, "Fisbo," which will be published in the autumn by Heinemann.

Twenty-one years ago Gilbert Cannan wrote a novel called "Round the Corner," the point of the title being that Life [with the capital] is always just round the corner. Now the same title has been used by another writer who was once apprentice to a Shrewsbury carpenter, and who was told that "Life is now, this very moment. Don't miss a bit of it." It is said of this young apprentice that he "was born to skate round the corner in search of adventure." So the title has a different meaning altogether from the one Cannan gave it.

The author of the new "Round the Corner" is Percy Brown. He left Shrewsbury to go in for stage carpentering; then he took part in one night stands, traveled as far as San Francisco, and returned to England to become a professional roller skater.

In the war he was an unofficial photographer, was captured by the Germans and interned at Ruhleben, and managed to be aboard one of the German vessels when they surrendered and were sunk in Scapa Flow.

The book is said to be wild with exciting adventures, and it certainly sounds as if it must be so. [Faber & Faber.]

The Omnibus Volume of George Bernard Shaw's Collected Prefaces is the best seller in England at the present moment. Its only rival is the new novel by Francis Brett Young, which is everywhere popular.

Some time ago Shaw's plays were printed in one volume—without the prefaces—and now those who were sharp enough to snap up the earlier book, which is out of print, will have the author's dramatic works, complete, in two volumes, for something very much less than the cost of these same works in the collected edition. But the collected edition is still best for comfort in reading. [Constable.]

'Black God' Is a Compelling Tale of Congo

Jungle Magic Forms the Background.

BY AL CHASE.

African ju-ju, darkest of all the arts grouped under the broad name of magic, forms the somber background of Doris Manner-Sutton's "Black God" [Longmans-Green], an engrossing and colorful story of the Congo, which is the Book of the Month club selection for September.

Around this sinister subject and zoomorphism [the ability of natives to turn into animals, murder humans and then return to their former bodies], Miss Sutton has written a picturesque and dramatic depiction of life in a small community in the Belgian Congo.

"Black God" is a loosely gathered collection of sketches, character studies and incidents, with little dialog, scarcely a smile, but with many a thrill and creeps a-plenty as compensation.

Woven through the sketchy plot are the dark doings of the African men of magic and the tireless throbbing of their ju-ju drums calling to sinister orgiastic revels in the jungle.

M'Kato, who lost his sister to a slave driving Englishman and then lost both his hands because he dared strike her seducer, was told by a witch doctor to sit on the bank of the narrowest river he could find and wait.

"When he was asked why he sat there, he always gave the same reply—that the river was the narrowest that he had yet come to, and as he had to use his foot to throw an assegai he could not throw very far.

For twenty years or more the black god sat cross-legged and immutable on the little river's edge watching the tragedies and comedies of a small African community on the opposite side, until at last his wait was rewarded. The Englishman who mutilated him and seduced his sister came, as the witch doctor foresaw, and M'Kato's revenge was brought about—but not by him.

M'Kato's long vigil on the river bank saw the little Congo community grow from a scattered collection of houses to a flourishing settlement—"there were two missions, two hospitals, a bank, a hotel, a market square, a town band and a fair-haired courtesan. It could almost be called a thoroughly Christian community."

The author, who has lived in the Congo and knows the mysterious ways of the native and apparently believes in many of them, has made "The Black God" a strangely compelling and deeply interesting story of small town life, love and lust—in the jungle.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

If you have visited that small, steep Mexican town, Taxco, you will be entertained by "The Cat Screams" (Crime club), by Todd Downing. You will also be quite surprised because the American inhabitants of Taxco will not have seemed murder conscious and though it would be easy as anything to fall down and break your neck, it would be hard as anything to believe that so many arresting things could happen there in a few days' time.

Except for all this Mr. Downing seems to know his Mexico and has written a very good story about it, which turns out very unexpectedly and offers credible reasons for all the things that happen, including the cat's screams.

If I were a less austere critic I might recommend it as the "cat's whiskers." I might also caution you not to let it prejudice you against Taxco. I am sure you will find very nice people there with no sort of designs on your life. Since it is a small and personal place this reassurance seems important.

Professor Writes of Boy and Girl Tramps in America

If you didn't know there were any, "Boy and Girl Tramps in America," by Thomas Minehan [Farrar & Rinehart], will absorb, shock, and enlighten you. There are plenty of them according to the author, who is a young college professor at the University of Minnesota. Russia's wild children, Germany's free youth have little on America's baby hobos, according to the author. You will find in Prof. Minehan's book why they leave home, how they travel, where they sleep, how they get food and clothing, how religion, sex and philosophy affect their standards.

Ship's Stokehold Comes to Life in Vivid Story

Startling Book About Sea Popular Abroad.

One of the strangest and most startling books of the sea published in several seasons is "The Death Ship: The Story of an American Sailor," by B. Traven [Knopf]. It is a powerful and dramatic story which leaves the reader a little dazed and considerably puzzled.

Is it an autobiography or is it fiction? One would hazard a guess that the author at some time must have worked in a stokehold of a tramp, for no one could picture the horrors of life in the black gang so vividly and minutely as the mysterious B. Traven has unless he actually had experienced them.

And who is B. Traven? The publishers add to the mystery by using a blurbless jacket. We understand the book was written several years ago in English and then translated into German, Russian and other languages, with tremendous sales in foreign countries.

For some reason it never was printed in English until recently. It is now being published in England in a translation from the German edition. The American publishers state that they are using the original English manuscript for their edition.

One has the feeling, however, that the author is not an American. The book reads like a translation or the work of a foreign born writer. He uses a strange slang, made up of words never heard on the street, in the cinema, or on the stage of this country. Perhaps it's the vernacular of the black gang.

But no matter whether it is fiction or fact, the mysterious B. Traven has written an outstanding book of the sea; a powerful, stirring, and enthralling story of sordid horror, death, and destruction. It ends with one of the most impossible shipwrecks in maritime writing—that part at least is fiction. But of the balance — one wonders.

The Panorama of Modern Literature

TO READ FREE—

We want you to see for yourself the amazing book values this new kind of book club brings its members. They get books first published at $2.00 to $3.50 FOR ONLY $1 EACH! This free trial will explain, more clearly than anything we can say, why 120,000 booklovers who have already become members have enthusiastically welcomed this plan.

FREE MEMBERSHIP

in the Doubleday One Dollar Book Club Saves You $1 to $2.50 on a Good Book Each Month...

AT OUR EXPENSE, without cost or obligation, will you try this new money-saving plan? Over 120,000 people have already accepted this offer. Free Membership in this new kind of book club now entitles them to obtain books on the Club List first published at $2.00 to $3.50—for ONLY $1.00 EACH.

There is still time for you to get one of these Free Memberships. You do not have to buy any particular number of books. You buy only those you really want, when you want them. You pay for them only after you have examined them. If you TAKE nothing you PAY nothing. And every book you do take means a clear saving.

Good Books by Great Writers

One month the book offered may be a fascinating Biography. The next month it may be absorbing Travel or Adventure, or an outstanding work of Fiction. It is always a book appealing to discriminating readers for its interest, permanent value and literary excellence.

Authors of the books offered in past month have included H. G. Wells, W. Somerset Maugham, Christopher Morley, Clemence Dane, William McFee, and other best-selling writers.

Every book is a high grade volume, an edition identical with, or better than, the original. For example, "The Panorama of Modern Literature" is printed on fine antique paper, bound in lustrous green cloth tastefully stamped in contrasting color. It has 568 pages, almost 225,000 words, three times as many as in the average novel.

How Does This Club Plan Work?

Every month (provided you wish it) the postman brings you a good book like this. You pay nothing in advance—nothing to the postman. You alone are the judge of whether you wish to keep it. Each book is yours for three days' free reading. Before you pay for it, you first make sure you want it. If you do—if you are sure you will enjoy it—then you merely send $1 for it, plus ten cents for packing and postage.

If, however, any particular book does not appeal simply return it and pay nothing. Or, if you wish, order any alternate book described in the Monthly Bulletin (sent free to members only). Or you may take no book at all, any month you so prefer. At all times you take only the books you want—pay for only the books you keep!

The PANORAMA of Modern Literature

Never before have so many delightful works of fiction, essays, and verse—by so great a variety of fine modern authors—been gathered into one single handsome volume offered at such a low price.

The Finest Authors of Our Time

The 568-page book starts with a special introduction by Christopher Morley. Then a story by Sinclair Lewis, never before in book form. Aldous Huxley contributes a fascinating story about Italy.

Then Edna Ferber, with "Frankie," and Edna St. Vincent Millay with "Three Sonnets." Then an eerie tale by H. G. Wells.

Conrad—Pearl Buck—Conan Doyle—John Masefield

Joseph Conrad offers the complete "Typhoon." Following is a charming bit by Ogden Nash. Then a great mystery story by Conan Doyle. A Pearl Buck story is next. John Masefield contributes a lovely poem. Stefan Zweig offers "Amok."

Wodehouse—Noel Coward—Wallace

William Beebe gives us "The Home Town of the Army Ants." Then one of Wodehouse's funny sketches—a sophisticated play by Noel Coward—a humorous sketch by James Thurber—then an Edgar Wallace mystery.

Every work is exactly as the author wrote it. The next story, for example, is by William McFee. It, like Arnold Bennett's which follows, is without deletion.

Walpole—Tarkington—Morley

Hugh Walpole gives us one of his best short stories. Booth Tarkington brings us a 15,000-word story, "The Fascinating Stranger." The irrepressible Frank Sullivan offers a rollicking sketch—as does Dorothy Parker. Then comes Christopher Morley, and a poem by Stephen Vincent Benet, author of "John Brown's Body."

BOARD RESTORES 138 PRINCIPALS TO CITY SCHOOLS

System Back to Normal; All Gaps Closed.

The board of education in a special meeting yesterday restored 138 elementary school principals to their positions, which they will take up when the public schools open on Monday. James B. McCahey, president of the board, explained that because of the vastly improved financial condition of the schools, the principals, demoted by the economy program of a year ago, could be now reinstated.

During the last year one principal supervised two elementary schools. The new action of the school trustees returned the system to its former status with a principal for each school. The total of elementary school principals now is 301. Of this number 34 supervise two small schools, or two branch schools apiece.

Cost $90,000 This Year.

"It is estimated that for the remainder of this year the increase will be $90,000," said Mr. McCahey. "For next year it will be $270,00.

Fry argued against the move and passed his vote. The other trustees, however, voted for the plan.

"I am grateful to Mr. McCahey for encouraging this step," asserted Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, woman member of the board. "I also want to express my appreciation to Mayor Kelly, who studied this situation thoroughly, and to the superintendent of schools, who has followed this policy consistently."

900 Teachers Back.

With the restoration of the principals, Mr. McCahey said that 900 of more than 1,200 teachers who had been dismissed through the operation of the economy program were now back in the system, without substantially increasing the monthly pay roll.

Among the steps taken by the board for the reëmployment of the teachers was the policy that no day teacher would be allowed to teach in the night schools, and the creation of three junior colleges where only one, the Crane, existed before.

In addition, vacancies in the teaching ranks caused by deaths and resignations have been filled from the group of temporarily unemployed teachers.

McCahey Praises Mayor.

Mr. McCahey praised Mayor Kelly for his efforts to rehabilitate the school system, in a penniless and demoralized condition when the new school board took office more than a year ago.

"Since that time the schools have been put on a sound financial basis," said McCahey. "Mayor Kelly won a long, hard fight to pay the teachers which resulted in a government loan of $22,300,000. Now the school employés are paid up to date for the first time in three years. It will certainly be a most happy reopening of schools Monday."

Following is a list of the 301 elementary school principals and the schools to which they are assigned. Asterisks indicate the 138 demoted principals who were restored to executive posts:

The school trustees recessed their meeting until Monday morning when they will officiate at the ceremonies opening the new Lane Technical High school at Addison street and Western avenue.

John Christensen, school architect, gave the trustees assurance that the new school, the finest of its kind in the world, will be ready. A dispute between the cement finishers and carpenters over which union should lay mastic tile floors will not interfere with the opening, Christensen declared.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

It's Plowing Time

Sept. 16, 1934.

A start has been made on another fall task here on the farm. With Eddie and Charlie steering the tractors, which were hooked up to plows, the fall plowing is under way. Yesterday I could look across a 70 acre field west of Louis Thurow's house and see the freshly turned black soil in contrast to the old stubble through which the shiny steel blade of the plow is going to travel this week. The boys will finish this field at once and then run their equipment to other fields for more plowing.

The 90 acre field of soy beans all cut and wind-rowed; fall plowing under way; the corn binders overhauled and ready to march through the cornfields; the cider press in action near the orchard—these and many other activities on the farm tell one that September has passed the half way mark. Old Jack Frost is coming closer every day. Autumn is advancing and here on the farm there is much to be done with the crops before cold weather sets in.

When I saw the grain being fed to the spring lambs on the auxiliary farm it was another sign that autumn is at hand. Carl and John are just beginning to put the finishing touches on the spring lambs. Of course, the sheep must think these extra rations are great. However, this extra food to finish them is just good farm business because the 150 spring lambs are going to be put into shape for a late fall market. Carl calls it "coaxing them along" right now, meaning he is not giving the lambs destined for the market very much extra food at this time—just a little to get them started.

Yesterday I walked down to the woodland pasture on the experimental farm to look at a patch of buckwheat that is south of the pasture. After checking up on this field to see how the plants are filling out I continued on toward the river where all the Hereford steers were feeding. There may be more beautiful corners on this or any farm than the pasture close to the river, but yesterday when we saw the tall wild sunflower plants and the yellow patches of butter and eggs or toadflax growing around thornapple trees loaded with brilliant scarlet fruit, I was ready to vote the pasture autumn's prize winning "show window." Brown Monarch butterflies drifting in uncertain flight over the pasture; puffballs five inches in diameter bulging out of the green grass on which the steers are feeding; black crowned night herons squawling and squawking along the river; walnut trees sporting bright patches of yellow against the deep green of willows; calls of songbirds to be heard from the woods nearby. No matter where you look there is color in this lower woodlands and ample evidence that we are coming into Indian summer days when the autumn flowers always flare colorfully against fading fields of corn and other vegetation.

The buckwheat, hemp and alfalfa fields are rated as "extra good" by Clarence Thurow, farm manager. I looked at the hemp again yesterday. The seeds are forming on top of the plants. But even after you look at this rich green growth and the green alfalfa fields you still cannot erase from your mind the picture of gay yellow sunflowers standing in the cornfields bright and vigorous, while the corn is getting brown.

SEES ROOSEVELT POLICIES LEADING U. S. INTO LEAGUE

Haitian Delegate Praises President at Geneva.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's political roadway leads the United States logically to Geneva and membership in the league of nations, Constantin Mayard, Haitian delegate, told the league assembly tonight. In an address which diverted minds of delegates from European political controversies, Mayard praised the American executive for his action in removing marines from Haiti.

"A new era of confidence has come to Latin America," he asserted, "as the result of Roosevelt's comprehension."

The Roosevelt attitude toward the problems of Haiti, Cuba, and Nicaragua constitutes the milestones leading to Geneva, Mayard said.

"That is our fervent hope," he added.

Poland Stands by Decision.

Meanwhile Poland refused to let criticism shake her decision not to let any international body meddle with her handling of the racial, religious, and linguistic minorities within her borders.

Joseph Beck, Poland's foreign minister who yesterday startled the assembly with his announcement that the Warsaw government no longer considered her minority commitments binding, tonight said Poland maintains her refusal. He denied, however, that Poland was contemplating resigning from the league as the result of British, French, and Italian broadsides leveled at her action.

Under the Polish constitution, he said, all minorities, including the Jewish, will continue to be equal before the law.

[Some 2,000,000 Jews live in Poland.]

Points to Street Demonstration.

"Popular manifestations in the streets of Warsaw yesterday," Beck said, "reflect jubilance over Poland's decision to liberate herself from the discrimination arising from the fact that other great powers are not bound by minority obligations."

The Polish move of yesterday followed upon what Beck termed unsuccessful efforts to have the league generalize minority treaties so as to apply to all league members.

Sir John Simon, British foreign chief, was the first to attack Poland's action at today's session.

"It would not be possible for any state to release itself from obligations of this kind, by unilateral action," he said. "The terms of article 93 of the treaty of Versailles cannot be overlooked—the article which deals with the establishment of Poland."

Sees Treaties Perlied.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, pointed out that Poland's action would imperil treaties and the league mandate itself, and added:

"France, friend and ally of Poland, can not believe that the intervention of Col. Beck will entail such consequences."

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of Italy's delegation, said Italy could not imagine what Poland meant by unilateral denunciation of a general treaty and added flatly:

"The Italian policy is that existing obligations must be respected pending their future possible revision."

Meanwhile the question of Russia's joining the league—shoved into the background in the sensation created by Beck's speech—appeared on the verge of successful solution.

Substance of the invitation to be extended by numerous member states has been drafted and digested, and the draft of the Russian reply approved, it was understood. Moscow's entrance was expected next week.

MRS. W. O. COLVIN GIVEN A DIVORCE AND TRUST FUND

Mrs. Haily McLeod Colvin was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday from Willard Otis Colvin, sportsman and heir to the million dollar estate of his father, Edwin M. Colvin, printer and publisher.

Mrs. Colvin testified that her husband was a good mate until his father died in 1926, but for the last six or seven years "he has been intoxicated five days a week." She said she was satisfied with an out of court settlement under which she will receive not less than $150 a month from a $30,000 trust fund. If she remarries she will get $10,000 outright and the rest of the trust fund will revert to Colvin. The Colvins were married Aug. 28, 1922, in an elopement to Valparaiso, Ind. Their three children died in infancy. In 1928 Mrs. Colvin sued for separate maintenance, charging her husband had been spoiled by his inheritance, but later a reconciliation was effected. Again last February Mrs. Colvin asked separate maintenance, but this week filed an amended bill for divorce. The decree was granted by Judge Daniel P. Trude in Circuit court.

STEAL CRATE OF CHICKENS.

Thieves forced open the rear door of Joseph Lyskawa's poultry house at 1753 West 47th street early yesterday and stole a crate of twenty-one chickens.

NEWLY ERECTED MARKERS STOLEN ON PULASKI ROAD

Disappearance of newly erected street signs changing the name of Crawford avenue to Pulaski road set police of several districts on the hunt yesterday for either vandals who disapprove of the new name or a new species of collector.

Police Commissioner Allman issued an order for details to start patrolling the street in an effort to stop a methodical plundering of the shiny new black signs all the way from Bryn Mawr avenue on the north to 79th street on the south side.

The Shakespeare avenue police reported removal of the signs from intersections of seven cross streets. Others were taken from Fillmore, Cragin, and some of the south side districts.

The name of Crawford avenue was changed to Pulaski road by city ordinance passed by the council several weeks ago. The right of the council to change the name is soon to be determined by the Illinois Supreme court which yesterday received an appeal taken by a group of property owners along the street from the lower court's denial of a writ of mandamus to force the council to rescind its action.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. AMERICAN DEMAGOGS.

Huey Long has sent his troops back from New Orleans after the election in which his candidates were successful. Although the scene was arranged for an outbreak of civil warfare, the only calamity was the further advancement of Long's hold upon the state. The result was of course discouraging to the men and women of Louisiana who tried to break down the control of the political mountebank from whom they have learned to expect no improbability of public conduct. Experience, however, teaches that such characters are expectable in the general run of American political life and that their courses are predictable. Frequently they are closest to their finish when they have apparently gained such control that no escape from them seems possible.

For a while they bring to the front elements which in themselves deny that it is possible for democracy to exist. The acts and purposes of these elements under such leadership are directed against the essence of stability and security, community progress, and social welfare.

A community under this burden can stand just so much of it. Long has reduced New Orleans from the position of second to that of fifth port in America. He drove the Ford factories out because he would not let Ford have his own dock. The reputation he has given the city is, as is the case in every city or state suffering like misfortune, hurt economically by the actions of its political dictator. Eventually the cumulating wrongs and the harmful consequences prove the undoing of the man and the gang responsible. That probably is why democracy can survive these dismal and dismaying occurrences in its process and why it continually renews itself with new life when it seems to have fallen into a condition of rotten decay.

Many of the people in Louisiana are to be blamed for the condition of their government. Without their consent it would be impossible. The people who feel that crêpe on their doors would be the only proper expression of their humiliation and distress may buck up to a continuation of the fight with the knowledge that other regions of the United States have had to do the same thing and have for years doubted their ability to rid their government of the politics which controled it.

Chicago had Hueyism for twelve years, but has cleaned house. Hueyism has had its day in New York, Minnesota, and Ohio, in Milwaukee, in Toledo, out on the west coast, in Boston, in South Carolina. Texas has been full of it. Oklahoma has had its dose, and the political division which can count immunity as a birthright is a rare exhibit in any democracy. In other lands this disease has destroyed democracy, but Americans refuse to succumb to it.

The political wisdom indicated by the boiling over of such disreputable elements in politics is clear enough to be generally understood. The functions of government should be kept within minimum limits. The further government extends its fronts the more it becomes available by elements which cheapen and corrupt it. The simple forms of public administration are the safest. They contain the least temptation. They offer the fewest opportunities for mismanagement and spoliation. They are more easily safeguarded in political action and they will produce the best results in the administration of public affairs. With them the citizen can best protect himself and keep his government within bounds and within the requirements of decency.

POLYGAMY IN AMERICA.

At the present time Scotland is in the throes of a discussion far more interesting than economics or politics. Scotland's birth rate is alarmingly low in proportion to the death rate, and a suggestion has been advanced that polygamy be legalized. Advocates of the plan insist that two or more wives per Scot would mean much larger families, better care for the children, and easier housekeeping. They even urge that extra wives would eliminate the necessity of servants.

The Scots are intrigued but dubious. The servant idea is all right, but the canny Scot is reluctant to consider the thought of having to buy all those extra dresses, stockings, shoes, and feminine fripperies for those extra wives and to provide oatmeal and hot scones for the extra children. It looks as though the plan would fail.

Proponents of polygamy ought to try the United States. Here, where women are daily entering new fields of work and forcing more men out of them, the thought should find favor. An American man could do very nicely with seven wives. Three of these wives in the American polygamous home would be of the household variety. One would cook, one would do other housework, and the other, a pretty one, would entertain the man. The other four would have outside jobs and their combined earnings would thus support the expenses of the ménage. The prospect seems ideal, at least from the standpoint of the fortunate husband, and it would certainly solve the growing problem of female competition in business.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

Although Kingsland Macy remains chairman of the New York state Republican party until the end of his term the party control has been taken out of his hands as a preliminary to the convention in Rochester and he and his followers will not write the platform or the ticket. The state committee did not find it necessary to remove him from office. It merely smothered his plans and set its own in motion.

Mr. Macy, a schoolmate of Franklin Roosevelt at Groton, would have made the Republican party a ladies' aid society to Mr. Farley, the Democratic state party, and the New Deal. The name of this was liberalism. The effect of it would have been Republican captivity. Republicans would have been delivered to the program they want to fight. Mr. Macy's management was calculated to defeat their party.

The state committee having taken control from the chairman, the convention will be in position to declare for principles of government consistent with the history and traditions of the Republican party, opposing the invasions and perversions of legislation and administration which are rounding out into a revolution. The New York Republicans will take the field as upholders of constitutional democracy and representative government against burocratic substitutions for congress and the star chamber for the judiciary.

If it is a revolution it is not to be a peaceable one in New York. It is going into the political mill.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF I WILL ARISE.

In man there is still much of the peacock. He loves to deck himself with medals, plumes, uniforms, and other trappings, but, unlike his ancestors, he now needs an excuse for self-adornment. He is ashamed of the urge to ornament himself because he realizes it comes from a feeling of inferiority. Yet evidence that the urge is still very strong may be found in the various medals, orders, knighthoods, and higher titles bestowed continually in foreign countries.

This personal feeling of inferiority is solaced in America by sundry private orders and lodges established locally and nationally. Thus in this country the urge for decoration reaches its most glorious point in the fascinating and colorful regalia of organizations kindred to the famous Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise.

This method of relieving personal lack of consequence is harmless, but it is another matter when decorations are accepted from a foreign country. Such honors are being received in the United States all the time. Recently twenty-four Chicagoans were given Italian decorations for rendering no more service to Gen. Balbo and his visiting aviators than the laws of hospitality demanded. Russia has just given medals to Alaskan mechanics who helped tune up Russian planes which had landed in American territory.

Wearers of such rewards for so commonplace services must have a feeling of guilt, but nevertheless there is a general scramble by Americans for foreign decorations. It is a sign that they believe they are inferior to foreigners not because of their personal drabness but because of their nationality. They would do well to recall the pride of old Cato, who, when he was asked if he cared to become king of Carthage, replied:

"I prefer to be a Roman citizen."

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Of all the phases of the NRA which have been made the subject of controversy few have been quite so badly confused as its price fixing policies. Nor does President Roosevelt's statement on this subject at a recent press conference do much to clarify matters. The President gave it as his opinion that price fixing is likely to run afoul of the anti-trust laws. Since the administration is now working out a program which will determine those features of the NRA which it wishes to make permanent, it is assumed that it is planning to drop price fixing provisions from the future NRA.

In his tentative admission of the monopolistic character of price fixing agreements the President joins the severest critics of the NRA. It has long been the contention of the opposition that these provisions in the codes violated not only the spirit but the letter of the anti-trust laws. The Darrow commission's report dwelt at considerable length upon this phase of the NRA and it has been the basis of the attack levied against the codes by such critics as Senator Borah and some of the leaders in the Republican party.

Although the criticism which the President now admits may have some reasonable basis in fact has been vigorously denied sincerity by some administrative spokesmen, it is apparent that the government is contemplating a major retreat from price fixing. Something of that nature was foreshadowed when NRA officials announced that price fixing clauses were to be removed from the codes early this summer. This met with an immediate storm of protest from those interested and the statement was modified so as to have no immediate significance. Future codes were to be changed and those that had already been ratified were only to be made the subject of negotiation before any changes were made.

If it is the intention of the administration now to abandon its attempt to maintain price fixing agreements, the future of the codes in many industries becomes exceedingly doubtful. As far as these industries were concerned, the price fixing agreements were the heart of the code. Retreat may not be easy on this point, but it is necessary. If the price fixing idea is not to be definitly abandoned, however, it is time that some decision be reached as to just what it is to mean and to include.

A SWEET, SINCERE little thing told me yesterday with tears in her eyes that of course she couldn't buy silk stockings any more because the great textile strike had tied things up so that silk stockings weren't being made any more. And who told her that fiendish story? Certainly, her husband did. And he was just as lowdown, every bit, as that father who fired a cannon firecracker out in the yard on Christmas eve and then rushed into the sitting room where his innocent little children were hanging up their stockings and shouted, "Didn't you hear that shot out in the yard? Santa Claus has just committed suicide!"

AND IF IT HADN'T BEEN for them the U. S. would right now be a German province, say the Du Pont boys. Well, another answer to that momentous and never satisfactorily answered question, "Who won the war?" But I still think that if I hadn't sold cigarets and chewing gum to the boys in the front line trenches they would not have fought on until victory perched upon their banners. Of course, that's only one man's opinion, I admit that. However—oh, well, what's the use?

I MADE A GREAT DISCOVERY when I was coming home from vacation last month. Oh, not anything to compare with the discovery made by Columbus or Balboa or any of those boys, but to a fellow who likes to eat pie for breakfast a great discovery. I found a place where, miles and miles from home, I got the kind of pie I like to eat for breakfast. It was at Coudersport, Pa. The travel guides all rave about the ice cave near Coudersport, where you can see ice all the year around. But shucks, I see enough ice in winter to last me all the rest of the year. The big thing at Coudersport is a bakery and restaurant (I don't remember the name, but it's right across from the courthouse, on the south side of the square), where they make pies that are nothing but sheer poetry. It's just as hard to describe that perfect apple pie I got at Coudersport as it is to describe an Italian sunset, and I'm not going to try. But if you go to New York or come back from there over Route No. 6, well, you hunt up that little bakery-restaurant in Coudersport and buy a pie. And if you don't rave about it I'll pay for the pie. And I'll give you one dirty look at the same time.

LAKE MICHIGAN.

In dusk of twilight Whistler might have made
A nocturne on the canvas, glowing dim
In half-pellucid emerald and jade,
With onyx touching at the outer rim.
Small ruby lights are glimmering from a boat
Unearthly moving through the thickening mist
That shrouds a sail uncannily afloat,
Suffused in smoke of pearl and amethyst.

But morning breaks upon the jagged rocks
Lately silvered when the moon arose,
And in Gargantuan manner water mocks
The sense that could be sheltered in repose.
Then exaltation wells within a man

HEREDITARY BLINDNESS.

A LARGE number of persons are blind because of hereditary defects. These may occur before birth, so that the child comes into the world with complete cataracts, with small undeveloped eyes, or even without any eyes at all. Other defects do not become apparent until some years after birth, when a child who previously has been able to see becomes blind. Such purely hereditary conditions account for almost one-fourth of all cases of blindness, according to a recent survey by Bickerton.

It is recognized by most authorities that refractive errors, especially extreme degrees of myopia, or near-sightedness, are inherited. This condition, if unusually severe, accounts for a certain number of blind persons and for many more with defective vision. Cataract, while usually considered a disease of old people, also affects infants and here it is nearly always hereditary. While ordinary cataract may be operated upon successfully, the hereditary form is often associated with other defects in the eye and accounts for about 13 per cent of cases in schools for the blind.

Retinitis pigmentosa, a degenerative disease of the retina, first causes the symptoms of night blindness. Patients see well in daylight, but are unable to walk alone in the twilight. Most cases of this disease are due to hereditary causes.

A peculiarly horrible form of hereditary disease is known as family amaurotic idiocy. Infants appear normal at birth, but within a few months to a year it becomes evident that they are blind. Signs of idiocy and physical deterioration soon follow and death usually closes the picture in from two to five years. In other cases the disease comes on later and runs a slower course. It is unaffected by any form of treatment.

The tremendous economic loss to society resulting from such hereditary diseases may be understood by glancing at the pedigree of one family reported by Risley in which one blind man had thirteen blind children, sixty-one blind grandchildren, and thirty-nine blind great-grandchildren.

While medical care is practically useless in most of these conditions, their prevalence may be greatly lessened if several facts were widely understood. The marriage of cousins is a frequent cause of such conditions. Both cousins may have good vision and yet if each has an inherited tendency or gene of some eye defect their children may show an actual maldevelopment. Hence cousins who come from families known to possess such a strain should not marry.

It is common for blind persons not only to marry but to marry classmates whom they have met in school. Many cases of blindness will be prevented if persons blind from hereditary disease are sterilized before marriage.

A group of cases different from those just described is due to congenital syphilis. Here the disease is not truly hereditary since the child is actively infected by its mother before birth. Such infections account for almost 15 per cent of blindness. If we look to the future we may say that practically all of these cases can be detected by a Wasserman test of the blood of both parents before marriage. If such a test were made on every woman during pregnancy most cases could be prevented, since proper treatment of the mother begun even as late as the fourth month will nearly always insure a healthy child.

It may not be a pleasant subject to consider when one is contemplating marriage, but inheritable tendencies must not be overlooked by either party. Love may be blind, but why not compensate with a common sense understanding of the elementary principles of eugenics?

GALL BLADDER.

Mrs. L. M. N. writes: Is there any cure for enlarged gall bladder? Does dieting help? I have been sick for over a year.

REPLY.

There is no really satisfactory remedy for a diseased gall bladder except surgical removal. Omitting all fats from the diet may relieve some symptoms.

TRUST FUND.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My uncle died in 1924, leaving me $176. I am not to receive this money until I am 18 years old, which is next March. This money is in a trust fund. 1. Will I receive interest on this money? How much? 2. Can I obtain this money, or at least part of it, now? 3. If so, how must I go about it? T. J.

1. It seems probable that you would receive the interest actually earned by the money. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the wording of the will and how the money has been invested.
2. You state that the will requires delay until you are eighteen, and you state no reasons for overriding this requirement.
3. See preceding answers.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I desire information regarding registering a chattel mortgage in Illinois. It has already been registered in Wisconsin, but the property has been brought to this state. The property, an automobile, may or may not have been mortgaged again in this state. 1. Can I recover regardless of this? 2. Is it necessary to reregister in this state? If not, [3] how can I foreclose? 4. What procedure must I follow to reregister and how long will it take. 5. What action may be taken against the mortgagor? I have "power of attorney."

E. N. H.

1. If you have permitted the property to be brought here without insisting on recording a mortgage here, you are chargeable with some blame.
2. Yes, if the owner is now residing here.
3. If what you wish to do is to foreclose rather than simply to preserve your lien, you can employ an attorney for that purpose.
4. You do not make entirely clear whether you are the debtor or the creditor, nor what the surrounding circumstances are. Recording should be handled through the recorder's office.
5. If you are the mortgage holder, one course is to take judgment on the mortgage debtor on his notes.

PROBATE.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a man in Cook county dies and leaves a will involving an estate in Michigan, and has no property in Cook county, is it necessary to have the will filed and probated in Cook county and Michigan, too? C. J. D.

Technically, the principal probate should be conducted where the deceased resided at the time of his death, but it seems probable that no question would be raised if it is more convenient for you to conduct the proceedings where the property is. We suggest that you go over your facts with the attorney who would handle the probate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANKING, China.—There used to be a saying in China that "no good son would become a soldier," and the mediocre character of the Chinese army attested to the accuracy of the saying. While the country has the largest army in the world [1,999,630 men], it obviously is not made up of the "best sons" in the land. China's armies in the past, and to a certain extent now, are composed of surplus males who have been unable to earn a living in any other line of activity. In a sense the Chinese soldier, in the mass, resembled the medieval armies attached to feudal lords which roamed Europe in the middle ages. Their loyalties were toward individual commanders rather than to the nation; hence was not regarded as an honored profession among the Chinese.

But this situation is rapidly changing; in fact, one now hears statements by occidental military experts that China has developed more rapidly in her military establishment in recent years than in any other line of activity. Based on the amount of money expended on the army, the Chinese people have a right to expect development, for nearly half the national expenditures from the central treasury are earmarked for the military branch. In 1933 the military establishment received $303,777,062.78 of total national expenditures, amounting to $652,990,864.15, the figures being Chinese silver dollars, which are equivalent to about 33 cents in American money.

Since the nationalist revolution in 1926-'27 Gen. Chiang Kai-shek has employed some fifty German military experts as instructors in the National Military academy. In 1925-1926 the Cantonese Nationalist party employed soviet military advisers, but when the Chinese broke off relations with Moscow in 1927 these advisers were sent home and replaced by Germans, who are still on the job. Americans and Italians are being used in the training of the Chinese military air force, and three years ago the Nanking government made a deal with the British to develop the Chinese naval personnel.

Up to the present the principal effort was directed at improving the character and training of the officer personnel through the National Military academy at Nanking. At present there are some 3,000 students enrolled, 60 per cent being in the infantry branch, 20 per cent in the cavalry, and 20 per cent in the artillery. The course of training lasts for two years and nine months, all students being selected from high school over the country.

In 1928-1929 the central government took another important step by passing a law requiring four years' military training for all male students from high school juniors upward. No male student may now obtain a degree without having first completed the military courses, which include three hours a week, with three weeks of rigid military training during the summer vacations.

In addition to these moves Gen. Chiang also is planning to introduce conscription for all able bodied males. According to report, the system will be first introduced in Chekiang, which happens to be Chiang's native province. Also, it was recently announced in Nanking that the country is shortly to be divided into military districts, in order to facilitate special training, not only for students, but also for the rank and file now in the various armies.

WOOD IN SHIPS.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 12.—May I compliment you on your editorial on the Morro Castle disaster in this morning's TRIBUNE? Of the thousands of lines I have read on this subject in the last few days, your editorial was the first comment that pointed out the lack of fireproofing in the liner's construction.

Admittedly I know nothing of steamship construction. I suppose there must be some adequate reason why the superstructure on a liner should be made of wood, but for the moment I can't see why. I do know a little about sheet metal construction—enough to state without fear of contradiction that it is stronger, lighter, and far more elastic than wood can ever be. The trend in automobile body design bears out this statement. With modern welding methods, not only is tremendous additional strength afforded, but silence under strain as well.

True, salt air is highly destructive to steel, yet steel can be treated to resist atmospheric attacks. Thus treated and covered with the right finish in exposed areas, its life should be several times that of wood. As far as appearance goes, steel can be made as attractive as wood in most cases. The desk in my office is to all appearances finely grained walnut. Only under the minutest scrutiny and the sense of touch does it reveal itself as steel. A lighted cigaret left carelessly on its top proved that even its finely finished surface was impervious to fire. Yet it weighs less than a wooden desk of the same size.

Almost anything will burn if the fire is hot enough, but no fire will burn without fuel. Had the superstructure of the Morro Castle been made of hollow steel the fire might have gutted the lounge, fed by the draperies and upholstered furniture, but it could have been confined and subdued with comparative ease.

That a ship built as recently as 1930 should be constructed so largely of wood is to me inconceivable. Public buildings, railway cars, and even motor cars abandoned wood in major construction years ago.

WHAT IS THE CONSTITUTION?

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Today a great deal is said and published about our constitution. Your paper is a great proponent of it, and justly so. We all should be, but is it not being overdone? Let us not make it ridiculous. In this day's paper a Mr. Jouett Shouse—by the way, who is he?—mouthpiece of the new league, is made to say, "We believe the federal government should not deprive the people of rights that have been guaranteed to them by the constitution." Good, very good; but what is the constitution?

I find no guarantee therein to protect bank wreckers, lawbreakers, and all sorts of illegal syndicates issuing fraudulent stocks and bonds, pauperizing millions of people to the tune of billions of dollars.

Does this wet Mr. Shouse not know that his droolings are making radicals, not to say communists, out of your intelligent readers?

CHARLES C. WOLLER.

AMERICANS IN GERMANY.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The story in THE TRIBUNE Sept. 6 concerning my return from Germany picked two isolated experiences from my many happy ones in Germany, giving the impression that I was distinctly anti-German in all respects. This is not my position, and it was my fault that my position was not made clear.

For the benefit of my German friends here and in Germany I wish to state that both incidents with the S. A. were as much the result of my own stupidity as their zealousness.

Further, it is my considered opinion that Americans are safer traveling in Germany than in their own country, providing they are not in the habit of looking for trouble.

FAIR SPEECH.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—At the Pageant of the Celt, one of the most beautiful things was the perfect speech of the Narrator. I wonder if this pure enunciation is taught, or is it just a gift to the Irish people? After the raucous noises, vulgar speech or mincing Oxford accents of the radio and the movies it was certainly appreciated by me.

SCOTCH PRESBYTERIAN.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Some time last month a group produced a Pageant of the Celt in Soldiers' field. In order to get cheap actors they sent to the flop house and got men to fill in as bards and so forth. These unfortunate men had to walk back and forth from the flop house to the Auditorium theater for rehersal; also they had to walk to Soldiers' field those two cold nights with their threadbare clothing. For all this they were to be paid $10. Now the men who put the show on have moved stakes and refuse to pay.

GERMANY BANS GOLD WEDDING RINGS FOR BRIDES

Wants Precious Metal to Buy Raw Materials.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—As in the Napoleonic and world wars, when German women surrendered their gold and silver wedding rings for iron rings, an appeal is now made to German brides to be content with rings of alloy.

With Germany's increasing marriage rate, thanks to bonuses from Chancellor Hitler's government which wants more babies, it is hoped that the appeal will result in a large saving of gold in order that the precious metal may be used for purchases of raw materials.

Alloy is White.

The alloy to be used for wedding rings is white. It is produced by the German gold mining department in conjunction with the guild of wedding ring manufacturers. Assurance is given that it is a "100 per cent substitute for gold."

"The durability and indestructibility equals the best quality of gold," the appeal adds.

German farmers today were ordered not to buy margarine, but to use their own butter instead. The order was issued by Minister of Agriculture Walter Darre's farm organization in pursuance of its fats conservation program.

Bishop Wurm of Württemberg was sent on "an indefinite holiday" today by Reichsbishop Dr. Ludwig Mueller because of his fight against the Nazi church government. The primate asserts that his action is necessary "to regulate church conditions and to safeguard church properties of Württemberg."

Bishop Wurm used the church money for other than church purposes," the reichsbishop charged.

This statement refers to the reported transfers of money by Dr. Wurm to prevent their seizure by Nazi church authorities. The primate appointed the Rev. Mr. Krauss of Ehingen as acting bishop of Württemberg.

Members of the supreme church council meeting at Stuttgart today took the prescribed oath of allegiance to Hitler. All pastors and church officials throughout the nation have been ordered to take the oath before Sept. 21.

Austrian Nazi Saved from Gallows; Gets Life Term

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A death sentence against Franz Theissenberger, 31, a Vienna police sergeant, for participation in the abortive Nazi putsch of July 25 was commuted today to life imprisonment by President Wilhelm Miklas. A court martial had found him guilty of high treason. Had the president not commuted his sentence he would have been the fourteenth Nazi hanged in connection with the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.

RUSSIANS PLANT SOVIET FLAG ON ARCTIC ISLAND

A radio message from the icebreaker Krassin, exploring uncharted seas north of Siberia, said it had reached Herald Island and Russia's claim to it was reaffirmed. The crew of the Krassin reached the spot visited by Capt. Melevsorov in 1928.

The voyagers said they found the uninhabited island teeming with bird life. Sea lions were numerous and members of the crew killed two polar bears and a number of arctic foxes.

Convict Farmer of Sowing Weeds on Neighbor's Land

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Accused of sowing noxious weeds in his neighbor's farm, Shannon Van Elst, a farmer, was convicted last night by jury of doing willful damage.

AIRMAN LANDS ON LIONS' CAGE, ESCAPES DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—When Ben Turner, British parachute jumper, leaped from an airplane at a height of 1,000 feet over Surrey today he expected to be thrilled, but he did not expect quite such a thrill as he got. Turner ended his drop, and nearly his career, on the top of a lion's cage at Chessington zoo.

For an agonizing ten minutes he was trapped on top of the cage, unable to move because the parachute was caught in a tree above, while two enraged African lions attempted to reach him, roaring and lashing at his legs through the bars.

Keepers rushed to the cage and turned fire hose on the enraged animals, while an amateur lion tamer entered the cage and drove the beasts into a corner with a revolver loaded with blank cartridges. A ladder was placed against the tree and Turner was unstrapped from his harness and brought to the ground uninjured.

CUBAN BUSINESS ASKS FORMATION OF "VIGILANTES"

Demands President Act to End Terrorism.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—A plan for an organized band of civilian vigilantes, armed and empowered to shoot without fear of punishment, has been placed before President Mendieta as a device to stamp out terrorism. The scheme was presented by leading Cuban citizens representing the most prominent business, banking, and trading interests in the island.

The plan is to issue permits to carry firearms to all "responsible citizens" who apply for the privilege. Those issued arms would hold authority either to arrest or shoot "terrorists." The plan already has the approval of Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staf.

Puts Mendieta "on Spot."

Political observers saw in the proposal one of the most difficult decisions yet put before the administration. The proposal runs counter to all of Mendieta's moderate policies of the past, and some quarters believed that refusal on his part would mean the end of Batista's support and the downfall of the government. Former President Machado employed such a body of vigilantes, which became known as the notorious "Porra." Hundreds of murders were charged to this organization.

The inability of Mendieta to reach any conclusive, specific plan to check terrorism brought on a cabinet crisis late today in which Secretary of Defense Felix Granados resigned. Informed persons said he resigned upon the recommendation of Batista.

Augustin Acosta, secretary to the presidency, also resigned. Mendieta appointed Secretary of Health Rafael Lorie as acting presidential secretary.

Granados for several days had been acting as Batista's representative, attempting to persuade Mendieta to use vigorous methods. An authoritative source reports that instead Mendieta sent Batista a counter proposal suggesting the establishment of civil courts to try terrorists.

Threatens Drastic Action.

This morning Granados informed Mendieta that Batista had rejected this idea and declared that if measures for the suppression of disorder were not enacted into law before the middle of next week the military would "adopt all measures deemed necessary to check communism" regardless of whether the president was willing.

Terrorists today sabotaged telegraph lines in Oriente and Camaguey provinces. Electric plants at Jaruco, at Hershey, and at San Antonio were bombed, plunging the towns into darkness. Soldiers prevented the bombing of the central districts of Hershey in wild street fighting, in which two persons were killed and several injured. Twenty-one arrests were made. The terrorists burned the central Hershey station.

Second Bulpitt Shooting Victim Dies in Hospital

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Joe Sigler, second victim of the mysterious shooting which took place in Bulpitt Monday, died today in St. John's hospital at Springfield. The first victim was Harry Jones, who died Tuesday in the St. Vincent's hospital in this city. It is believed that the shooting is an echo of the mine war strife in this community.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

OPEN VERDICT FOUND IN DEATH OF SCIENTIST

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of "undetermined whether accidental or otherwise" after concluding an inquest into the death on Thursday evening of Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at the Field museum and an authority on Asiatic history. Dr. Laufer fell or jumped to his death from an upper story of the Chicago Beach hotel, 1660 Hyde Park boulevard, where he had lived for many years. He was 59 years old.

The finding was reached after the jurors heard emphatic statements from Dr. Laufer's widow, Bertha, and his stepson, Ormond Hampton, that his death could not have been other than accidental. Both testified he had written a note, found in his wallet by police, on last Aug. 2, when he underwent an operation for a tumor in his chest at a Cleveland hospital. Also in evidence at the hearing were two checks, one for $1,400 and the other for $500, dated Sept. 10 and made payable to Mrs. Laufer.

Mrs. Laufer said her husband was cheerful and had been planning to attend a movie with her a few minutes before his body was found. The inquest was held at 5203 Lake Park avenue.

Stephen Simms, director of Field museum, said yesterday that Dr. Laufer had been working at home on some Chinese material which had been offered to the museum. He added that Dr. Laufer had appeared particularly cheerful over his apparent recovery from the operation.

27 JUDGES READY FOR CIRCUIT AND SUPERIOR COURTS

Fifteen Superior court and twelve Circuit court judges are preparing to take up their new duties with the opening of the courts' fall terms Monday.

Judge Joseph Sabath is the new Superior court chief justice. He will sit in the chancery division, headed by Judge William J. Lindsay. The other Superior judges and their assignments are: Francis B. Allegretti and Rudolph F. Desort, divorces; John P. McGoorty and Harry A. Lewis, chancery; James J. Kelly, Walter T. Stanton, Peter Schwaba, Charles A. Williams, Michael L. McKinley, James F. Fardy, David M. Brothers, Joseph B. David, and E. I. Frankhauser, law division.

The Circuit court will be headed by Judge Joseph Burke, who will sit in the law division headed by Judge John R. Caverly. Other Circuit court judges and their assignments are: Michael Feinberg, Harry M. Fisher, Thomas J. Lynch, Denis J. Normoyle, and Daniel P. Trude, law division; Stanley H. Klarkowski, Benjamin P. Epstein, John Prystalski, and George Fred Rush, chancery division; Philip J. Finnegan, divorces, separate maintenance, and annulment cases.

Pending Superior court cases total more than 52,000, including 10,000 divorce suits. In the Circuit court more than 32,500 cases await trial, 6,000 of them divorces.

FORMER SENATOR LORIMER TO BE BURIED MONDAY

Funeral services for William Lorimer, former United States senator and Republican party boss in Illinois, will be held at 11 o'clock Monday morning from his home at Crystal Lake to St. Catherine of Siena church, Austin and Washington boulevards. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Lorimer, who had suffered from a chronic heart ailment, died suddenly on Thursday in the North Western railway station, a few minutes after arriving from Crystal Lake with his son, Leonard. He was 73 years old and is survived by another son, William Jr., and six daughters, Mrs. Ralph Graham, Mrs. Roy McCormick, Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Joseph Duffy, Mrs. James Lucke, and Miss Loretta Lorimer.

Bring Jordan Holy Water for Expected Italian Heir

NAPLES, Italy, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A phial of purification water from the River Jordan was brought here today by an airplane which went to the Holy Land to procure it for the infant which will be born soon to Crown Princess Marie-José. The water was taken immediately to the royal palace.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If the mad rush of opera stars to the airlanes continues it seems likely that the ranks of crooners will be decimated before another season of Wagner and Verdi is over. The latest recruits to radio from the Metropolitan include Grace Moore, Queena Mario and Rose Bampton, all signed for sponsored programs. Miss Moore, the star of the new film hit, "One Night of Love," will sing on the new A. K. Series to open on CBS Monday, Sept. 24. Donald Novis and Carol Deis, discovered in national talent hunts by this sponsor six years ago are expected to be on this show. Queena Mario launches an NBC program tomorrow and Miss Bampton starts Oct 6 on NBC.

Rose Ponselle, Grete Stueckgold, Nino Martini will be back on that cigaret series Oct. 1. Gladys Swarthout, Everet Marshall, Helen Jepson are heard regularly now. Lawrence Tibbett and John Charles Thomas are slated to return to the airways. Reinald Werrenrath will be on the air in Roxy's new revue tonight. Among the veterans of the opera who are radio converts are Schumann Heink and John McCormack. Mario Chamlee and Richard Bonelli are said to be likely candidates for new shows. Then, of course, the Metropolitan Opera itself will be back on the air under sponsorship this season.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be heard over both major networks on Monday when he addresses a convention of 30 leading patriotic societies meeting in Philadelphia to commemorate the 147th anniversary of the signing of the American constitution. Col. McCormick's address will be broadcast from 1 to 1:15 p. m. Edward A. Hayes, commander of the American Legion, will be heard on the broadcast also which will run 45 minutes.

That $100,000 the Ford company is to shell out for rights to a commercial broadcast of the world series is by no means all that it will cost the motor concern. Time charges for the use of both major networks will require a terrific outlay. Cost per hour in the afternoons of the entire CBS system is around $10,000. The card rate for the whole works on NBC calls for $13,770 an hour. Thus if both nets were used in their entirety the bill for two hours would be in excess of $45,000. If the series only ran four games that would be $190,000 plus; if it ran seven—ouch! And it will not be difficult to run a bill of $1,000 or $1,500 a day for announcers and commentators.

New York papers set forth the other day that Gracie Allen and George Burns have adopted a baby. There are persistent reports that Gracie found the youngster in Evanston when she came here over Labor day. It is said to be a girl who has been named Sandra.

Mark Warnow, the orchestra leader may be the first radio performer to broadcast from both shores of the continent within the span of one day. On Oct. 3 he will play for the two way Byrd show in New York. Then he takes a west bound plane. Next evening he will provide the music for the 45 Minutes in Hollywood show in west coast studios. And he won't have to charter a special plane to do it—the regular transcontinental service will get him there in time. . . . Muriel Wilson is also west coast bound. After next week's Show Boat in New York she will join Lanny Ross in Hollywood to help him put on his stanza on succeeding programs.

Mrs. Anne E. Pleasant, Foe of Huey Long, Dies

Shreveport, La., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Anne Ector Pleasant, 56, wife of former Gov. Ruffin G. Pleasant and prominent in state politics as an active anti-Huey P. Long worker, died last night from poison taken accidentally. Mrs. Pleasant had been in ill health for a month and her physician reported that yesterday she drank by mistake from a bottle of poison in her medicine cabinet.

Hugo Schwaneberger Dies; Prominent Stamp Collector

BUECKEBURG, Germany, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Hugo Schwaneberger, widely known philatelist and publisher of numerous stamp catalogs, died today. He was 81.

ORIGINAL PARIS COLLECTION ON EXHIBIT HERE

Recognition of Chicago's expanding importance in the style world brought Ellerbe Wood, New York importer, to Chicago yesterday to display what was termed the largest collection of Paris originals ever shown in this city. Under auspices of the Chicago Wholesale Market council, one hundred and forty wraps, suits and frocks direct from the August showings of the great designers in the French capital were modeled for manufacturers and retailers at the Palmer House.

A corps of mannequins paraded the garments, selected for their outstanding style characteristics or their novel fabrics, for the inspection of groups from the Chicago market area. Miss Wood analyzed each costume, especially those which were particularly successful during the openings, and pointed out the individual details indicating the source of the fashion and the technique of the couturier.

Features emphasized by Miss Wood, who has never before taken her collection outside New York, included the Basque influence introduced by Schiaparelli, the peg top sponsored by Lucille Paray, the streamline silhouette shown in various forms by Patou and Schiaparelli, the breastplate, armor type of trimming originated by Lanvin, and tunics from several houses.

DR. J. R. McDILL, FORMERLY AID AT RUSH, DIES AT 73

Cornwall, N. Y., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Dr. John Rich McDill, 73, former associate professor of surgery at Rush Medical school, University of Chicago, and chief medical officer of the federal board for the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, died here tonight. He had been visiting at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Giles Healey.

A practitioner of surgery in Milwaukee for years, Dr. McDill served his country in the war with Spain and in the world war, as well as aiding in the reconstruction period in the Philippines. He went to Cuba in 1898 as a surgeon with a volunteer regiment and became brigade surgeon and chief operating surgeon in the field with the Seventh army corps, remaining on the island until 1900. For the next three years he was the chief operating surgeon in Manila and in 1902 organized the Woman's hospital there. From 1906 to 1912 he was professor of surgery and head of the surgical department of the University of the Philippines.

For ten months before the United States entered the world war Dr. McDill engaged in surgical relief work in Germany. He returned to Milwaukee in 1917, received a major's commission in the medical corps, and from September, 1917, to July, 1918, was chief surgeon of the base hospital at Camp Kearney, Cal.

PIQUETT APPEALS IN BATTLE FOR BAIL REDUCTION

An appeal by Attorney Louis Piquett, former city prosecutor, to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for a reduction of the $50,000 bail fixed for him in the federal indictment accusing him of harboring John Dillinger and Homer Van Meter, was continued yesterday until next Thursday. Piquett, who is in jail, unsuccessfully sought a bond reduction on Thursday from Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

TWO MEN SLUG GIRL.

Agnes Sitiona, 19 years old, 756 Keith street, was treated at the County hospital early yesterday for a scalp wound inflicted by one of two men who slugged her in an attempt to force her into their car at Chicago and Milwaukee avenues. Her assailants escaped.

Debut Season Reaches Peak in 7 Parties Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVEN debutantes and two brides will engross society's attention today, and there isn't a doubt but that this will be the busiest day of the autumn, and perhaps of the whole season. None of the seven young girls who are celebrating their advent into adult society—four of them have not yet finished their schooling, however, for they are taking college courses—are being presented at joint parties, so that means that there are seven separate and distinct parties today. The record in this society editor's experience, if her memory isn't failing, just as this year's list—fifty-four so far—is the longest ever recorded. Six of them are being introduced at teas this afternoon, three in Lake Forest and three in Winnetka, and one is making her bow at a supper dance at the Indian Hill club in Winnetka.

Chandlers' Supper Dance to Provide Happy Climax.

The supper dance is being given by Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham Chandler of Winnetka for their daughter Charlotte. It will provide a happy climax for the gayety of the afternoon, and all the debs will attend it, most of them going beforehand to a dinner party the Ernest S. Ballards and their debutante daughters, Betsy and Susan, will give at their Winnetka home for Miss Fanny McPherson following her debut reception, or to a dinner dance the Weymouth Kirklands will give for their daughter, Eleanor, following her tea this afternoon.

The Chandlers' dance may not be as large as that Miss Chandler's great-uncle, Harry Gordon Selfridge, gives each season in his Carlton House Terrace home in London, but to judge by the rumors afloat about the decorations and entertainment, it is to be equally as interesting.

Dancing is to begin at 10 o'clock. Miss Chandler's parents and her aunt, Mrs. Charles C. Crawford of New Orleans, will receive with her.

At the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Herman Beardsley Butler in Winnetka, Miss Deborah Butler will be presented to society at a reception between 4 and 7 o'clock this afternoon. Receiving with Miss Butler and her grandmother will be her parents, who are the Francis Peabody Butlers of Winnetka.

The reception itself is to be indoors, but if the weather permits the guests will overflow onto the spacious porches of Mrs. Butler's home and into the gardens. Miss Butler's English cousin, Miss May Stillwell, is to be one of her assistants.

Miss Butler is a graduate of the Ethel Walker school at Simsbury, Conn. Last year she studied in France, but this winter she will remain at home to enjoy the round of debutante festivity.

Those Not Making Formal Bows Will Be the Busiest.

In some respects today will be even more strenuous for the debutantes who are not making their formal bows than for those who are being presented, for as assistants at the various teas a number of them will be rushing from Winnetka to Lake Forest and from one party to another. Miss Frances McPherson's list of assistants, for example, overlaps that of Miss Butler in several instances.

Miss McPherson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, is to be presented at a tea dance from 4 to 7 at her parents' home at 644 Pine lane in Winnetka.

Miss McPherson is fortunate in the act that she is to have both her maternal and paternal grandmothers and a great-aunt receiving with her this afternoon, as well as her parents. Mrs. Frederick T. West, who is just back from a summer at Pittsfield, Mass., is Miss McPherson's maternal grandmother, and Mrs. Charles G. Chaddock of St. Louis her paternal grandmother. Her great-aunt is Mrs. Charles S. Holt of Lake Forest.

The weather man cooperating, the reception will be in the garden, with dancing in the dining room. Miss McPherson has studied at Miss Hall's in Pittsfield, Mass.; Miss Nixon's in Florence, Italy, and the Sorbonne in Paris. She will be at home this winter at least through the Christmas holidays. Plans are now being made by her family for a dinner dance for her the night after Thanksgiving at the Casino.

Another Winnetka debutante this afternoon will be Miss Barbara Bersbach, daughter of Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach. From 4 to 7 Miss Bersbach, her mother, and her maternal grandpar-

Sisters Bow to Society

Misses Susan (left), and Elizabeth Ballard, who were presented to society yesterday at their parents', the Ernest S. Ballards', home in Winnetka.

Six young Winnetka girls were introduced to society yesterday, three at afternoon receptions and three at a dinner dance. Those who bowed in the afternoon were the Misses Elizabeth (Betsy) and Susan Ballard, eldest of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, and Miss Peggy Sargent, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Sargent.

Those who made their debuts at night were Miss Henrietta Boal, daughter of the Ayres Boals; Miss Leslie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Miss Laura Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund B. Bartlett.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballard and their daughters received in the living room, and there was dancing in a large playroom that adjoins the living room. Miss Betsy wore gray blue crêpe that matched her eyes in color and her sister was in white and gold, very becoming to her yellow hair. Betsy's gown was trimmed with accordion pleating and Susan's, of taffeta, was bouffant in style. Mrs. Ballard wore dark blue taffeta. Thirty other debutantes assisted and many of them also were assistants at Miss Sargent's tea.

Miss Sargent was lovely in white and gold, with trimmings of turquoise blue, and the flowers she carried were valley lilies. Mr. and Mrs. Sargent and the deb received before a screen of talisman roses. After the reception the Misses Ballard and their assistants joined Miss Sargent and her assistants at the Sargent home for cocktails before driving in town to the Saddle and Cycle club to attend the dinner dance at which the Misses Boal, Wilson, and Bartlett were introduced.

Miss Boal, who is to have another debut party, a tea, on Christmas day, at home, was charming in a girlish frock of white pebble crêpe shot with gold and made with a square neck, front and back. Miss Wilson wore crinkly pink satin and Miss Bartlett was in old blue taffeta made in bouffant style.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

DICK FRANCIS forwards the tale of the tippling husband whose wife demonstrated with him frequently. She finally hit upon a plan she hoped would teach him a horrible lesson. The next time he came home not quite himself—to use a Victorian term—she bundled him into a taxi and took him off to Wieboldt hall at the University of Chicago, where the Renaissance society was holding an exhibit of abstract art.

Inebriate—Comfort—Characteristic—Possibility.

After he had been in the gallery a few moments our hero opened his eyes and looked about. Directly in front of him was Picasso's famous "Metamorphose." The poor man's eyes clang, fascinated, to the picture. He finally tore them away and looked on the opposite wall, and there, leering at him, were Joan Miro and Marcel Duchamps at their best. This was too much for him, and, stifling a slight scream, he fled from the building.

You probably think he went home and hid under the bed, making a solemn vow meanwhile to abstain forever. But he did nothing of the sort. He had the taxi drive at breakneck speed to the bar he had left earlier that afternoon.

"Say," he demanded of the bartender, "what was the name of that last cocktail you gave me?"

A FEW days ago we told you about the practical minded old lady who carried a camp stool with her when she went window shopping, and sat down comfortably to contemplate the contents of the windows. Now we report the news stand proprietor at Western and Lunt avenues who has a pillow tied on to the nearby knee-high fire plug, on which he sits down to rest in off moments.

* *

ABOVE the luncheon table there was a row of distinguished heads. In the center, His Royal Highness Carl Eduard, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, grandson of Queen Victoria and cousin of King George V. On one side of him Mrs. Rufus Dawes and on the other Mrs. David B. Forgan Jr. Mr. Dawes was next to Mrs. Forgan and Mr. Forgan next to Mrs. Dawes. Below the luncheon table, visible to the rest of the room and the ends of the U-shaped table, were a row of feet, those of His Royal Highness heels together, toes pointed out, characteristically German in position; Mr. Forgan's feet placed firmly on the floor, wide apart—the pose of the conservative banker; Mr. Dawes' feet in a kind of yes-and-no position that indicated the gentleman of diplomacy and tact he is; the two ladies each with their feet delicately locked at the ankles, one foot behind the other. That's all—just giving you the part of the picture that's always cut off of the news photographs.

DICK AAE reports the man who stopped at the magazine stand in the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress and started to look through one of the magazines.

"May I interest you, sir?" asked the pretty attendant.

The man looked up from the magazine, and after a perceptible pause while he looked her over answered, thoughtfully:

"Yes, I think you could, but my train leaves in two hours."

Good Morning!

Well, well! Here's our gay little girl, the Legion of Decency's been spanking and putting into corners come to visit all her aunties and uncles in Chicago! And she's such a GOOD little girl, now!

True—she TAKES the diamonds. But she tells her maid carefully that she realiah oughtn'ta done it, seein'zow she didn't know the donor much better than she had Shakespeare.

MAID: But wasn't you all excited when he gave you all them lovely stones?

MISS WEST: No. I was very calm—and collected.

True, she cracks wise and often. But never dirty. None of the dialog is any more risque than her words with the owner of the Sensation House in New Orleans. She has just arrived—to provide sensation for said house—and he is showing her her new living quarters.

"That's an old master," says Ace Lamont, pointing pridefully to a picture on the wall.

"Looks more like'n ol' mistress to me," comments the new employé.

And it is, one feels, for the benefit of those who have turned the head and passed by on the other side that Miss West emits one mournful ditty, the chorus of which runs something like this:

O, Lawd'm Ah t'blame?
Mus' Ah hang m' head 'n shame
'Cause sof' folks goes aroun'
A scandalizin' m' name?

Niagara is there—but harnessed, so to speak.

When the story opens Ruby Carter is entertainer in a St. Louis burlesque house. Her main stunt is the exhibition of her famous curves in spotlighted poses. She is a butterfly, and she is a spider, and she is the Statue of Liberty in turn, and the blades of the town are hers—hook, line, and bank rolls.

But Ruby loves only one—her prize fighting honey, "The Tiger Kid." And The Kid loves it that way, spending all his spare moments with her, regardless of his manager's frantic protests and attempts at intervention in what he believes is bad for The Kid's training. . . .

At last this hard boiled, determined boss concoots a frameup—which sends Ruby to New Orleans, where she brings business aplenty to the combination dance hall, café, and gambling joint which is the Sensation House.

The owner, Lamont, is a slick article, but one that's just a rusty nutmeg grater when compared to the slick article Miss Ruby Carter is.

He has a girl he's all set to do wrong . . .

Lamont doesn't give Ruby the diamonds. No, this contribution is made by the aforementioned practically perfect stranger, impersonated briefly and wistfully by John Mack Brown. The sparklers play an important part in subsequent happenings. . . .

Does The Tiger Kid come to New Orleans? Ask me! Ask me!

"Belle of the Nineties" is fun, if NOT ribald fun. The story is dated as per title and the piece is appropriately attired and staged. Miss West's costumes, as usual, are calculated to knock the eye out. She's thinner, but, barring the invisible check rein, that's the only change. Come hither eye, circus pony walk, hot oatmeal delivery are the brand that made Miss West famous. Her supporting cast are all they need to be and the director was canny and keerful.

In anticipation of two large weeks the Chicago is giving seven shows a day. Judging from the difficulty in finding a seat yesterday morning that's a mighty smart thing to be doing.

See you tomorrow!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There comes a moment in every woman's life when she decides that her personality is languishing. She's just not the smart young thing she'd like to be. Know what she should do? Buy a new and smarter hair style!

Nothing in the world like it for that drooping feeling. The lift to the spirits is amazing and before you know it you're doing all sorts of clever things to yourself to live up to your coiffure.

We've found a Chicago stylist who can make you over. Without looking twice he knows to a hair what's wrong and what's right just for you. He's a demon with the shears—and you'll go into rhapsodies at the magic of his fingers when they set a wave.

Good finger waves really aren't as common as you'd think. It's difficult to explain, but we find that the real artist gives a deep wave and gives it deftly. When they putter we run away. But by a deep wave we don't mean that it is a heavy undulation banked on both sides with stiff, high ridges. That's the kind that's wrong, by present day standards. The good wave has an under depth and a soft broadness; when it's combed out it looks as though nature had outdone herself.

We've never felt that naturally curly hair was much of a bargain, actually. It has waves, but often they're unruly, and often they're not in particularly stylish spots on the head. If the individual contour demands a flat line here or there, perhaps on one side or on the crown, you're fortunate at having no natural interference; you can get just what the artful stylist orders.

It's pretty futile for any one to be arbitrary about hair style. Every head has its own virtues and its own faults. Aside from following the general trend of the season and keeping the neckline as suave as possible, the best thing you can do is place yourself in the hands of an artist. He'll spot the good points in a second and play them up; the faults he'll play down. You'll be correctly—and individually—coiffed. And you'll feel pretty swell about it, too.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Hefty Song Writer Mimics Full Cast of Movie Like a Star

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—If you've seen Lyda Roberti strut and clown or listened to Lanny Ross' singing you've seen and heard some pretty good performances, but if you haven't seen and heard 300 pound Mack Gordon, the song writer, imitate and personify the singing, talking, and clowning of Lyda or Lanny, then you haven't seen Lyda or Lanny at their best.

Gordon, elephantine and good humored member of the song writing partnership of Gordon and Harry Revel, gave a private audition of the couple's new tunes in the coming picture, "College Rhythm," in Paramount studio's tin pan alley today.

Revel played the piano. Gordon personified Roberti, Ross, Director Norman Taurog, and then this one and that other of the cast until finally, with perspiration running down his face and skipping nimbly right and left, he was singing the parts of an entire chorus.

Strangely, when the 300 pound center of all this was lilting love lyrics in a chorus girl treble, the favored few in his audience failed to see a fat man holding up a nonexistent skirt, but "got" the mental picture of a dreamy eyed girl which Norman Taurag, as director of "College Rhythm" and his cast, is supposed to make you see in celluloid reality later this autumn. When Gordon sang Ross' song, "Three Cheers for Love," those present felt they were listening, in advance, to one of the season's coming hits.

Two other songs varying the Revel-Gordon stamp in this movie are named "Stay as Sweet as You Are" and "Take a Number from One to Ten."

Shops Showing Great Variety of Trimmings

Buttons, Plaids, Jewelry; All Are Unusual.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SATURDAY SHOPPING TIPS! Since trimmings make the best of the unusual frocks and costumes, snoop around the shops and watch the new stuff. For instance, the bolts of pag etti braid in blue, black, brown, and white in various widths. Some of it will fashion new accents for necklines and cuffs of otherwise dull, dark colored dresses. You can buy it by the foot or yard and make your own fringelike decoration for any dated model in your wardrobe.

Buttons and more buttons. Just try and assemble a good looking outfit without the proper buttons, mostly outsize in wood for woolly woolens, flat gleaming discs for dark street dresses with belt buckles to match, and the clever new shell affairs for heavy silks. Dull gold, frosty silver, decorative chromium, and lacy dark silver effects are the newest.

The last word in romance—new costume jewelry of sandalwood combined with prystal. Remember the sandalwood fan your granny treasured, how you loved to sniff it? Well, they've used the same aromatic stuff in smooth round balls and oblongs, strung it along with prystal and presto, the smartest of perfumed jewelry. The bracelets are perfect, and the earrings will do a lot for the rustling silk dance dresses modeled after the full, picturesque gowns grandmother used to wear. Necklaces and rings are also available.

Plaided and striped velvets are here, gorgeous, eye filling patterns riotous with bright color combinations. This is the velvet that you have been waiting for; the gay stripes for the tops of long, dull crêpe skirts, or teamed with black velvet. Or to use for blouses, for very dark street suits, or for big neck bows, fancy scarfs, big floppy berets, belts, and whatever is needed as a striking accent.

They are brighter than woolen plaids and stripes because of the sheen of the velvet, so a little goes a long way.

Watch the newest velvet gloves start something. They are long slipons with ruffled edgings, inset bows of contrasting velvet, and even swatches of lamé for cuff decoration. Stunning brown, deep green, and some particularly nice shades of red are available. They fit better this year, too, which is something to cheer about. You can easily match gloves to equally effective handbags of the same shade and general style.

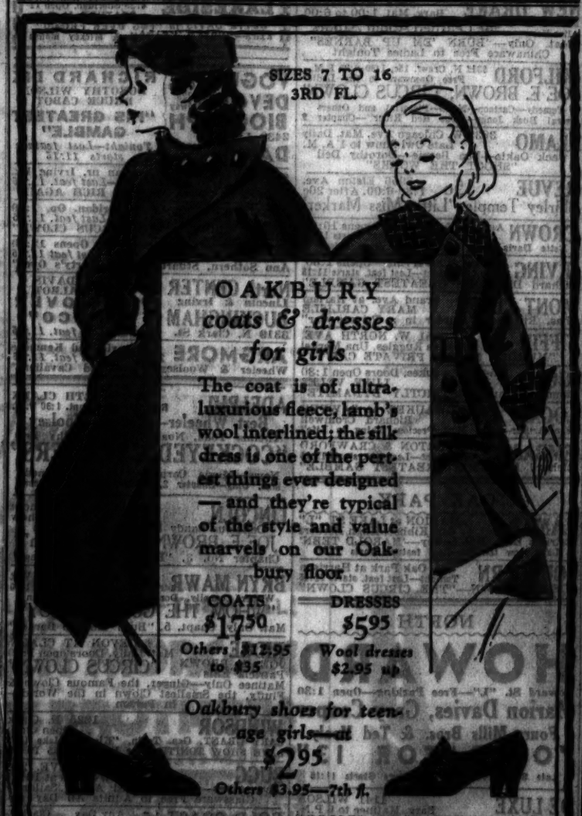

RULES for PIE!

Mary Meade

● "Easy as pie' is a phrase full of deception," writes Mary Meade, Tribune cooking editor. "Yet if we honestly try to understand the facts which lie behind a flaky, gloriously tender pastry crust, and are willing to practice the art of dough-handling seriously, there is no one who cooks who cannot become truly an artist in pie making!" Read her interesting article, "Simple Rules Assure Flaky Crust for Pie." In it Mary Meade gives the four cardinal rules for good pastry, and explains why they are fundamental. She adds an easy-to-follow recipe for plain pastry—but what pastry!

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy S ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, and Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter warfare between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantages to fight their common enemy. Cole finds a home for Mary in Jonesboro with Mr. and Mrs. Peters, leading citizens. Then he drops in on Radbourne. A fight ensues. Two of Radbourne's men, Jerry Haskell, his foreman, and Curt Jordan, are injured. Cole escapes. Chet sends Jordan to Jonesboro to lie in wait for Cole. Jordan captures Mary and sends her back to the Circle 3 T. Cole and his trusted riders, Dave Penn, Pete Dorgan, Dune McCoy and Rusty Hunter, ride to Jonesboro, unaware of Mary's plight. Cole gets Judge Fairley to sign an order terminating Mary's guardianship.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

NOT LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

Cole walked down the street with Rusty. The two men swung in at the office of the Boone County Beacon. Tim Alderson, the editor, was setting type. He was a bright eyed midget of a man. At sight of Sanborn the color receded from his face. The Beacon had been urging insistently that the robbers of the Flyer were known to the officers and ought to be arrested. Though the paper had mentioned no names, everybody knew who was meant.

"We dropped in to tell you we're with you in yore law and order campaign, Tim," drawled Cole amiably. "The sooner those scalawags are arrested and hanged the better it will be for Boone county."

Alderson was not reassured by the genial manner of Sanborn. He had a vision of the swift flash of revolvers, could almost hear the impending roar of guns. More than once he had criticized this gunman severely.

Drylipped, he offered his defense. "An editor of a paper has to speak out for the public, Mr. Sanborn."

"I'betcha. I've got no complaint, Tim. I'm here to set myself right with you. If you've got time I'll tell you how things shape. First off, I didn't rob the K. & J. Had nothing to do with it. The fellow who led the miscreants rigged himself up like me so that I'd get the blame. You don't have to believe me, but it's true. Say anything you like in the Beacon. But that's not what I came to talk with you about. You're a square shooter, and not one of Radbourne's lickspittles. I'd like you to know exactly how it is between me and Chet. There's going to be war, and I'm going to tell you my side of it. I need public opinion back of me."

"I'm listening," he said. "I'll say to begin with that I'm no friend of Chet Radbourne. I think this county never will be free and prosperous until his evil influence has been destroyed."

"Did you come in here to make trouble for me?" the faro dealer asked evenly.

"It's because you think that out loud I came in to talk with you."

Cole told the story of his relations with the owner of the Circle 3 T and of his intention to stick up for the rights of his wife.

"This is a private fight in one way, Tim, and in another it's not," he concluded. "If Chet wipes me out he'll be boss here for a long time. If I can hold out against him his power will be broken. All I ask is for you not to line up with Radbourne."

"I'll not do that," Alderson promised. A light flamed in the bright eyes looking into those of Cole. "Maybe I've been wrong about you, Sanborn. Some of the boys have told me so. If you didn't do this K. & J. job, and if you're going through with this fight against Radbourne, you've got a chance to serve this town and county. I won't countenance violence, except in self-defense. Understand that. But if what you do seems right to me, I'll support you till the cows come home."

"Much obliged. Be seeing you later."

Sanborn and Hunter walked out of the office and turned down the street toward the Jonesboro house.

Rusty began to tell a story, but Cole stopped him.

"Not now, Rusty," he warned. "I've got a notion we're likely to be in tight. If that fellow Jordan is still in town he must know we're here. He's bad medicine and he'll shoot from cover if he gets a chance. We'd better keep our eyes peeled."

"You got eyes in the back of yore head?" demanded Rusty irritably. "What you mean if he gets a chance? Can't he plug us after we're past from any door or window on the street? What say we duck into the Arcadia and take cover our own selves? We can sashay outa the back door and along the alley."

"You're shouting, Rusty," Sanborn agreed.

He pushed open the door and the two walked into the gambling house.

As yet the place was doing only a perfunctory business, though after dark it would roar with life. Two cow punchers were drinking at the bar. There was a stud game at the far corner of the room. In the dealer's seat, back of a faro table, Lauret sat smoking a cigar. Jordan was not present.

The cold shallow eyes of Lauret had picked up Cole at once. They did not waver from him. The faro dealer shifted, almost imperceptibly, to get his revolver into better position.

"Evening, Lauret," Cole said, and his white teeth flashed in an ironic grin. "The flies not buzzing around the honey pot yet?"

Lauret did not answer. Cole had spoken as he was passing and had not stopped.

From the stud game Sanborn beckoned a man with the slightest lift of the head. The man threw his cards into the discard, rose, and came toward them. He was the little sheriff, Samson Magruder.

"'Lo, Cole," he said gruffly. "Don't forget this ain't any honkatonk town. You can't come here and paint it no gaudy color."

"I'm a reformed character, Magruder. A married man has to settle down."

"Did you settle down before you visited the Circle 3 T or afterward, Cole?" the sheriff asked dryly.

"I wasn't responsible for that rumpus up there, if that's what you're hinting at. Some of Chet's boys got to picking at me. That's what I want to talk with you about. One of 'em is in town now, or was an hour ago. Curt Jordan. I understand he's been looking for me. Now I don't want to see him, Rusty and I came to town on business and we've finished it. We want to hit the trail without trouble. Do you know where Jordan is hanging out?"

"I reckon I can find out. You're not loading me, Cole. You aim to sidestep him if you can?"

"If there's a difficulty he'll make it, not me," Cole promised.

"Did you come in here to make trouble for me?" the faro dealer asked evenly.

"No, Lauret. I'm not looking for trouble with you, now or any other time. Anything that has happened in the past between you and me is in the discard, unless you rake it out."

"Then what's this play you're making about keeping me here?"

Cole explained, quietly. "There's a man in town looking for me. If you were to go out of here, and then right soon he was to drift in to the Arcadia, I might think you had sent him here. But if you stay and talk with me I'll know you're not responsible for anything that happens—if anything does."

"I don't care what you think," Lauret said curtly. He looked blackly at Sanborn, hung for a moment in hesitation, then turned sharply and resumed his seat. "But I'd as lief stay here. I'm not running to any one with information about you. I have more important matters on my mind." He began to shuffle a deck of cards and deal a game of solitaire.

The sheriff returned and drew Cole aside. "Jordan is at Pete Casey's place. He is sitting in a chair near the window with his eye on your horses. Pete tells me he has been drinking and has made threats against you. I'm having a Mexican boy bring your mounts here to the back door. Soon as they show up I'll give you the high sign and you boys can hit your saddles and get out. That suit you?"

"Fine."

"Jordan claims he has proof you held up the K. & J. express."

"I didn't do it, Magruder, but if Jordan gets me you can bet Chet will work up evidence to prove I did so this killer can get the reward. I was on Dead Horse mesa the night of the robbery. Did you ever make any inquiries to find out where Jerry Haskell was that night?"

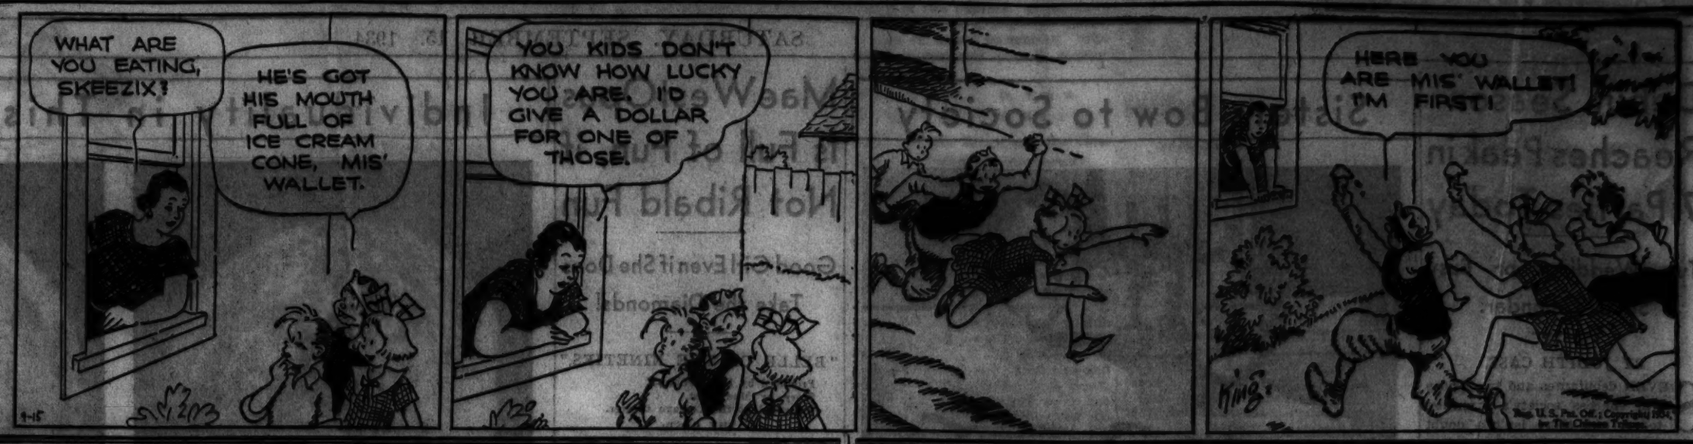

Magruder stared at him. "Jerry Haskell. What you mean, Cole? Can you prove——?"

"Not a thing. And I'll bet if you ask Jerry he's got an ironclad A1 alibi. Likely you'll find he was playing cards with two-three Circle 3 T riders, one of 'em a short heavyset guy and another a tall hairpin."

Debut Season Reaches Peak in 7 Parties Today

Miss Carolyn Crossett has made a trip specially from Bennington, Vt., where she is in school, to be an assistant at Miss Bersbach's party, and Miss Bersbach's brother and sister-in-law, the young Theodore B. Bersbachs, have arranged their wedding trip so that they will be home by 4 o'clock today. The new Mrs. Bersbach, who was Elva Eitel before her recent marriage, will be an assistant.

Miss Bersbach, who was prepared at the Shipley school, will enter Sarah Lawrence college later this month.

Caryl Ely's Bow to Be Made at Tea.

Between 4 and 7 o'clock this afternoon in Lake Forest Miss Caryl Ely, daughter of Mrs. J. Morse Ely, will be making her bow to society at a tea at her home, 121 Sheridan road. Mrs. John H. Hamline, Miss Ely's maternal grandmother, is giving the party with Mrs. Ely, and Miss Ely's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Carolyn Morse Ely, will also be in the receiving line.

There will be abundant gayety at the Weymouth Kirklands' house on East Westminster road in Lake Forest for they are presenting their daughter, Eleanor, at a tea dance. Yesterday a large pavilion was constructed on the lawn for dancing this afternoon and again this evening.

Miss Kirkland has invited her assistants and several more of her intimate friends and their beaux to remain at her house after her presentation party for dinner and dancing. At dusk there will be illumination to simulate stars and moonlight.

Miss Kirkland is another young woman who is combining her debut with college study. Next Thursday she leaves to start her sophomore year at Vassar college. She was prepared at the Girls' Latin school.

A third Lake Forest residence at which liveried motors will be drawn up this afternoon is that of the Milton Morses on East Deerpath avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Morse are presenting their daughter, Priscilla, to society at a reception between 4 and 7 o'clock.

Miss Jean Seagrove has come from her home in Bronxville, N. Y., to be one of her cousin's assistants.

After her graduation from Farmington Miss Morse attended Northwestern university. She is to be at home until after the Christmas holidays, but at the beginning of the new year she will reënter Northwestern for another semester of study.

Two Fashionable Weddings Today.

Today's Chicago brides are Miss Mary Kay Downs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Downs, who will be married to Dr. John F. Oakley of New Orleans at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Drake hotel, and Miss Harriet Fenner, daughter of the Robert C. Fenners of Evanston, who will be wed to David S. Sampsell, son of Marshall G. Sampsell, at 3:30 p. m. at St. Mark's Episcopal church in Evanston.

A maid of honor and three bridesmaids will precede Miss Downs the length of the ballroom in the Drake to the improvised altar. They are Miss Grace Fitzmorris, the honor maid; Miss Janet Blish of Seymour, Ind., who went to Finch with the bride; Mrs. Augustus Mysing, and Miss Lydia Phillips of New Orleans. Dr. Emmet Irwin of New Orleans will serve Dr. Oakley as best man, and ushering will be Charles C. Fitzmorris Jr. and Clifton Brown of Chicago; Darwin Fenner, Dr. Garland Walls, and D'Armand Percy of New Orleans. The Rev. Joseph Morrison of the Holy Name cathedral will officiate.

A reception will follow. After a wedding trip Dr. Oakley and his bride will be at home at 1423 Webster street, New Orleans.

The reception following the Fenner-Sampsell wedding will be held in the Fenner home. Miss Fenner will have five attendants. Her sister, Miss Margaret Fenner, will be the maid of honor.

Grosscup Sampsell will serve his brother as best man and two younger brothers, Joseph and Bruce Sampsell, will be among the ushers.

The Rev. Harold Bowen will read the ceremony, and Mr. Fenner will give his daughter in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenner gave the bridal dinner at the Drake last night. Among the out of town guests here for the wedding are Mrs. Howard W. Lang of Boston and her daughters, the Misses Barbara and Huldah Lang, cousins of Mr. Fenner, and Mrs. Charles S. Gelbridge of Detroit and her daughter, Miss Virginia Gelbridge.

Mr. Sampsell and his bride will be at home after their wedding trip at 909 Elmwood street, Evanston.

Miss Suzette Morton and her father, Sterling Morton, will be among the Chicagoans who will watch the international yachting races at Newport during the coming week, but they will not be aboard their own yacht, Freedom, to watch the Endeavour and the Rainbow, challenger and defender for the America's cup, compete for the trophy, for they want east by train.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Clark and their daughter, Bonnie-Jean, who is a debutante this season, intended stopping at Newport to see at least one of the races on their way from New York to Boston, where they are today for Miss Carol Crocker's wedding to their son, Carrington Clark.

The wedding today and the reception which follows will be at the Stuart club, 102 Fenway. Officiating will be the Rev. T. T. O'Connor.

The bride is a member of the Junior league and the Vincent club, and was graduated from St. Timothy's school in 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside in Kansas City, Mo., and will stop for a visit in Chicago en route.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius B. Manning aboard their yacht, Alamo, are at anchorage in the Newport harbor for the duration of the yacht races.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

For those who like the dressed feeling of a coat when they go out, here is a nice model. It has the complete effect desired, but it is only a dress and as such is very smart for these September and October days. It's an ideal model for school and college girls. Make it of one of the new rayon novelties that look like wool, sheer wool, soft Angora wool, pebbled silk crêpe, etc. It will slip easily under a coat when the cool days come.

The pattern, No. 3283, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years.

BY MARY MEADE.

Seems to be contributors' day in the kitchen, so I'll sit on the sidelines and introduce the folks to you, then let them talk for themselves.

Here's something for you to try. Up in Evanston is a gentleman who believes that he has found out something interesting about corn. He reports that by boiling corn on the cob for four minutes one can then remove it from the water and keep it for four or five days until a meal turns up at which it will fit. He then boils it for fifteen minutes more, and he announces that it then tastes just like fresh corn—perfectly luscious.

And from Mrs. W. M. G. arrives a bit about eggs. She writes, for the information of other housewives, that the condition of eggs may be tested by placing them in a pan of cold water to cover the eggs. If the eggs have a small air cell at the end, as have newly laid eggs which have been properly handled, they will lie down in the pan. If the air cell has grown larger through days of evaporation or improper storage the large end of the egg where the cell is situated will rise slightly.

In general this IS an indication of the state of an egg, but one must add certain reservations, Mrs. G. When you say "fresh" egg you probably refer to the age of the egg. But it is not the age of the egg which determines the size of the air cell. This is caused by evaporation and with improper handling—storage in warm, dry places—this evaporation and the deterioration of the egg may progress twice as fast as they do in an egg which has been properly handled. Also tests indicate that up to a certain point this evaporation does not affect the flavor or cookin~ quality of an egg, though beyond this point the egg, of course, begins to deteriorate.

There is one other slight objection to the dipping of eggs in water. Each egg if it has not been washed comes to us with a slight film covering the pores in the shell. This film or coating helps to seal the shell pores and thus prevent evaporation. When the egg is immersed in water the film is washed off, and if the eggs are then placed in a mechanical refrigerator, which has a decidedly drying atmosphere, the evaporation will progress very speedily. However, a simple substitute which does not have this complication is "candling."

So now a news note from the grocer. While there have been for some time similar products on the market the arrival of a cold jellied canned soup reminds one that a woman doesn't have to hunt out the gelatin every time she wants a quivery consomme for a warm day. The new soup comes in sealed cans and, with practically no bother at all, arrives at the table in all its cold jellied perfection. One simply tucks the can into the refrigerator, though not in the freezing compartment. After six or seven hours the cold will have done its work and the soup will have jellied.

And lastly comes a back-in-the-box trick which it's great sport to play on a refrigerator cake. As a rule, for one of these cool delicacies we scout around valiantly yet never seem to have quite the right sized pan for the molding. So next time give your tape measure a rest and use a cracker box or a cookie carton. Choose one which is carefully lined with wax paper—this way the moisture can seep neither in nor out. And for a very speedy dessert which just fills the bill and the cookie box simply stack packaged chocolate wafers side by each with a generous spread of sweetened whipped cream between the wafers. Make the stack as long as is the carton, then slip it back into the lined container, close the lid, and allow it to chill in the refrigerator until firm.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SHORT SUITED GRAND SLAMS.

The bidding having been one no trump, two no trumps, four no trumps, neither partner having a five card suit, can grand slam be reasonably reached? If so, on what basis and by what procedure?

Two Conditions Are Necessary.

Take pencil and paper and construct short suited partnership hands yielding a grand slam where (1) opening bidder was right in originally bidding one no trump, not two no trumps; (2) responder was right in making a first response of two no trumps, not three no trumps. I feel sure you will arrive at the following necessary conditions:

1. Opening bidder's hand must contain four aces if he is to be the one to decide for a grand slam.

2. One of the two hands must contain some reserve value which definitly enable that player to name every needed high card in his partner's hand, and to bid the grand slam without having to fear duplication or expect to need a finesse.

3. If responding partner can decide for grand slam it is because he holds three tricks in a form precluding the first round slam try.

When Can the Opening Bidder Decide for Grand Slam?

If the opening no trump bidder can actually know that his partner's primary tricks fill the gap he may go the limit. I mean, when there can be no doubt as to whether a certain half trick is composed of the king or of queen-jack. For instance, holding

Sp. A K J Di. A x x x
Ht. A x x Cl. A J x

opener's bid is one no trump; it is not even close to a two no trump short suited bid. Partner says two no trumps; opener naturally bids four no trumps. Now if the responding hand accept the slam try in certain terms these two reserve jacks are the key to the grand slam because they enable the opener to name every high card which forms part of the two and a half primary tricks on which the slam try was accepted.

In spades responder can have no primary value; therefore if he holds the king-queen in both red suits his remaining half trick must be the king of clubs, as he cannot hold queen-jack of that suit. You thus know that with this combination you need only fear two losers—the black queens—if both finesses fail. In no trumps, therefore, we must omit the hand to a small slam because we do not know, and cannot find out about, these two queens. To fail in a small slam you must lose two finesses; to make a grand slam in no trumps you must win both of two finesses. If partner's response is five no trumps the opener must slam off at six no trumps. This contract is desirable even if dummy puts down

Sp. x x x Di. K Q x
Ht. Q J x x Cl. K Q x

Locating All the Kings and the Ideal Suit Distribution Simultaneously.

However, there is one bidding development which makes grand slam probable, and that is if partner can bid both red suits, therefore holding K Q x x in each. Now the probabilities are reversed. There are no red losers unless both red suits are unevenly held against you. Partner has a doubleton in one black suit. If in clubs you can ruff the losing club and your jack of spades will go on the fourth heart; if his doubleton is in spades, you can ruff the spades and discard the club on the long heart. Consequently if the bidding went one no trump, two no trumps, four no trumps, five diamonds, I would bid five no trumps, not six diamonds, hoping to get a six heart bid next. If so, I would next bid seven diamonds. If responder could only bid six no trumps instead of six hearts, I would pass. The point is, I know my partner's high cards, and as such they only bespeak six no trumps. If I can ascertain that his distribution includes a black doubleton with two biddable red four card suits I then also know that we have all four kings. Satisfied in every respect, I am entitled to decide for the grand slam in diamonds. Only if the trumps are held four to one against him, and he lacks the jack, is there no play for declarer to make seven. This is unlikely with our even holdings. Assuming diamonds to be all right, declarer will not need a finesse of any kind if hearts are evenly divided. If, however, he cannot establish a thirteenth heart to provide my discard, he will still have a finesse against a black queen. Again, it is always possible that my partner has the queen of spades in reserve, and there is an excellent chance that the opening lead may tip him off which finesse to attempt if one becomes necessary.

If opener's heart and diamond holdings were exchanged he would bid the same way with hope of getting to seven hearts. However, if his hand were

Sp. A K J Di. A x x
Ht. A J x Cl. A x x x

he would not take the bidding beyond six no trumps unless the partner could bid both the minor suits, in which case he would go to seven clubs.

Environment Affects Child's Eating Habits

Mother's Attitude Vitally Influences His Own.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Our previous article discussed the proper accessories as the first step toward teaching a child to eat.

Today we will discuss the attitude that we feel it is desirable for the child to have and what our own attitude should be.

Eating is infinitely more than getting food into a child. It is establishing in him certain dispositions or attitudes toward all the mechanics of living.

This has its current, or immediate value, too, but what is equally or more important is that it establishes attitudes which in adult life will stand him in good stead. So we must first define to ourselves what we consider are the right attitudes:

A disposition to come to meals.
A disposition to eat willingly.
A disposition to learn to feed himself.
A disposition to try new foods.

It is mostly by the mother's approach that these can be established.

Do not, one day, be unperturbed over spilt milk, and the next day scold when an accident happens. Do not, one day, be pleasant and happy and unhurried, and the next day rush him through. This makes his world unsteady and insecure.

Do not fear that he is going to develop resistance to eating. Do not be anxious or apprehensive about his not getting enough food. That will be communicated to the child. Do not feel that you must be terribly businesslike and matter of fact. Like all the routine things that a child has to go through, meal times can be a pleasant experience for you both. The child will reflect your attitude. And he will respond to it.

Texas Flower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Today's quilt pattern originally was a nameless patch which found its way to Texas with one of the earliest settlers. So popular did it become in that territory that it was christened "Texas Flower." Its popularity has become nation-wide and is justly deserved, as is seen by one glance at the attractive block.

Business Girl Must Keep Good Health to Hold On to Her Job

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Rumor has it that the business girl is not going to get or hold a job unless she represents physical fitness of a pretty exacting standard. More and more employers are inaugurating physical examinations before a girl is employed. Naturally, where they are endowing employes with welfare benefits, insurance, and so on, they cannot be expected to take into the fold one whose health is not up to par.

The reflection of health demands appear, as a consequence, throughout the entire organization. If one is already in, this demand of the beginner makes her realize that days off for this and that ailment are not looked upon with indulgence. Or, she is smart if she does realize it and makes good a health program for herself that establishes her as a sound employé investment.

I speak of this because, for some time past, the business woman has believed, and been led to believe, that appearance is 90 per cent of the battle. By appearance, health has not been interpreted broadly. The standard assumed had more to do with clothes, manicures, smart coiffures, good complexion and such grooming details.

I speak of it, too, because work in the business field is sedentary for the most part, with its own peculiar liabilities that can be offset only by a program that includes systematic exercising.

Also, I speak of it because of the many opportunities, offered young women for physical upkeep.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Turbey, Ph. D.

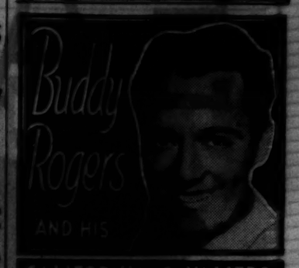

Experiments on rats have shown that these animals, after being bitten by venomous snakes, succumb sooner to the poison when given whisky. In all cases the whisky-treated rats died quicker. Some were given liquor before being bitten and some afterward, while others were given the liquor both before and after. None lived as long as the rats which had no liquor at all. Snake venom, physicians point out, weakens the heart and lowers the blood pressure, and liquor does the same thing, thus making matters worse rather than better.

LITTLE, GOLDMAN ENTER AMATEUR GOLF FINAL

HERE'S YOUR BIG CHANCE TO GET A $200 CHECK

Lewis Offers Prize to Sparmates.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Strangler Lewis has written a $200 check, payable to John Doe. But this Doe is an elusive fellow. He is impersonating one of the Strangler's sparring partners and so far the disguise is perfect. He may identify himself by getting behind Lewis and applying an offensive hold during one of the big fellow's workouts, after which he may take the check and cash it.

For nearly two weeks now, big men and little men, fast men and powerful men, have been trying to earn this bonus. But speedy as they are, the Strangler is too quick for them. One by one they are thumped on the floor of Trafton's gymnasium, where Lewis is training for his championship wrestling match with Jim Londos. The two are to meet at Wrigley field Thursday night.

Lou Might Be John.

If the John Doe named in the $200 check makes himself known before training period ends, it seems likely that he will be the fellow who now carries the name of Lou Talaber. Lou has come closer to proving he is John Doe than any of the other sparring partners who take a mauling each afternoon.

On one occasion Talaber got "about $20 worth of that $200," as the Strangler expressed it, but before he could really apply a lock, he was sent spinning.

Talaber, who once held the middleweight wrestling championship, is one of the fastest men in the ring. He is giving Lewis ideal preparation for the speed which he will encounter when he wrestles Londos. But fast as he is, Talaber is not quick enough to outmaneuver Lewis.

His Alertness Improves.

Talaber, who has supervised the Stranger's training in many previous bouts, says the big fellow's alertness has improved greatly in recent years as he has perfected his knowledge of ring tactics. Lou states that Lewis now anticipates every move a foe is about to make and checkmates the maneuver.

In these daily workouts it is of course the ambition of the sparring mates, especially the amateurs, to show up the big fellow. But when they begin to get rough, it doesn't take the Strangler long to show who's boss. According to the terms of the $200 bonus offered, the sparring partner is not required to throw Lewis. He is required only to get behind him and apply an offensive hold. But even the fastest have not been able to do this.

There never had been any doubt about the Strangler's power and now there seems to be little question of his speed. So the Lewis fans who attend the daily workouts at Trafton's are jubilant over the prospects of a victory for their favorite. They greet him in the elevators as "the coming champion."

It's Question of Stamina.

Inasmuch as Lewis has established his power and speed to the satisfaction of his followers, there remains the question of his stamina. There can be no final answer to this until the supreme test of the championship bout with its 90 minute time limit. But the Strangler now feels in such perfect physical condition that he is confident Londos will be unable to tire him.

On the other hand Lewis thinks the Greek will tire himself out by the tactics into which he will be forced. Lewis believes Londos is afraid of powerful crushes and will retreat rather than accept the issue and close in. He plans to take the offensive and keep the Greek moving away while they are maneuvering for holds. Lewis maintains that a man moving backward tires much more rapidly than a man moving forward. Thus he plans to give Londos no choice except to leap back continually or come into a crushing duel at close quarters.

The boil on his back which had worried Lewis for a few days has cleared up entirely, he reports. During his workouts the big fellow still wears a bandage on the tender spot, but all the poison has been drawn out, he stated.

HAWKS' RENTAL FIGHT PERILS HOCKY LEAGUE

Boston Club Also Faces Loss of Arena.

The National Hocky league may be forced to suspend operation this winter, it was learned yesterday from authoritative sources. Unless difficulties facing at least two of the clubs are overcome decision to abandon play in 1934-35 threatens to be the only alternative when the annual meeting of the league is held in New York one week from today.

Both the Chicago Blackhawks and the Boston Bruins have been unable to negotiate leases for home games this season. Action to be taken in New York depends upon the ability of these teams to find suitable arenas.

The Boston club, most popular of all the hocky teams, has refused to accept the terms of the Madison Square Garden corporation for another year's lease. And the present uncertainties in Chicago because of the reorganization of the Chicago Stadium corporation have prevented the Blackhawks from renewing their lease on the west side building.

Trouble at St. Louis.

Without these sextets the National league could not exist profitably. But there are other problems, notably the situation in St. Louis, where attempts have been made to place the Ottawa franchise.

That the Chicago Blackhawks may not play at the Stadium was revealed yesterday by William Tobin, secretary of the club. No contract has been entered into with the Stadium and, because of this, contracts have not been sent out to the players.

"Even if the Stadium submits a suitable proposition, or if the Blackhawks decide to carry on at the Coliseum this winter, it might be inadvisable to go ahead if Boston cannot straighten out its difficulties," Tobin said.

"Rental Too High"—Tobin.

Last year the Blackhawks paid the Stadium Operating corporation 35 per cent of receipts for each of its 22 home games. Officials have said they are paying too much of the load for other enterprises that the Stadium has housed. On two occasions the dispute over rentals has sent the Blackhawks to the Coliseum.

With a 35 per cent rental, it has cost the Blackhawks approximately $10,200 for each home game, which sum, of course, has included all other expenses, Tobin indicated. Prior to ing 35 per cent arrangement the Blackhawks have paid as high as $5,000 a night rental.

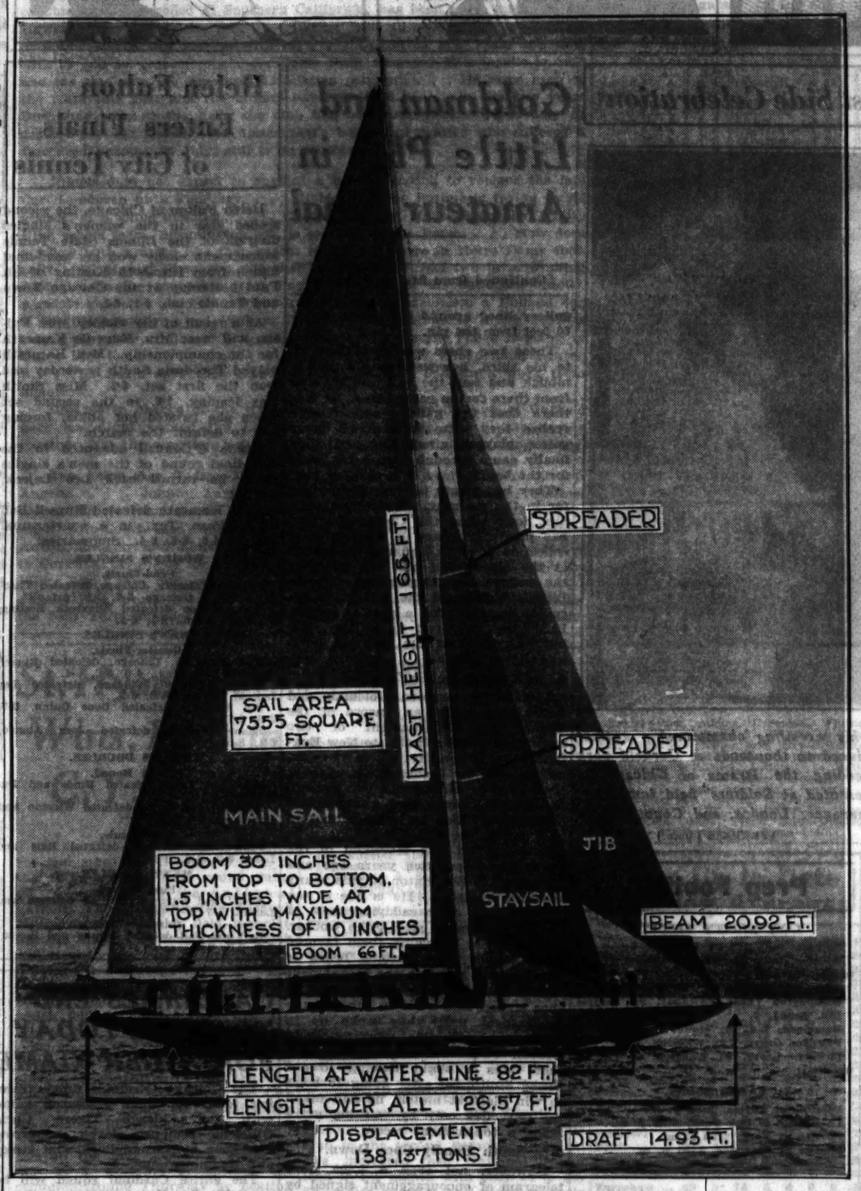

Balk at 25 Year Lease.

The Stadium corporation is in the throes of reorganization. Arthur Wirtz, one of the prominent members of the reorganization committee, has asked the Blackhawks to sign a 25 year lease, Tobin said.

"No business firm would accept a 25 year lease," Tobin complained, "particularly under an arrangement such as the Blackhawks had last year. The Blackhawks have declined this proposition and so far no counter proposal has been made.

"A long term lease might be accepted if a reduction in percentage was made," Tobin continued. "Even so, the Blackhawks have no assurance that the building will not become out of date or that other facilities might not be available in that period of years which would be more suitable."

four races before being acclaimed the better boat. There is no race on Sunday and each boat has the privilege of asking for one day's delay so the races may not be decided until late next week.

The eve of these international matches has brought Newport to a high pitch of excitement. The harbor is full of private and commercial craft of every description. An enormous spectactor fleet will be present when the gun is fired. Aboard the Nourmahal, Vincent Astor's big yacht, will be President Roosevelt. The reference to a billion dollar audience is by no means an exaggeration. Almost every person of wealth and social prominence in the east is here and England also is well represented with the arrival of a British cruiser to represent the challenging country.

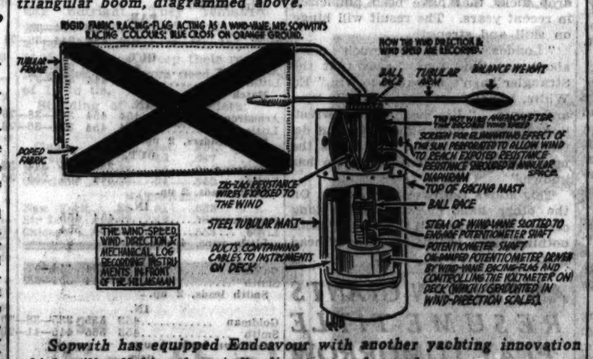

Sopwith's challenge marks the 15th time in 84 years that a representative of the British empire has sought to lift the cup from its trophy case in the New York Athletic club. A total of 40 races have been sailed and 37 of them have been won by the defending American yacht.

Toronto Beats Newark, 7-4, for Third Victory

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Toronto shelled three Newark pitchers for 15 hits tonight and defeated the International league champions, 7 to 4, in the fourth game of their playoff series before a crowd of 7,500. It was Toronto's third victory of the series.

Sopwith has equipped Endeavour with another yachting innovation which will tell him the wind's direction and speed.

ROSS, M'LARNIN FIGHT TONIGHT IF THERE'S NO RAIN

More Showers Predicted; Promoters Hopeful.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Promoters of the thrice postponed world welterweight championship fight between Champion Barney Ross of Chicago and Jimmy McLarnin, from whom Barney took the title here last May, tonight were proceeding with determination to stage the event tomorrow night despite lack of encouragement from the weather man. There were showers today and more are predicted for tomorrow, but the weather afforded no such dismal scene as that which prevented the fight from being held on Sept. 6, the original date, or on Sept. 7 or 8, the postponement dates.

The aforesaid promoters insist that the enforced delays have not hurt interest in their spectacle in so far as ticket sales are concerned. Many tickets were turned back after the third postponement last Saturday, but, say the vendors, these bouncing credentials all have been resold. Regardless of the facts in the case, scalpers still were asking $22.50 for all seats available inside the fifteenth row.

Many Counter Attractions.

Whatever new sales have been or will have been made cannot be credited to journalistic smokeup hereabouts. Tomorrow, weather permitting, will be one of the biggest sports days in recent memory along the Atlantic seaboard. As a consequence New York ballyhooers who were gurgling fight dope by the yard ten days ago are being held to inches in deference to tomorrow's international yacht race, the east and west polo match, the Belmont Futurity, the finals of the national amateur golf tournament, and the Giants-Cardinals baseball game. If you are full of Chicago civic pride you can include the Cub-Dodgers' double-header among the big attractions, but do as you please about that.

The fighters spent most of today registering sang froid or whatever it is a prize fighter registers when he wants to show he is not on too fine an edge, or nervous or otherwise upset.

They're Both Phlegmatic.

Speculation since last Saturday's postponement has veered from the artistry of the performers to their nervous systems. Each camp has claimed its tiger amazingly phlegmatic and not at least perturbed at having had to cool off after reaching his training peak a week ago. While the delay probably hasn't done either fighter any good physically, it is improbable that either has been disconcerted more than the other.

Reports that McLarnin's followers were so impressed with his phlegmatic temperament as displayed during a week near his training base, while the champion was observing his religious holidays with orthodox rigor, brought tales that they were offering 11 to 10 on the Vancouver Irishman [registered from California with the New York commission]. A survey today of quarters where money is currency and not nouns, verbs, etc., failed to uncover any of this 11 to 10 McLarnin money.

It is expected that Ross will enter the ring at least a 7 to 5 favorite, with some forecasts of the fight time price running as high as 9 to 5 on the champ to defend his title successfully.

Weigh In at Noon.

The boys will weigh in at noon tomorrow before the New York athletic commission, and it is expected that Barney will scale between 138 and 140. Jimmy may weigh in at about 145½ and must make 147. It is held unlikely that Barney will give Jimmy any bigger weight advantage than he did when he took the title.

Sam Pian and Al Winch, Ross' managers, had little to say after the champ's mild workout today, but radiated confidence, as the saying goes. Pop Foster, manager of the challenger, and other McLarnin henchmen continued to place their stacks on the hope that McLarnin, author of some 18 knockouts, can stop Barney. Foster went so far as to say that the fight won't go ten of the scheduled 15 rounds. He is not reported to have made any wagers to this effect.

Big 10 Schools Open Football Practice Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Western conference football squads open practice today in preliminary workouts leading up to two months of competition which may or may not provide a successor to Michigan as champion. At the same time Notre Dame's squad will begin fall drills under a new athletic director and coach, Elmer Layden, in what is hoped will be a revival of the days of 1929 and 1930 when the Irish swept from coast to coast undefeated.

A survey of intercollegiate football in the central states reveals that:

1. There is increased interest manifested by advance ticket sales at all conference universities and at Notre Dame. Advance sales are larger than in three years and no small part of this has been due to the stimulation provided by the recent All-American-Chicago Bears' game at Soldiers' field, which was sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, and which was witnessed by 80,000 and broadcast to thousands of others over a nation-wide hook-up.

Two New Coaches.

2. Advent of new coaches, Francis Schmidt at Ohio State and Alvin [Bo] McMillan at Indiana has solidified alumni support at these universities just as the succession of Layden to power at Notre Dame has revived Irish interest.

3. The conference title race appears more even than in years despite Minnesota's nominal advantage of a veteran team which was undefeated last season although tied by Purdue, Indiana, Northwestern, and Michigan. Roy Oen, 1933 captain and center, is the only regular graduated.

4. Most conference schedules provide for a gradual approach to important Big Ten games in contrast to recent wholesale schedulins of contests easily won from small schools. The annual Michigan-Ohio State game, for instance, has been shifted to Nov. 17.

Big Intersectional Games.

5. Intersectional games will test the Big Ten against representative teams from all sections of the country. Outstanding are Minnesota at Pittsburgh, Oct. 26; Northwestern at Stanford, Oct. 13; Army at Illinois, Nov. 3 Indiana at Temple, Oct. 13; Maryland at Indiana, Nov. 17; Georgia Tech at Michigan, Oct. 20; Colgate at Ohio State, Oct. 20; Rice Institute at Purdue, Oct, 6; Purdue at Carnegie Tech, Oct. 27, and Purdue at Fordham Nov. 17.

6. Three of Notre Dame's games are with conference opponents — Purdue, Wisconsin, and Northwestern — and the schedule of nine games is outstanding for caliber of opposition.

Six conference teams will play their first games two weeks from this afternoon. At least four of these are strictly warm up affairs, Carroll at Chicago; Bradley Tech at Illinois; South Dakota at Iowa, and North Dakota Aggies at Minnesota. The others, Ohio university at Indiana and Marquette at Northwestern, will furnish sharp competition with fair chance of defeat for the Hoosiers and Wildcats.

Three Weeks to Big 10 Opener.

On the following Saturday Ohio State will open the conference race against Indiana; Michigan will meet Michigan State; Marquette will play Wisconsin, and Purdue faces Rice institute. Notre Dame opens three weeks from this afternoon against the University of Texas, coached by Jack Chevigny, who played half back at Notre Dame in 1926, 1927, and 1928.

BRITISH CHAMP WINS, 4-3, OVER DON ARMSTRONG

Meets Texan in 36 Hole Match Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 14.—William Lawson Little Jr., that confident San Franciscan, will step up to the tee at the Country club tomorrow and attempt to accomplish what only two others in the history of golf have done—win the British and American amateur golf championships within one season. He already holds the British title, having captured it at Prestwick this spring with the most merciless massacre of par ever seen in that ancient event.

In tomorrow's 36 hole final for the 38th amateur championship of the United States Golf association, Little faces the last of the upset boys, that brotherhood of unknowns who stormed through the first seven rounds of this tournament, leaving a file of beaten champions in their wake before putting out each other. The survivor is 25 year old David [Spec] Goldman of Dallas, Tex., making his first appearance in the national amateur, and the first Texan ever to reach the final.

Eliminates Armstrong.

The 23 year old Little, who is entering his senior year at Stanford university, was forced to bring out several shots he has been nursing all week to eliminate the last Chicagoan, Don Armstrong. 29 year old whisky salesman, 4 and 3, in one of today's two 36 hole semi-final bouts. In the other Goldman put out his home town pal and nemesis, Reynolds Smith, the tournament's overtime hero, 4 and 2.

It was the general supposition today that only Bobby Jones had ever been able to accomplish what Little will strive after tomorrow, the business of taking both of the great national titles in the same year; but a statistician pried into the histories and discovered that Harold Hilton, the Englishman, had won at Prestwick and Apawamis in 1911. Bobby scored his double during the year of the grand slam, 1930, when he won at St. Andrews and Merion.

Little Stands Alone.

Until today Little has not been forced to extend himself in winning any of his matches. There was a slight brush with young Willie Turnesa yesterday afternoon, but it was not until he met Armstrong had he had to unfurl a couple of the shots with which he won at Prestwick. Throughout the week Lawson has played with scant applause, the sympathies of the galleries being with his opponents. Today was no exception, but it was obvious that this deficiency is not curtailing the young man's slumbers.

Whenever Armstrong began to move in on him, the Californian would dig down and yank up a champion's shot. Armstrong, who gave Little his hardest fight of the tournament thus far, made his best effort at the fourth hole in the afternoon, holing out a remarkable explosion shot from a trap. The gallery was so partisan that Little couldn't make his futile try for the half for nearly a minute, such was the cheer that went up for Don.

Little Gets Hot.

Lawson waited until seven holes later to play a hole which should be set down in the front of the book of great golf. The eleventh is the second longest at The Country club, measuring 510 yards of traps, bunkers, and rocks. He put all he had into his tee shot and it turned up 260 yards down the fairway with a perfect lie. That might have been enough, but he followed it up with a No. 2 iron shot which dropped the ball on the white

A Sock on the Jaw or A Flying Tackle?

Now, perhaps you wouldn't care to receive either of these, even as a gift, but The Tribune has signed up a group of rugged battlers who welcome this kind of treatment—provided they can deal out the same in return.

You'll want to attend the world's championship wrestling bout between Jim Londos and Ed Lewis at Wrigley field Thursday. And for good measure you'll see:

DON GEORGE vs. IIM McMILLEN (30 minutes)
KING LEVINSKY vs. ART SYKES (10 rounds)
LEO RODAK vs. EVERETT RIGHTMIRE (10 rounds)
YOUNG STUHLEY vs. SOLLY DUKELSKY (8 rounds)
BARNEY ROSS (4 round exhibition)

Then, too, Jack Dempsey will be on hand to referee one of the boxing bouts.

The prices, including tax, are $6, $3.60 and $2.40. Get tickets at The Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and the Hall of Science at the World's Fair.

Address mail orders to Wrestling Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Make checks payable to the Chicago Tribune.

SISKIN SCORES EASY TRIUMPH, LIMP AND ALL

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Siskin limped off the track in his four big bandages at Lincoln Fields again yesterday afternoon, but he was a proud old rascal for he had just accounted for the Kensington purse after running six furlongs in 1:11 4-5.

He had displayed the most dazzling speed of the meeting while leading all the way. He had galloped away from the fastest sprinters that could be mustered against him. He won by nearly three lengths and seemed to be easing up in the final stages.

Those limps he displayed after it was over are just an old custom of Siskin's. He does it after every race and limped so badly last winter down in Florida that he was all but given away in one change of ownerships.

The Old Boy Is Good.

He came to Chicago early in the spring and was beaten on one occasion by $1,500 horses. Then he took a new lease on life and in his last 15 starts he has been first five times, second five times, and third on another occasion. He gradually has crawled up the ladder until he has beaten every good sprinter racing in the Chicago territory.

Siskin, a son of Epinard-Ruddy Light, was somebody when he was a 2 year old, capturing such stake races as the Hyde Park at Arlington, Agua Caliente Futurity and the Joliet handicap at Lincoln Fields. Then he started limping and ever since he has been expected to break down completely every time he starts Dust Girl Is Second.

In the Kensington, Siskin running coupled in the betting with Wise Ways as the R. T. Watts entry, went to the post as the odds on favorite. He paid off at $3.74 for a two dollar ticket. Dust Girl finished second and Dusky Devil was third.

Siskin was ridden by Paul Keester and galloped into the lead in the first 40 strides. Dust Girl challenged more than once and so did Dusky Devil. Siskin did everything but laugh at them as he turned on more sped. As soon as Keester pulled him up he displayed the old limp. It may be that Siskin has become an educated horse and has mastered the art of limping.

Keester was rolling up his second victory of the afternoon on Siskin. He had put on a marvelous stretch ride on Grey Pal to get this 2 year old up in time to win the third race by about an inch and a half.

Race track regulars are of the opinion that something will have to be done about the horses which carry the apple blossom jacket of Alderman Coughlin. They are running far too consistently to please the boys who say: "I wouldn't bet on a Coughlin horse with other people's money."

Board Trade Opens at 3 to 1.

The alderman was represented on yesterday's program by Board Trade, an upstanding chestnut son of Polymelian, who won the first race of his career in the mud at Lincoln Fields a few days ago. Board Trade ran in the South Holland purse and opened in the betting at 2 to 1.

The skeptics wanted none of that. "Three to one on a Coughlin horse! Never!" they shouted. Up went the odds against Board Trade. At post time he was 10 to 1. When the battle started he was with the rear guard, but soon romped into second place.

On the turn into the stretch he caught the pacemaker, Black River, and pulled out into a long lead. He finally won from Black River by five lengths and was pulled up almost to a canter. The favorite, Clientele, had been in a contending position all the way but found the task of catching Board Trade and Black River too much of a job. He finished third. Coming fast in fourth place was Spicate from L. M. Severson's barn.

The two year old champions of Detroit and Chicago will get together in the Will county handicap, which is the top number on today's racing card at Lincoln Fields. They are Debs Delight, owned by Charles T. Fisher, which swept to three straight victories at Detroit, and Advantage, star in Ald. John Coughlin's stable, winner of the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap.

Six other speedy juveniles will oppose them. They are Official, running companion of Advantage; Hope Eternal,. My Blonde, Dancing Doll, Dojo, and Star Banner. The betting last night indicated that Debs Delight will rule as the favorite at about 2 to 1.

Burning Blaze, from the Nash Brothers' stable, is near a racing effort, as was indicated yesterday morning when he galloped five furlongs in one minute.

Jocky Jack Westrope was back in action yesterday for the first time in more than a month, climbing into the saddle in three races.

Few closer finishes have been witnessed this season that that which came in the second race yesterday when Polly's Folly, Renaissance, Heiress, and Droit came up to the finish line only inches apart. Polly's Folly caught the eyes of the judges.

Chicago Lawn Bowlers Start Tourney Today

The lawn bowling championship of Chicago will be decided today and tomorrow. Approximately 160 of the city's best lawn bowlers will take the field in the two day tournament starting this afternoon at Washington park and continuing tomorrow morning at Jackson park. Members of the Chicago Lawn Bowling club, Washington park; Lakeside club, Jackson park; Columbus club, Columbus park, and Calumet club, Beverly Hills, will be among the competitors.

The Y. M. C. A. Industrial League All-Stars will play the Union Church league All-Stars in the first annual all star baseball game between these two leagues at the American Giants park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue, this afternoon.

Rich Futurity Draws Field of 19 Colts

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The $100,000 Futurity, richest horse race in the world, will be contested tomorrow afternoon at Belmont Park with nineteen named for the forty-fifth running of the great juvenile stake. The field includes half a dozen major stake winners, and because of the quality of each, the race is open with the favor of turf patrons likely to be divided between the E. R. Bradley and Brookmeade Stable entries.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the seven race card, which includes three stakes.

If all named go to the post the Futurity will have a gross value of $104,499, of which sum $25,000 is added by the Westchester Racing association.

It's a Short Race.

The distance will be 6½ furlongs for the first time since 1926, when it was fixed at 6¾ furlongs, almost the full length of the Widener chute, down which the race will be run.

Balladier, winner of the United States Hotel stakes at Saratoga and the Champagne at Belmont, is to carry the Bradley silks with Boxthorn, winner of the Saratoga Special. Each is in with 122 pounds and likely to be slightly favored as Brookmeade's Psychic Bid, victor in the Hopeful, must shoulder top weight of 130 pounds. Psychic Bid will have Special Agent as a running mate.

Here Are More Threats.

Also deemed very formidable is the entry of Omaha and Sir Beverley, the property of William Woodward, chairman of the Jocky club. Omaha is considered a top class colt in the Belair barn and was running down Balladier at the end of the Champagne, although it was in receipt of weight from the Bradley racer. Tomorrow they meet again at level weight.

The other stakes are the Jocky Club Gold cup race at 2 miles, and the Grand National Steeplechase handicap at 3 miles. Each will gross around $8,000, so that the total purse distribution tomorrow afternoon will be the greatest on any single day on any track in this country.

The entries, jockies and probable odds:

BRUNDAGE PUTS OFF DECISION ON NAZI OLYMPICS

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee, announced tonight after a one day study of the Jewish situation in Germany that he had decided not to use the authority delegated to him, but to report back to the committee with his findings and let it decide whether to accept the German invitation to the 1936 games.

"Only one thing is definite so far," he told the Associated Press. "That is that I have made up my mind not to decide this matter by myself. I am sailing for the United States on the Ile de France Sept. 25 and I'll call the committee together immediately to make my report."

In view of his previous statement that he would make the decision himself if he found the issue clear cut—that is, either clear discrimination against athletes of Jewish birth or no discrimination—it was believed he had found the situation as complicated as have other observers.

Smith Defeats Ross in Midway Mat Windup

John Mason threw Al Tucker, 26:47.
Gus Clem threw John Bockivitch, 14:20.
Rudy Hoffman threw Harold McMillin, 16:20.

Londos Attends West Side Celebration

Youth Londos' Big Asset in Lewis Match

Jim Londos, whose ring activities at 37 years of age label him a candidate to become one of the marathon wrestlers of history, put in another busy afternoon yesterday at the Mayfair Casino in preparation for the defense of his world's championship against Ed [Strangler] Lewis at Wrigley field next Thursday night. Londos confined his work to 30 minutes of effort against Hans Bauer and Dick Raines, the extra beefey members of his entourage.

Londos has been wrestling since 1914. For 17 years he's been grappling professionally, but it is unlikely that he ever has worked more diligently for any match. Supremely confident in his ability, Londos methodically has approached his task of whipping a man who will outweigh him 30 to 35 pounds. Endurance is essential and endurance in this bout also means ability to take punishment. All this Londos knows.

His Biggest Task.

There is a tremendous difference between touring the countryside and whipping second rate challengers than in meeting the one wrestler in the United States who has, or at least fancies, a grievance. The championship bout is limited to 90 minutes, sufficient time for both Londos and Lewis to show all the skill and power for which each is famed. But regardless of whether either gains a fall and thus ends this ten year grudge between the principals, there will be a winner.

Two judges, who will be named by the Illinois athletic commission from a list of six chosen by popular vote, and the referee will decide which man is entitled to the decision. The names of the judges will not be announced until the wrestlers enter the ring. Under these circumstances, neither Lewis nor Londos can afford to waste time in meaningless motions.

Plans Defensive Battle.

It would seem that Londos would be at a disadvantage. Outweighed, he has intimated that he plans a defensive battle in the early portion of the bout. Fair enough, but points probably won't be scored for success in staying out of trouble and sooner or later Londos must come to Lewis and show that he can force the one time champion to his will.

Talk of a defensive battle may be so much hoopla, however. So far, at least, Jim has trained apparently for speed, and in his work against Bauer and Raines he has shown tremendous strength. Lewis' weight will not be an advantage unless the Strangler gains position to use that weight. Couples with speed will be Londos' age. Much younger, five years according to Lewis and more than that in the calculations of the champion's admirers. Londos should do well by himself Thursday night.

No Fancy Holds Expected.

One can be fairly certain that the championship will be decided without the airplane spins, flying tackles, and drop kicks that have been publicized in recent years. The result will hinge on skill and strength.

"Londos knows so much more about wrestling than Lewis that the Strangler hasn't a chance to win," Ed White, Londos' manager has said time and again. "Jim has studied wrestling, its most punishing holds and defenses for these holds, until he is the most advanced student the game has known."

This states the case for Londos. On the other hand, Lewis, in his long career, did quite well for himself with nothing much except his famous head lock.

AMERICAN GIANTS RESUME TITLE PLAY TOMORROW

The American Giants will return home today to resume play for the championship of the Negro National Baseball league. They will play a double header with the Philadelphia Stars tomorrow afternoon at Coles park, and another game Monday.

Because of rain in the east, the two teams were able to play only one of three scheduled games in Philadelphia, the Giants winning, 4 to 3. After Monday's game, the Giants and the Stars will return east to conclude the Negro world series.

Goldman and Little Play in Amateur Final

These two shots were preliminaries to his third, however, for he took a niblick and sent the ball into the cup from there for an eagle three. It was there that the gallery appeared to realize they were watching a great golfer playing great golf and they finally came through with a big hand for the boy.

They had plenty to cheer Armstrong for in the morning. After losing the first four holes, the Chicagoan, who has plenty of heart in addition to a collection of shots, squared the match at the ninth. He was two down at the intermission, losing the 17th to Little's birdie and the 18th when he couldn't get around a partial stymie. Little was only two up at the 27th, but won three of the next six holes to end the match.

They Came Up Together.

The battle between Goldman and Smith was really an encore of the Texas State tournament of two months ago, transplanted to New England. Smith won that one in 19 holes, despite a 67 by Goldman. It appears that Spec is destined to run second, for he has never won a championship. In addition to being runner-up to Smith in the Texas State meet, he was second to Gus Moreland in the Trans-Mississippi two years ago and runner-up to Zell Eaton in this year's Western Amateur. He is one of ten children and after caddying most of his life, became a steel lathe worker.

The gallery following them favored them equally, after having heard of how the two came to the tournament together—2,000 miles on a pair of shoe strings and went on through the tournament until they woke up in the same bunk this morning in a Beacon street rooming house. Still, there was a slight leaning toward young Smith, for after going 18 holes to win his first match, he had taken the next five only by working extra holes, a tournament record.

Smith Finally Goes Down.

However, not even a 1,400 word telegram of encouragement signed by all the members of his home club could bring the young Texan down a winner today. Goldman birdied the 17th to be one up at noon and went on until he was three up after the afternoon tenth. Dave ended it with a deuce on the 16th, holing a 12-foot putt.

Little and Goldman will have played only seven matches out of the tournament's scheduled eight, since each drew a bye in the first round.

Helen Fulton Enters Finals of City Tennis

Helen Fulton of Chicago, the second seeded star in the women's singles division of the Illinois State Tennis tournament, easily won her semi-final match from Elizabeth Kesting of St. Paul yesterday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, 6-1, 6-1.

As a result of her victory Miss Fulton will meet Mrs. Eugenie Kamrath for the championship. Mrs. Kamrath played Theodosia Smith yesterday and won the first set, 6-2. Miss Smith was leading, 3-0, in the second set when she twisted her ankle, forcing her to default the match.

Frank O'Connell advanced to the semi-final round of the men's singles when he turned back Leo Lejeck, 6-3, 6-2.

Karl Kamrath defeated Russell Bell of El Paso, Tex., in a quarter-final match, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4. Summaries:

CARDINALS END TRAINING TODAY FOR TIGER GAME

The Chicago Cardinals finish training today for their preseason game with the Chicago Tigers, Chris O'Briens' semi-pro eleven, tomorrow afternoon at Normal Park, 61st street and Racine avenue.

The entire Cardinal squad will be available for the contest and Coach Paul Schissler plans on starting many of his first string men. Paul Pardonner, ex-Purdue star, will be at quarter back. Mike Mikulak, the powerful University of Oregon full back, and Dave Cook, ex-Illinois half back, who along with Pardonner played in the All-Star collegian game against the Bears at Soldier field recently, also will be in the lineup.

RIGHTMIRE AND RODAK BATTLE AROUSES FANS

Youngsters to Meet on Londos-Lewis Card.

Interest in the Leo Rodak-Everett [Young] Rightmire 10 round bout, one of the supporting events on the Londos and Lewis heavyweight wrestling championship card at Wrigley field next Thursday night, is mounting daily.

Rightmire, who has won all his Chicago starts, is displaying good form in training. As a result, his backers are increasing. Everett has impressed with his speed, speed which enables him to hit and quickly get away from possible counter punches. Counter punching is the main forte of Rodak and has materially helped him keep his professional record clean of defeats.

Some fans hold that Rodak will be too strong, while others contend the stipulated weight will weaken him. Regardless of who will win, followers of both boxers are of the opinion that the conflict will be the best between featherweights since the Earl Mastro-Bat Battalino title match at Chicago Stadium in 1931.

Rightmire weighed 124½ after sparring two rounds each with Jackie Sharkey, Tommy Corbett, and Mickey Beal yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium. Manager Tommy O'Loughlin believes Everett has reached his peak and will give him a layoff today. O'Loughlin revealed that Rodak must come in at 127 pounds—not 128. He said 128 may receive the approval of the Illinois athletic commission, but 127 is the poundage Leo must make or lose a $250 forfeit. "We'll take Rodak's forfeit if he isn't at 127, but in the event he weighs more than 128, he'll have to take it off or there'll be no fight," O'Loughlin declared.

Sammy Mosco, Omaha, Neb., featherweight, arrived yesterday for his six round semi-final with Frank Mirabal, Argo, Ill., on the Joe Louis-Buck Everett card at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Six boxing matches and a wrestling bout will be included in the show to be presented by the John S. Clark Athletic association at Mills stadium Tuesday. . . . Earl Mastro has received a permit from the Central A. A. U. to hold a show at Community Recreation center, Sept. 24.

Mickey Misko, Saginaw, Mich., middleweight, will be in quest of his ninth triumph in as many Chicago appearances against Tony Zale, Gary, in the eight round feature contest Monday at White City. . . . Fred Cheynoweth, Milwaukee, Wis., lightweight, and Al Pahl, Minneapolis, were paired yesterday for a four round fight at Marigold.

Michigan Open Waters Offer Autumn Sport

BY BOB BECKER.

Although brook trout fishing in our northern states now is closed, fishermen and many opportunities to throw their lures for bass, muskies, lake trout, pike, and even rainbows and steelheads in some parts of Michigan.

Here is a schedule of open water in Michigan, where autumn anglers still can go after the rainbows. In some localities one has a good chance to pick up a string of wall-eyes, too.

Muskegon county: Muskegon river, Muskegon and White lakes and White river.

Mason county: Pere Marquette river down from the Indian bridge; South branch, Pere Marquette river, down from the River view bridge, and Pere Marquette lake.

Manistee county: Manistee river, Manistee, Arcadia, and Portage lakes.

Charlevoix county: Lake Charlevoix.

Antrim county: Channel below the new powerhouse at Elk Rapids.

There has been quite a migration of Illinois fishermen to the northern lake county during the last week in order to take a final fling at muskies, and also pick up a few large lake trout. Among well known Chicago fishermen who hurried into the Lake of the Woods country this week was Harry I. Gephert, holder of an enviable record on Canadian muskies.

The reports about muskies weighing between 40 and 50 pounds being caught was the final stimulus behind the rush of Illinois and Chicago fishermen to northern lakes.

The northern lake trout and muskalunge season always is good in the autumn, a time when most rod and reel enthusiasts have quit for the year.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Wesley Ferrell, the ex-Indian now employed by Boston's Red Sox, was undone yesterday by his own generosity. The great man from the Carolinas inadvertently served three passes along with a single in the first inning, thereby forcing in a run that enabled the tail-end White Sox to capture the opener of the series by 1 to 0. Except for this slight indication of shakiness, the tempermental southerner was a capable performer, but his four hit work in the last eight innings wasn't sufficient to save him from his fifth defeat of the season.

Although Wesley sparkled he had nothing on our own Milton Gaston, who still is able to enjoy life despite 18 defeats inflicted on him in the current campaign. Gaston surrendered one more hit than his illustrious opponent, but he kept them fairly well sprinkled, and also limited his passes to two. He was in a tight spot on only two occasions, and these were the only times the Boston club managed to get a runner as far as third base. It was Gaston's sixth victory.

Ferrell Forces In Run.

The great Ferrell got two men out of the way in the first inning before encountering a flurry that permitted the Chicagoans to get away to a one run lead. Ferrell's first offense was to slip a pass to Simmons. Bonura pasted a single to right and Simmons hustled to third. Appling walked, filling the bases. Then Ferrell pitched himself into serious straits. He couldn't get the ball over for Hayes, who eventually walked, forcing Simmons to score. With the bags still loaded, Mauldin grounded out to short.

After yielding only one single and a pass in the first two innings, Gaston ran into stiff opposition in the third. The inning opened with three strikes for Wes Ferrell. Bishop walked. Werber flied to Simmons and Bishop went to third on Almada's single to right. Gaston pulled himself out of the jam by fanning Graham. The fifth also proved eventful for the White Sox veteran. Lary and Bishop singled with one out, but the threat was erased in a hurry when Mauldin started a double play on Werber's grounder.

Find Progress Difficult.

After the first inning the White Sox suddenly awakened to the fact that further progress was difficult. Swanson singled with two gone in the second and died stealing. Mauldin singled with two out in the fourth. The next to become a base runner was Simmons, who walked to open the sixth. This chance was blasted when Bonura bounced into a double play. Mauldin singled again in the seventh, but nothing came of it. Then Swanson led off in the eighth with a hit, but was forced on Conlon's intended sacrifice bunt. The third pass to Simmons followed, but Bonura put another crimp in the proceedings by again bouncing into a double play.

Gaston reserved the biggest piece of excitement for the ninth inning. Almada flied to center and Graham then jeopardized the one run lead by sailing a triple between Simmons and Conlon. The situation was greatly improved when Solters took the last of three healthy but futile swings. Then Roy Johnson was ushered forth to bat for Rick Ferrell, and the pinch man concluded the snappy show by popping into Appling's hands.

Sox Sign Caithamer, Mills Semi-Pro Catcher

George Caithamer, 23 year old catcher with the Mills semi-pro team, has been signed by the White Sox and will report to Manager Jimmy Dykes this afternoon. Caithamer, who bats right handed, played in the Nebraska State league last year. He has been working out with the White Sox for a week.

Light Shower Postpones Cub, Dodger Contest

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 14.—A light shower this morning proved sufficient provocation for the management of the Brooklyn Dodgers to call off today's scheduled contest with the Chicago Cubs and arrange a double-header for tomorrow. This will give the teams two double bills in a row, a two-ply function having been provided for Sunday when the Cubs had a postponement during their July series here.

Jim Weaver and Bill Lee are scheduled to pitch tomorrow for the Chicagoans and probably will be opposed by Ray Benge and Emil Leonard.

The Cubs' desire for second place was whetted considerably by the announcement that $100,000 had been tossed into the world series pot as a result of the sale of radio rights. They now are in third place, one game behind the Cardinals.

On Sunday Lon Warneke will be sent after his 22d victory. Tinning or Root probably will start the other game.

Tigers Defeat Senators in 12 Innings, 6 to 4

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers nearly threw away a ball game today, but each time they tied the score and finally won, 6 to 4, in the twelfth. They increased their lead over the New York Yankees to 4½ games.

Charley Gehringer's home run with one out and one on base in the twelfth accounted for the winning runs after Manager Mickey Cochrane had tied the score for the fourth time. Hank Greenberg drove out his 24th home run of the season to tie things in the ninth. Score:

Newsom walked the first four batters in the first game, won by the visitors, 9 to 7. Manager Hornsby started Newsom again in the second game, and the big Californian struck out the first four batters. Scores:

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DIRECTOR GEORGE HUFF reveals that softball was a varsity sport at Illinois in 1891. . . . He was a member of a team that played an indoor series with the Danville Cycling club. . . . Among the freshmen enrolling at Purdue is J. R. Bennett Jr. of Hawaii, who last season cleared 13 feet in the pole vault, 6 feet 3 inches in the high jump, and 22 feet 6 inches in the broad jump. . . . All marks were made in his bare feet. . . . Bennett was born and reared in Hawaii, but his parents came from Wabash, Ind. . . . He wants to become an industrial engineer. . . . Max Baer is driving a Duesenberg, which he took over when a Dallas promoter failed to make good a $5,000 guarantee at an exhibition in which the champion appeared. . . . University of Wisconsin's boxing team will meet Syracuse, thrice National Collegiate champions, and West Virginia, for two years undefeated in the Eastern Intercollegiate conference, at Madison next winter.

Just as Southern California thought it had lived down the 27 to 0 defeat which Knute Rockne's last Notre Dame team plastered on the Trojans up comes a picture, "College Rhythm," just released, featuring that famous 80 yard run by Bucky O'Connor. . . . Bob Storey, who withdrew from the University of Chicago and enrolled at Southern California, has been ruled ineligible for Howard Jones' eleven this fall. . . . Illinois leads all states in the production of major league ball players with 29. . . . California and Texas are next with 25 and 23, respectively. . . . Donie Bush managed Minneapolis in 1932 and the club won the American association pennant. . . . He came back to the team this year and the Millers have repeated. . . . In the two years Bush has been at the helm the club has been out of first place only 57 days. . . . Joe Hauser, the Association's home run clouter who suffered a fractured kneecap in July, still is on crutches. . . .

Illinois does not expect to appoint a baseball coach to replace the late Carl Lundgren until February. . . . Noble Kizer of Purdue is trying to rid himself of a sinus infection. . . . Chuck Sweeney, star end on the Trinity High school team, Bloomington, Ill., is entering Notre Dame. . . . How does a fellow with a name like that expect to get anywhere in Notre Dame football? . . . St. Hyacinth Wins, 12-0, in C. Y. O. Meet St. Mary's of Alton, Ill., defeated the Dubuque, Ia., All-Stars, 3 to 1, in the third quarter final round game played yesterday in the national Catholic Youth Organization baseball tournament at Wrigley field, completing the bracket of four teams which will meet in semi-final games this afternoon. Two Chicago nines, St. Hyacinth and St. Adrian, remain in the running for the 1934 national title, which will be decided tomorrow afternoon.

St. Mary's and Holy Assumption of West Allis, Wis., are the out of town clubs which threaten to take the Cardinal Mundelein trophy out of Chicago and the hands of the defending titleholders, St. Adrian.

St. Adrian will meet Holy Assumption in the first semi-final game today at 1 o'clock. It entered the semi-final round Thursday by beating St. Isidore of Grand Rapids, Mich., 2 to 1, on two hits.

St. Hyacinth will play St. Mary's in the second game on today's card. St. Hyacinth defeated York, Neb., 12 to 0, yesterday to enter the semifinals. Either Ed Urbanowski or Tony Slowinski will pitch for St. Hyacinth. Frank Manns, who hurled St. Mary's to an 8 to 3 victory over St. Patrick's of Janesville, Wis., in a first round game Thursday, will seek his second victory of the tournament in the game. Scores:

TIGERS, GIANTS INCREASE LEADS OVER RIVALS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Both major league leaders, the Giants and the Tigers, advanced a step nearer the clinching of the 1934 pennants yesterday. The Giants, defeating the second place St. Louis club in the second game of their series, increased their National league lead to 5½ games with only 14 to go. They also added a half game to their lead over the third place Cubs, who were idle, leading them by 6½ games. If the Giants win 10 of their 14 games neither the Cubs nor Cards can overtake them.

The Tigers won from the Senators, while the second place Yankees lost to the Indians. This combination added a game to the Tiger lead in the American league, making it 4½ games. Despite their victory the Indians lost their chance to win the flag outright. They remained 15 games behind with 15 to play and had a possible chance to tie the Tigers. If the Yankees sweep their remaining 14 games the Tigers need only 10 out of 15 to tie.

Schumacher, Giants Beat Cards, 4 to 1

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Hal Schumacher today pitched the New York Giants to a 4 to 1 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second of the series. Schumacher turned in a five hit game and also drove out a home run. The triumph increased New York's lead to 5½ games over the second place St. Louis club.

Bill Walker, who once pitched for the Giants, had one bad inning that cost him the game. In the third the Giants put together four of their nine hits for three runs.

In the Wake of the News

BIG TEN FOOTBALL.

BIG TEN football practice officially begins today. Optimism of greater or lesser degree radiates on all campuses except from coaches who seek to guard against overconfidence on the part of players, overexpectation from undergraduates and alumni.

Naturally there must be many disappointments in various camps before the season ends. Just now the question concerns advance prospects. Minnesota, because of losing only one regular, generally is placed at tops in the dope. Several other teams appear to be greatly strengthened from a year ago, but in the "toughest league" in the country, as the conference so often is called, such strength must be judged relatively as compared to formidable rivals.

While Minnesota is given first rating, perhaps a handicap to its chances, interest also will center largely in Michigan, which has been champion or co-champion for the last four years. Loss of eight regulars ordinarily would presage disaster in such keen competition as the Big Ten affords. Such conclusion, however, does not take into consideration the Michigan buildup and replacements policy.

There is no question the Wolverines lost valuable veterans. It has returning reserves, thirteen letter men, many of whom would have been regulars elsewhere. It also has several unusual sophomore prospects. Those who count Michigan entirely out of the running, although logically they should be, may have to revise their estimates before Dec. 1.

If Minnesota be placed at the top on form, the secondary group, only slightly less dangerous, might include Illinois, Iowa, Purdue, Michigan. Whether Northwestern and Wisconsin belong among these will depend on the Purple back field and Badger sophomores. Ohio State, perhaps mistakenly, Chicago and Indiana are classified in the lower bracket.

Minnesota—Loses only Center Roy Oen from the regulars. Pug Lund, triple threat back, great tackles and ends are again under Coach Bierman's tutelage. Ranks as best prospect in league. Was inclined to be erratic last season, tieing Michigan and Purdue but also being tied by Northwestern and Indiana. Only eleven in country to defeat Pittsburgh. That game most feared by Gopher alumni this year. Conference hardest game probably Michigan at Minneapolis, although Wisconsin, final game this season, always a humdinger owing to long standing rivalry.

Iowa—Loses Joe Laws, winner TRIBUNE Silver Football for most valuable player, Schammel, Moore and others, but capable replacements in sight. Former lack of reserve strength gradually being remedied as more home state prep material matriculating at Iowa City since Ossie Solem became coach. Crayne and Fisher bulwark of attack. Should be strong as last year despite losses owing to fine sophomore.

Purdue—Purvis and Carter nucleus of attack. Heavy losses from the line by graduation, but exceptional material taking their places. If line not too inexperienced, will be as good as previous season, which was plenty good. Notre Dame game at South Bend, Oct. 13, early objective.

Michigan—Theoretically should be much weakened. May not have the consistency of 1933 but will surprise any one picking it for a weakling. Heavy losses by graduation, but 13 letter men back and several unusual sophomores. Hard schedule.

Illinois—Opponents claimed Illini played "over its head" in 1933. Only two points, both points after touchdown, out of tie for title. It was an eleven that looked to be coming and might be champion this year despite some graduations although conservatives at Champaign feel it is currently overrated. By all football gauges, should be better than last year.

Wisconsin—Will be somewhat of mystery team until proved. All last fall were tales of how the freshmen pushed the varsity all over Camp Randall. Those freshmen are now sophomores. Team rated highly by most experts. Possibly overappraised, but not if sophomores make good.

Northwestern — Improvement expected in attack which was almost nil in 1933 although a stubborn defensive outfit. Return of George Potter supplies field general and something of a triple threat. Manske lost, so ends principal question in a potentially strong but inexperienced line. Sophomores relied upon to give more impetus to attack. Should be better than last year.

Ohio State—To The Wake's surprise not rated highly by those whose opinion we value. Called below usual Buckeye caliber in the line. Coach F. A. Schmidt, formerly of Texas Christian, begins first year of service. Probably underrated.

Chicago—Better than last year. Heavy loss by technical ineligibility of both veteran tackles. Good men on squad but not enough of them for adequate reserve strength. Might be a greatly improved team without winning any more games than usual owing to conference strength elsewhere. As one conservative alumnus sizes up situation: "We're stronger, but so is nearly every one else."

Indiana—Better than 1933. Part of material causing such estimate yet to be proved. First year as coach of "Bo" McMillin, former star of the Praying Colonels of Centre college.

CHICAGO YACHTS COMPETE TODAY AND TOMORROW

The Sheridan Shore Yacht club will hold two series races for its Star boat fleet over the week end. The third match for the C series will be decided this afternoon at 3 o'clock. At the same time tomorrow the third race of the Blue series will be held. Both events will be run off Wilmette and Evanston.

Skippers of R, Eagle and Pup class sloops will race today at the Chicago Yacht club off Belmont harbor, starting at 2:15 o'clock. The fourth and final race for the C series will be the event. A closed club yacht race for sailing craft also will be conducted by the Columbia Yacht club tomorrow.

The score or more motor cruisers which left Chicago yesterday morning arrived last night at Ottawa, Ill., Commodores David Zimmerman, Durl P. Ruger and O. E. Nadeau, with George Schaeffer, leader of the mass cruise, arrived first aboard the flagship Alice Dee. Dr. Nadeau, owner of the cruiser, was at its helm.

EAST AND WEST OPEN 3 GAME BATTLE TODAY

Odds Almost Even on 1st Polo Contest.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The opening game of the East-West polo series will be played tomorrow afternoon at International field, Meadowbrook. Rainy weather has caused two postponements of the renewal of the series, but despite the delay interest never has slackened in the battle that will bring together the country's greatest poloists.

Up to now the West has been an overwhelming favorite to repeat last year's triumph. But the belief now is that these men will have to be at the top of their playing form to stop the lighter and younger easterners, coached by the veteran Devereaux Milburn. Thus the odds are approaching even money on the first game.

Rest Helps East's Ponies.

One important factor in the shifting of the odds was that the week's delay has given the East's imported ponies a much needed rest, enabling them to take the field at the peak of condition. They will not have to carry as much weight as the American bred mounts of the West, and although the lightning-fast turf of International field should benefit both sides, the weight difference will give the easterners the edge in racing for the ball.

The West staged a final workout at Mitchell field this afternoon, but the players were under orders to take things easy. Aware of the part that pony condition plays in any game, much attention was given to the mounts under the direction of Tommy Nelson. While weight superiority may be an aid in skirmishing, the West realizes that it is a handicap in the open field and is giving every attention to developing speed under the saddle.

Why East's Hopes Soar.

The East finished pre-game preparations yesterday with a runaway victory over a practice quartet. The last time the West played a practice game it was stopped by a lineup of eastern players that did not approach the skill of the team which will take the field tomorrow. Yesterday the East faced a team of about the same caliber and in beating it, 17 to 4, sent hopes of eastern supporters skyrocketing.

The series will be decided by the best two out of three contests. The second game will be played Wednesday and the third game, if necessary, next Saturday.

Tomorrow's lineups, with the players' handicaps, follow:

WEST.		EAST.
E. L. Pedley [8]	No. 1	Michael Phipps [7]
E. Boeseke Jr. [10]	No. 2	James P. Mills [8]
Cecil Smith [10]	No. 3	Winston Guest [8]
Aidan Roark [8]	Back	Wm. Post II. [7]

The spare players for the West and their handicaps include Lindsay Howard [6] and Thomas Mather [5]. For the East the spares are Elbridge T. Gerry [7], Earl A. S. Hopping [7] and Stewart B. Iglehart [7].

Maj. Louis A. Beard will referee. The umpires will be Capt. Wesley J. White and Malcolm Stevenson.

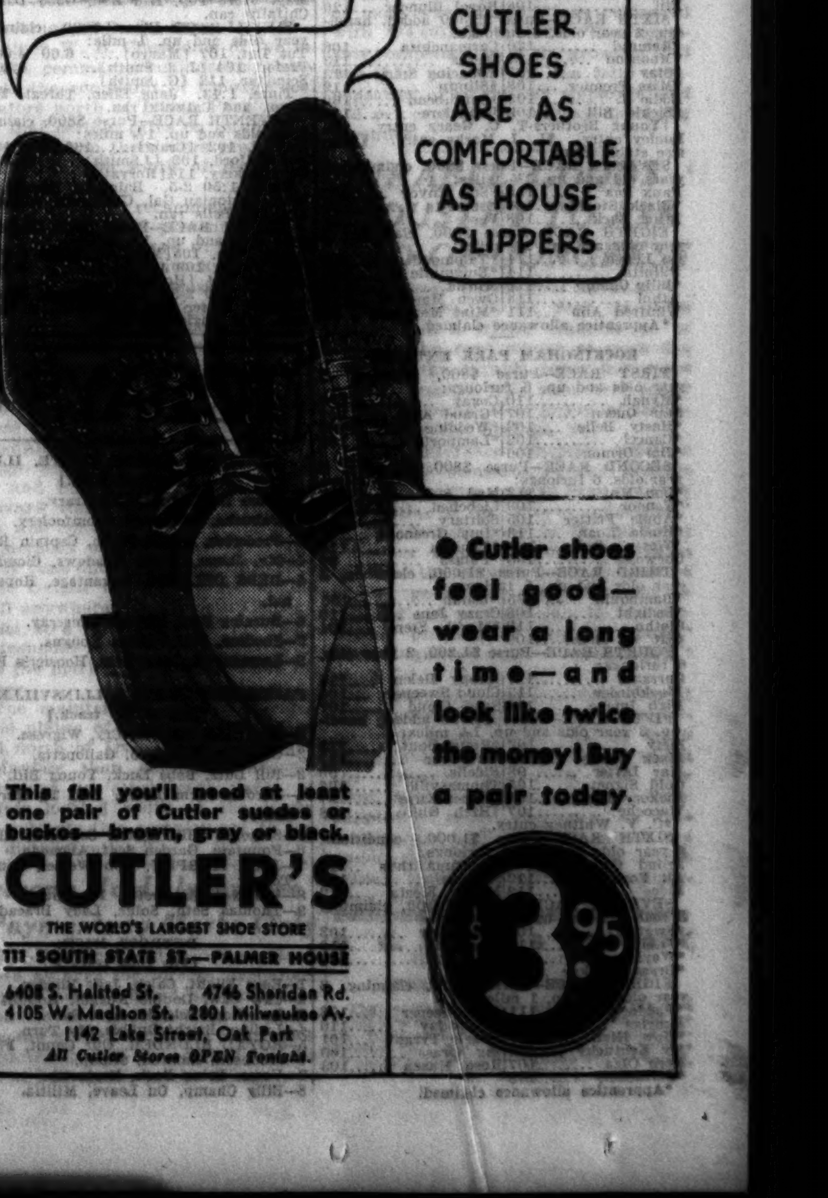

WONDERBOLTS TO PLAY WISCONSIN TEAM TOMORROW

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts soccer team, which won the Chicago championship last season, will face an all-star team representing the Wisconsin Station association tomorrow at De Paul field.

Sparta will play the Maccabee All-Stars of the major league at Sparta stadium.

The Wieboldts haven't lost a game in Chicago since last October and have added Bill Watson and Scotty Nilsen of the national champion St. Louis Stix team.

POLLY'S FOLLY, never a great distance back and raced wide throughout, gained gradually after reaching last three-sixteenths, and, after getting up, weakened, but lasted. RENAISSANCE, on inside all the way, raced BAG SMASHER into submission, and held on stubbornly in the drive. HEIRESS saved ground on stretch turn and finished strong.

GREY PAL, beginning slowly and badly outrun until reaching stretch, where he made up ground fast, came through on inside of PRECIOUS BETTY and got up for a lucky win. PRECIOUS BETTY improved her position fast on the turn, drew clear fast approaching final eighth, and, bearing out in late stages, was unlucky to lose. Time, :23 1-5, :47 1-5, :59 4-5, 1:06 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Board Trade, $21.48 straight, $12.42 place, $8.68 show; Black River, $18.06 place, $9.72 show; Clientelle, $3.30 show. Winner trained by R. E. Heffernan. Went to post at 3:44.

BOARD TRADE raced wide while working his way up in opening quarter, was under steady restraint on the turn, easily overtook BLACK RIVER when ready, and had something left. BLACK RIVER, quick to begin, had fine speed but weakened in last sixteenth, yet outstayed CLIENTELLE. Latter, under strong urging throughout, held on well.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

*R. T. Watts entry. †John Marsch and Mrs. John Marsch entry. Time, :23 4-5, :47, 1:11 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Siskin [entry], $3.74 straight, $2.44 place, $2.14 show; Dust Girl, $3.82 place, $2.80 show; Dusky Devil, $3.10 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:19. At post 6½ minutes. Start good. Won ridden out, place driving.

SISKIN, lucky to secure ample room on inside while working his way to front in first three-sixteenths, increased his advantage while bearing out on the turn, again swerved out sharply after entering stretch, and, withstanding DUST GIRL'S bid, came away while bearing over in last eighth. DUST GIRL, placed on outside at start, had fine speed, suffered through winner's repeated swerving, and tired in late stages. DUSKY DEVIL saved much ground, and, holding on gamely, outstayed WISE WAYS.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :24 3-5, :48 4-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:39 3-5, 1:46 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Platinum Blonde, $9.06 straight, $4.36 place, $3.86 show; Sherron, $6.38 place, $3.68 show; Arctic Star, $5.32 show. Winner trained by Jay McNamara. Went to post at 4:54½. At post ¾ minute. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

PLATINUM BLONDE, away slowly, moved up on inside rounding first turn, was steadied along close to the pace, and, coming between the leaders, won drawing out. SHERRON, under snug restraint for three-quarters and raced wide the final half mile, withstood drive gamely, and, while no match for winner, held on well. ARCTIC STAR weakened in final eighth.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 3-5, :46 4-5, 1:11 4-5, 1:37 3-5, 1:45. Two dollar mutuels paid: Ashen, $29.64 straight, $11.78 place, $4.80 show; Trahison, $5.20 place, $3.28 show; Oscillation, $3.66 show. Winner trained by J. J. Greeley. Went to post at 5:25½.

ASHEN took command easily, maintained fine speed to final eighth, then weakened badly, but withstood TRAHISON'S bid. Latter, probably best and impeded by PRE WAR on first turn, saved ground to stretch, where, after coming out, he closed resolutely and was wearing down the winner. OSCILLATION, also impeded on first turn, moved up on inside entering back stretch, was cleverly rated and went evenly in the drive.

AUDITOR TELLS "BUCKET" DEALS OF MARKS' FIRM

Sold Stock to Customers That It Didn't Have.

The first evidence of outright "bucketing" on the part of J. L. Marks & Co., bankrupt instalment stock selling house, was presented by Leo P. Gallagher, who audited the bankrupt's books for Donald H. McGilvray, friend of the court, at the general creditor's hearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday.

On July 31, 1933, Mr. Gallagher said, 40 shares of stock of Pullman, Inc., were sold to one customer, according to the books, as a cash transaction, yet no stock was purchased or on hand at the time.

Sold Much Stock; Held Little.

Gallagher's detailed audit, which was introduced as evidence, showed that the corporation had at one time sold 6,328 shares of General Motors, yet had only 179 shares on hand, and had sold 51,519 Corporate Trust Shares, yet had only 901 shares on hand.

McGilvray, in questioning J. L. Marks, president of the firm, pointed out that the books of the corporation failed to show any entries recording payments of $500 cash in 1927 for capital stock and $2,700 cash in 1930 when the capitalization allegedly was increased. Marks protested that whether the records show it or not, the amounts were paid in.

Canceled Check Stubs Gone.

In response to McGilvray's questioning Marks said that he had no knowledge of what happened to the canceled checks and check stubs for August, 1933, all of which have disappeared.

Dorothea W. Kahler, 5740 S. Michigan avenue, testified that she had paid about $2,200 to the corporation but had obtained only about $1,000 back. She said that while she was talking to Marks he told her that he had made a million and a half dollars in the grain market. Then he picked up a telephone, she said, and nonchalantly ordered a broker to buy him 5,000 shares of Aviation corporation stock.

The next hearing will be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

ELEVATED LINES CONSIDER YARDS' FINANCE OFFER

Receivers for the Chicago Rapid Transit company yesterday had under consideration an offer made by the Union Stock Yards company to advance $90,000 through the purchase of receivers' certificates for the reconstruction of the elevated structure inside the stock yards that was destroyed in the May fire.

The offer was made at a conference on Thursday, which was called by the Illinois commerce commission in an effort to get an agreement under which the service could be restored. Officials of the elevated lines contended that it is the duty of the Chicago Junction railroad, which owned the structure, to rebuild it, but offered to install a bus service so that the district's transportation needs could be taken care of quickly.

The Junction railroad contended that the elevated lines, which leased the structure, should rebuild it, and the stock yards company objected to having buses operate within the yards. As no agreement could be reached the commission decided to hold a hearing on the matter on Sept. 24.

CHICAGO RAILWAY REPORTS 6 MONTH NET OF $275,570

Total income of $2,312,368 was shown for the last six months in the statement made public by Receivers Guy A. Richardson and Walter J. Cummings. All but $3,485 in interest on bank balances accrued from the company's share of net receipts from operation of its property by the Chicago Surface Lines.

Deductions of $2,036,798 include mortgage bond interest amounting to $1,859,271 and purchase money bond interest of $99,250. Interest adjustments with the surface lines, receivers' fees, and corporate expense amounted to only $8,491 for the last six months, against $269,316 for the full year ended Jan. 31.

W. G. Dooley Made Officer of Sears Community Bank

Directors of the Sears Community State bank, banking affiliate of Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday announced the election of William G. Dooley as vice president and cashier.

Two Officials Are Elected by Liberty National Bank

The Liberty National Bank of Chicago, Roosevelt road and Kedzie avenue, yesterday announced the election of Maurice Cohn as vice president, and William Kabaker as cashier.

STOCKS CRASH; TRADERS FEAR MORE BAD NEWS

30 Hour Week Talk Starts Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—Reports that President Roosevelt was preparing to decree a 30-hour week for industry without any corresponding readjustment of wage scales precipitated a sharp break in the stock market today.

Price losses ranged as high as 8 points in the active list and a long line of trading favorites went bumping down to new low levels for the year. Business picked up smartly as the decline gained momentum in the late trading, the sales total mounting to 820,000 shares or about double that of yesterday.

Fear Bad News to Come.

An undefinable feeling of unrest has been apparent in brokerage circles for several days and market letter writers have been moved repeatedly to guess that "bad news" of some kind was expected, in their efforts to guess the reasons for the persistent selling of highgrade securities.

The rank and file generally have been convinced for some time that the much discussed autumn business upturn was not going to pan out according to forecasts and there has been no little anxiety in trading circles on the score of the expected decision on rules and regulations by the new securities commission. Commission house advisers have warned their clients in many instances to be prepared for the extension of the current decline to the lows of last July if not further.

Several well known houses, including one banking institution, were reported to have been large scale sellers in today's market.

Allied Chemical Off 8½ Points.

One of the worst victims of the session was Allied Chemical which took a tumble of 8½ points to a new 1934 low of 117 on a heavy run of selling orders. So far as the general public knows the directors of this company have not applied for registration of the stock on the exchange and it was thought in some quarters today that this uncertainty may have had something to do with the selling attack.

Some of those liquidating their holdings of the company's shares were said to fear they might be deprived of a market for their securities after Oct. 1, when the section of the stock exchange act requiring such registration becomes effective.

Both classes of United States Steel stocks were battered to new lows for the year to the accompaniment of rumors that the preferred dividend would be dropped at the end of next month. A report was also around that a large philanthropic organization has been liquidating substantial blocks of its holdings of the stock.

Railroads Actively Sold.

The railroad group had a little extra trouble to carry on account of the more than seasonable decline of 80,000 in carloadings for the week. Losses in such leaders as Atchison, Union Pacific, Lackawanna, and Hudson ran from 1 to 3 points.

Oils sold down with the rest. Standard Oil of Indiana, which has sold to one new low after another since transferring to the "big board," was an unsettling factor in this sector.

Farm shares were not particularly helped by the decline in wheat and the silver mining issues ran into fresh selling from all quarters. Liquor and food shares moved downward with the rest.

A scattering of preferreds sold down for losses of as much as 10 points.

Grains Suffer Sharp Setback on Liquidation

Grains suffered the sharpest setback in days here yesterday as selling orders from discouraged investors and speculators flooded all pits throughout the session. Wheat, corn, and oats lost more than two cents a bushel each, rye slumped nearly four cents, and barley sagged one to five cents.

Much of the discouragement was attributed to increasing reports of imports of foreign grains. About two million bushels of rye are said to have been worked for importation, Argentine oats were offered for sale from New Orleans Thursday at 2 cents a bushel under Illinois prices, and considerable Canadian durum wheat has been bought for shipment to this country.

View Situation as Bearish.

Traders reasoned that if the government would not exercise its powers to prevent foreign grain from being sold here at competitive prices, it was useless to attempt to bull prices. Actually, the threat of foreign competition is said to be small and quantities of grain which will be imported are not expected to be large. The sentimental effect was more important as it is one of a number of factors which have added to general discouragement.

Wheat at the close was 2¼ to 2¾ cents under Thursday's finish. Corn lost 1⅞ to 2⅞ cents; oats dipped 2 to 2¼ cents; rye slumped 3⅝ to 4 cents, and barley lost 1 to 5 cents, the May delivery falling its maximum allowable limit for the day. December wheat closed at $1.03⅞ a bushel, to which the consumer must add 30 cents in processing taxes as his cost. December corn finished at 76⅛ cents, minus a 5 cent tax, and December oats were quoted at 52½ cents.

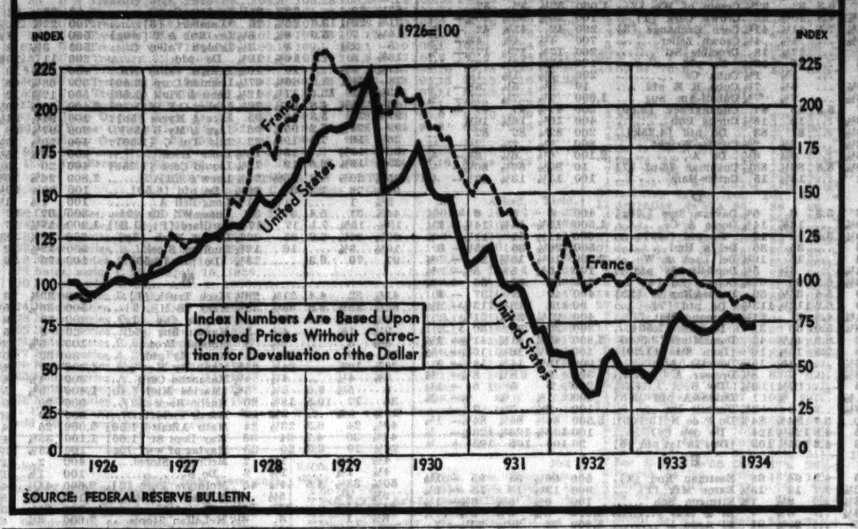

Winnipeg Loss Lighter.

Unfavorable weather conditions which held back harvesting in Canada imparted a better tone to Winnipeg and prices fell only ⅝ to 1⅜ cents. Liverpool eased ⅜ to ½ cent, Rotterdam gained ⅝ to ½ cent, and Buenos Aires lost a half cent.

Weather forecasts indicating frost reaching the corn belt within thirty-six hours were offset by reports of continued insistence of the Agricultural Adjustment administration on surplus pig slaughter, and by improvement in pastures from recent rains. The pig killing program will cut feeding requirements.

Weakness in oats was attributed to the arrival of Argentine imports at New Orleans. Rye suffered from the same factor, reports that five cargoes of Polish grain were on their way to this country bringing out speculative selling, despite the fact it is well known the United States must import about 15,000,000 bushels this year to fill domestic needs.

Won't Permit Stock Tieup, Says Kennedy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, said today that no ill considered regulations that might tend to "stop up" stock exchange activities would be put into effect. In instances where there was not time to complete carefully considered rules by Oct. 1, transactions would be permitted to follow their normal course if they were not in direct contravention of the law or such preliminary rules as had already been promulgated.

Kennedy also announced that the effective date for the temporary registration of securities with the commission by the exchanges has been extended for one week until Sept. 22.

No Threat of Withdrawals.

He had heard, he said, no threats of withdrawals of registrations. On the contrary, he felt that practically all issues would be registered, calling attention to the fact that all but thirty-five on the New York Stock exchange had been listed up to yesterday. He had heard, he said, that only forty New York curb issues remained unregistered.

In regard to over-the-counter transactions, Kennedy said that it would probably be some time before regulations would be ready. In the meantime transactions will be permitted as usual.

Of almost equal importance to his declarations about stock exchange activities, was a statement that the commission, which now has jurisdiction also over the securities act of 1933, was giving consideration to the question of making "as practical as possible" regulations and registration forms under which securities must be issued. When Kennedy was asked if this meant "modification" he replied that he had used the word "practical."

Complaint on Forms.

There has for some time been much complaint on the part of issuers of securities under the securities act of 1933 that regulations and registration statements were too complicated and that many of the data requested could be eliminated without destroying the protection afforded investors. Experts are understood to be studying the registration forms now, line by line, to determine whether they may be simplified and still call for all information necessary to full compliance with the law.

While the securities act of 1933 calls for the listing of certain specific information in registration statements, the commission has considerable discretion as to such other information it may demand and in the formulation of regulations interpreting sections of the act.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SHOWS BEST EARLY AUTUMN SALES IN 3 YEARS

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday reported that sales for the eighth period from Aug. 14 to Sept. 10 were the best for the period since 1931. The total for the period was $23,609,935, a gain of 4.5 per cent over the $22,584,264 reported for the corresponding period of last year.

In the preceding period sales amounted to $20,284,116 and were 5.8 per cent above those of a year ago. For the eight periods from Jan. 30 to Sept. 10 total sales were $184,533,551, against $150,754,786 in the corresponding period of 1933, a gain of 22.4 per cent.

The National Tea company reported total sales of $4,706,260 for the four weeks ended Sept. 8, compared with $4,474,520 for the corresponding period of last year, a gain of $231,741, or 5.18 per cent. In the preceding period of four weeks the total was $4,404,117, which was 6.9 per cent below a year ago.

For the thirty-six weeks ended Sept. 8 the total was $41,628,715, down 3.9 per cent from a year ago. The number of stores in operation on Sept. 8 at 1,245 were 5.47 below the 1,317 reported on Sept. 9, 1933.

Kroger Grocery and Baking company sales for the four weeks ended Sept. 8 amounted to $16,892,057, compared with $15,159,841 in the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 11.4 per cent. For the thirty-six weeks ended Sept. 8 the total was $151,224,577, against $140,325,479 a year ago, a gain of 7.7 per cent. Stores in operation at the end of the period were 4,848, compared with 4,512 a year ago, a decline of 8 per cent.

Cheap Money Declared Road to Prosperity

Devaluation by boosting the price of gold not only provides the road back to prosperity but affords the only valuable means of fighting communism at its source, Earl Harding of New York, advisory member of the committee for the nation, told the Executives' club yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

"Our nation, our constitution, our all, are based on the success of capitalism and the profit system," Mr. Harding declared. "The few who would suppress the profit motive do not understand human nature."

Equally sharp arrows were aimed by him at "the regimenters" who would make everything over to conform to their ideas of a New Deal, and at the "monetary high priests" who oppose devaluation and raise "hobgoblins of money tinkering." Such "hobgoblins" cause fear only to "economic infants," he said.

Declares They Bar Recovery.

Mr. Harding charged these two opposing forces with making recovery impossible. Both probably are honest of purpose, but badly misinformed, blind, and irrational, he said.

THE TRIBUNE'S admonition to every one to join a patriotic society to uphold the constitution drew specific praise from the speaker. He urged every person to make himself a committee of one in a nation-wide campaign for permanent stabilization of buying power. He suggested that every one write a letter to the President, urging him to raise the price of gold $6.34 an ounce to boost prices to basic producers by 18 per cent.

Mr. Harding saw no indication of return to a fixed gold standard, but said that with the world "still gold conscious," there will be an anchoring to gold in relation to the index of commodities. Once established, the mechanism would work almost mechanically.

Marx Knew Money's Value.

"Karl Marx was shrewd enough to know that communism is impossible as long as the money and profit systems do not break down," said Mr. Harding. "A flood of new gold 80 years ago made communistic revolution impossible."

With no new gold fields to draw upon, Mr. Harding reasoned, the alternative is devaluation to accomplish the same general result. The old theory of credit expansion and contraction has failed, he said.

Theorists who blame overproduction have been proved absolutely wrong, he continued, sharpshooting at the administration's agricultural policy. Figures show the country suffering from underconsumption, due to maldistribution, a victim of falling price levels.

In the face of such conditions, the only way to "rescue millions of forgotten basic producers" is revaluation, he asserted. The farmer and other such producers are the first to feel the effects of falling prices and their recovery is necessary first.

"The price of gold had not yet reached a level high enough to give a fair chance to the basic producers and there can be no prosperity as long as price levels are out of adjustment for different groups," he said.

SEVEN THEORIES OF NEW DEAL WRONG—AYRES

Assails Inflation as Insidious Fraud.

Seven economic theories having wide acceptance and which play a large part in New Deal recovery efforts are fallacious, in the opinion of Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company. These he groups under the headings of over-production, concentration of wealth, redistribution of income, profit margins, taxation, inflation and purchasing power.

COL. L. P. AYRES.

Inflation, says Col. Ayres, is the most insidious fraud among economic fallacies and had been since the invention of money. The simple idea that makes men favor it is that since we all use money to buy things we want, we should be able to buy more if the government would increase the amount of money in circulation.

Must Produce to Have.

"In order to have goods we must produce more," Ayers asserts in the monthly review of his bank. "Only then shall we have more money. Increasing money raises prices but induces fears about the future that result in reduced production. Bitterest opponents of inflation are those people in other countries who have had recent experience with it. Our need is not inflation but the removal of barriers impeding production."

The Cleveland economist asserts the burden of proof to charges of overproduction, with wage earners receiving too little and stockholders too much, lies on the accuser. A study of industrial activity from 1899 to 1930 shows only brief periods of overproduction, while prices, production and employment were in better balance than in any period for which records are available, he says.

Cites Wealth Distribution.

He challenges the recent statement of a cabinet member that 2 per cent of the people own 80 per cent of the nation's wealth, with statistics showing 34.6 per cent of wealth is owned by 10 per cent, 13.1 by the next 10 per cent, 10.3 by the next ten and the following in order by successive groups of 10 per cent, 8.9, 7.7, 6.7, 5.9, 5.2, 4.5, and 3.1.

Redistribution of income, about which so much is talked currently, would prove disappointing to its advocates, Ayres believes. If all wage earners divided equally wages paid in 1929 their average would have been $119 monthly. Had there been an equal redistribution of all wages, salaries, bonuses and shares of proprietors in the nation's most prosperous year the average would have been swelled only 10 per cent, to approximately $131 a month.

Sees Small Business Hurt.

"Disaster would threaten thousands of small businesses if all corporations were called upon to support increased costs of doing business that were adjusted to capacities of only the large, strong and successful ones," he said. "In good years the margin of profit fluctuates around four per cent while in bad ones it is converted into a serious loss.

"The theory that this nation can spend as much in the campaign against depression as it did in the world war is false. We could not afford the war nor can we afford to underestimate the importance of sums we are spending now.

"Government debts have mounted fr. 15 per cent of national income before the war to 40 per cent prior to the depression but have suddenly gone up to 90 per cent and are still rising."

"The present relationship between debts and income is more hazardous than ever existed previously. National policy should aim at checking governmental expenditiures and increasing national income.

"Increased federal disbursements have been widely advocated to boost retail purchasing power and thus revive business, but the heaviest unemployment cannot be cured this way because it lies in durable goods and construction industries."

Priming Pump Helps Little if Handle Breaks

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The "prime the pump" scheme of restoring business prosperity has broken down in several places at what is probably the worst time politically—just two months before the congressional elections.

First, credit has failed to expand as anticipated by the planned economy boys. Loans have congealed and the bond market is dead.

Second, government credit has sprung a few serious leaks. Short term notes still are being marketed, but the demand for long term bonds has dried up.

The New Deal program for reviving business consisted of two parts. First, the government was to "prime the pump," that is, increase business activity by spending a few billions of borrowed money. This was to continue until the wheels of business had been set in motion and then the government was to cease spending and let private capital keep the wheels going. Second, the devaluation of the dollar and the pouring of new money into the banks was to lay the groundwork for a "credit inflation" or "reflation" which would push up prices and force the banks to make more loans.

The New Dealers argued that the increased business activity generated by the tremendous increase in government spending would cause such a revival of confidence that banks and investors would forget the depression and cease pinching their dollars.

* *

Instead of looking at the boomlet caused by the expenditure of billions of government funds the investors have been scared stiff by the prospect of being gouged by the tax collectors to pay back the huge borrowings.

As for the banker, he's worrying about the effect of this heavy strain on the credit of the federal government and, consequently, he's pulling in his horns as far as possible. He keeps on buying government bonds because he has to invest in something, but he's buying few of the long term variety.

Two developments during the last few days have emphasized the breakdown of the administration's great gamble in spending billions to "prime the pump." First, the normal pickup in business volume that usually occurs after Labor day has failed to materialize. Business in general now is little better than in August. Second, the treasury's current big refinancing program isn't going so well.

* *

When the books are closed on the treasury bonds and notes now being offered in exchange for the called Liberty bonds the figures are expected to show that most of the bondholders who accepted the exchange offer took the short term notes and that comparatively few took the 12 year bonds.

Some of the banks controled by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and a few insurance companies are understood to have signed up for the 12 year bonds, but the majority of the banks and most of the private bondholders are reported to be accepting only short term paper.

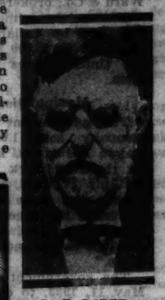

With the brain trust's pump priming dream turning out to be a nightmare conservatives have begun to hope that after the election the long yearned for move—a "a turn to the right"—may be taken. They admit that they're indulging in wishful thinking but many of them believe that the pump priming program will break down so rapidly from this point on that the administration will have but one of two choices; retrenchment or uncontroled currency inflation. They aren't sure which it will be.

RAIL OFFICIALS' COMBINED PAY DROPS 34 PCT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Aggregate compensation of railway officials paid at the rate of $10,000 a year or more was 34 per cent less in 1933 than in 1929, according to a report on railway salaries made public today by the interstate commerce commission. Railway officials and their assistants in the class indicated dropped from 16,694 in 1929 to 12,222 in 1933.

L. F. LOREE.

DANIEL WILLARD.

"The average salary," the commission said, "declined 10.7 per cent, which is less than the reductions in individual salaries, because the average salary of the group would tend to increase with the discharge of relatively large numbers of officials in the lower salary groups."

Relatively few class 1 railroad heads received the maximum salary of $60,000 a year which the railroads put into effect last year after Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, had recommended that substantial reductions in officials' salaries be made.

Loree Draws $95,000.

The report revealed that L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad corporation and chairman of the board of the Kansas City Southern, received $50,000 from the D. & H. and $45,000 from the Kansas City Southern, or a total of $95,000.

Class 1 executives reported as being paid at the rate of $60,000 a year and their yearly salaries as of March 1, 1932, were: Presidents Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio, $120,000; J. J. Bernet of the Chesapeake and Ohio-Père Marquette-Nickel Plate, $150,000; Ralph Budd of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy-Colorado and Southern, $75,000; J. M. Davies, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, $87,500; W. P. Kenney, Great Northern, $60,000; L. A. Downs, Illinois Central, $90,000; M. S. Sloan, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, 1932 salary not known; F. E. Williamson, New York Central, $80,000; A. C. Needles, Norfolk and Western, $67,500; C. W. Ewing, Reading, $67,500; Hale Holden (chairman), Southern Pacific, $90,000; W. A. Harriman, chairman, and Carl R. Grey, president, Union Pacific, $90,000.

Other High Salaries.

Other salaries in the highest brackets, for last year, include: S. T. Bledsoe, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, $54,000; Fred W. Sargent, Chicago and North Western, $36,450; H. A. Scandrett, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, $48,600; C. E. Denney, Erie, $50,000; W. R. Cole, Louisville and Nashville, $40,500 (received other compensation from N. C. & St. L. and other lines); Charles Donnelley, Northern Pacific, $48,000; Paul Shoup, vice chairman, and A. D. McDonald, president, Southern Pacific, $50,000 each; Fairfax Harrison, Southern, $50,000; J. L. Lancaster, Texas and Pacific, $40,000; W. M. Jeffers, executive vice president, Union Pacific, $45,000.

In March, 1932, the presidency of the Atchison paid at the rate of $67,500 annually; North Western, $61,000; Milwaukee, $67,500; Erie, $50,000, and the executive vice presidency of the Union Pacific, $90,000.

The aggregate compensation in 1933 of the officials getting $10,000 a year or more was $62,883,933 as compared with $94,601,336 in 1929. The aggregate compensation of the group in 1933 was 4.10 per cent of the total compensation of all railway employes, and 2.01 per cent of the railway operating revenues.

SILVER TRADERS TURN TO CANADA; PLAN TWO MARTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—With hopes for an eventual reopening of silver futures trading in New York waning, silver trade members of the Commodity Exchange, Inc., are dividing into rival camps in support of either Montreal or Toronto as the future center for forward dealings in silver on this continent.

Plans for the Montreal Stock exchange to provide for dealings in silver futures were the first to become publicly known, and eighteen New York individuals or organizations have thus far acquired memberships. The Toronto Stock exchange has given a go ahead order on its new market. Both exchanges are planning to create associate memberships, to be sold at $500 each, entitling the holders to trade in silver futures and to use the facilities to be provided for the purpose.

Trading was terminated in silver futures on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., on Aug. 9 as soon as the Washington decree nationalizing silver was issued. Many of the silver dealers have been active in efforts to bring about a resumption of trading. That little hope remains for such an eventuality was the interpretation placed in financial circles upon the fact that an official and counsel for the Commodity Exchange, Inc., went to Toronto to advise financiers there on the creation of a silver market.

SHEEP BUYING PLAN COSTS U.S. $76,000 A DAY

Denver, Colo., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Uncle Sam is starting to pour $76,000 a day into the purses of drouth stricken sheep growers of the western states through the relief buying campaign, Harry Petrie, chief of the cattle and sheep section of the AAA, said here today. Petrie announced a daily buying quota today of 38,000 sheep for shipment to processors from the parched ranges of the west.

The figures he gave today included the sheep purchased for shipment to processors and do not include animals condemned and slaughtered on the range or by state relief agencies. He said that it would be impossible to estimate the number included in these two phases of the program for at least a week, when he will receive reports from state relief administrations and agents in the field.

The government is paying $2 a head for ewes a year old and older and $1.40 for female Angora goats. Fifty per cent goes to the owner and 50 per cent to the lien holder. F. W. Beier Jr., federal live stock statistician, said some 34,000,000 sheep were offered for sale, while the purchasing quota announced today limited purchases to a probable five or six million.

DOLLAR FIRMER AGAINST FRANC, LOSES TO POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—Foreign currencies were irregular in their movements against the dollar in trading here today. The pound sterling gained ⅛ cent to close at $5.01⅛ while the French franc dipped ¼ point to 6.67625 cents. The value of the dollar against the franc was 58.68 cents, compared with 58.66 yesterday.

The Canadian dollar gained 3⅛ points to close at $1.0303125, against the quotation of $1.03 yesterday. The German mark rose 10 points to 40.47 cents, while the gain of 2 points at 68.65 cents for the Dutch florin was attributed to the change in policy permitting gold exports to this country.

The price of bar gold in London remained unchanged at 140 shillings 6½ pence a fine ounce, or equivalent to $35.20. An amount valued at $1,111,842 was traded.

CHICAGO STOCK LAND BANK WILL PAY ON BONDS

The Chicago Joint Stock Land bank will pay a 30 per cent dividend on its outstanding farm loans and unmatured accrued interest up to Sept. 30, 1932, according to an announcement made last night by John B. Gallagher, receiver. The institution formerly was the First Joint Stock Land bank of Chicago.

The dividend will be paid out of the proceeds from liquidation of pledged assets of the bank. It is payable only to bondholders who have proved and filed claims against the bank and who hold receiver's certificates for deposited bonds and coupons on Sept. 29 next. Holders of the bonds may make proof of claims and deposit their bonds with the receiver before that date.

"All holders of bonds and coupons who have not delivered their bonds and coupons to the receiver and made proof of claim should make such delivery and proof in order to receive the dividend," said Mr. Gallagher, whose offices are at 221 North La Salle street, Chicago.

U. S. TO DELAY TANNING DROUTH CATTLE HIDES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Assurance that hides from drouth cattle bought by the government would not immediately be made into shoes for the unemployed was given tonight by Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator.

"I am convinced it is to the interest of the government that the hides not be sold or processed at this time," Hopkins said after a conference with leaders of the shoemaking industry.

He added the hides would be held off the market "until they can be absorbed in an orderly way." No further indication of their ultimate disposition was given.

Southern Alkali Co. Puts New Plant Into Operation

Southern Alkali corporation yesterday began operations at the new 7 million dollar plant at Corpus Christi, Texas. This culminates a three-year building program of the corporation, which is jointly owned by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and the American Cynamid company.

CHICAGO FIRM IS ORDERED TO RE-EMPLOY 11 MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The International Furniture company of Chicago today lost a case before the national labor board and was ordered to reëmploy eleven men allegedly discharged because of their connection with a union. Unless the company reinstates the men before Monday the board declared it would refer its decision to the NRA compliance division "and other governmental agencies for appropriate action."

The board held that all of the men had been dropped by the company either because they were active in the union or represented the union in collective bargaining demands. Therefore, according to the board, the men were fired in violation of section 7 A of the NIRA which grants freedom for workers to organize.

Three of the workers involved in the case were not rehired by the company after the Chicago upholsterers' strike a year ago. The board declared that this failure not only violated section 7 A, but broke an agreement which the company made when the strike was settled in December. Five more union members were discharged during the month following the strike settlement and three more walked out in protest.

ROADS ASK NEW HEARINGS OVER RAIL-BARGE RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The railroads today asked the interstate commerce commission to reopen proceedings in which they are required to maintain through rates and joint rates with the government barge lines and other water lines operating on the inland waterways.

Charging that these routes and rates were prescribed by the commission on inadequate records, the rail lines say they result in "wasteful and uneconomical transportation." A thorough inquiry into the costs of transportation by rail and by the barge lines is demanded by the rail carriers to determine whether the differentials in the water rates under the rail rates are justified.

Whether or not the government barge line operations are economically justified and the effect of the operations of the government agency on the revenues of the railroads are other questions the rail lines ask the commission to answer.

Grocer Charges Vast Canned Foods Dearth in Reply to AAA

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A. C. Lau, Lincoln wholesale grocer, today replied to a statement of Dr. F. C. Howe of the Agricultural Adjustment administration that reports of a canned goods shortage is propaganda with a story of his firm's difficulty in getting its orders filled.

"This canned goods situation has made us do things we never did before in order to get deliveries," Lau said in relating that his company's canned goods business in August was the biggest in the history of the firm. "It is the farmer who knew how things were that invested his money in canned goods. He knew crops were gone.

Drouth Curtails Supply.

"People must remember that the wholesaler's natural source of supply for staple canned goods—peas, corn, beans, and tomatoes—has been wiped out by the drouth. When we say natural source of supply we mean Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Illinois, from where we get the bulk of our canned goods. When those states burned out we would order from canners in other states.

"For example, we ordered 12,000 cases of peas from our regular source in Minnesota. We received 57 cases from one of the Nebraska canners, none from the others, and are advised that delivery won't amount to more than 3,000 cases from Minnesota, and that those will be varieties we didn't order.

Get Only Part of Orders.

"Out of the 5,000 cases ordered from Illinois we will get delivery on four or five hundred cases. We went to Ohio for peas, we went to Utah for peas, and we bought a car of peas from Maryland, the first order there in 35 years."

Lau explained that there are indications of trouble in filling canned fruit orders also.

"Notice already has been sent by one California canner," he said, "that he won't be able to make full delivery of our advance fruit orders. We have had to go far outside of our natural source of supply to get deliveries, and it costs us a higher price from the canner, and freight costs show a tremendous increase."

I. C. C. EXAMINER FINDS CHICAGO COAL RATES SHOULD BE EQUALIZED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Examiner W. B. Cheseldine of the interstate commerce commission today upheld the complaint of Chicago coal operators north of Irving Park boulevard that certain rates on bituminous coal shipped to them were prejudicial to coal handlers south of the boulevard.

The examiner recommended that the commission find present rates on bituminous coal shipped to them from mines in Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, and West Virginia excessive to the extent that they exceed the rates to destinations south of the boulevard. The complaint was brought by the Economy Fuel and Material company and other operators.

"In the sale of their coal," the examiner said, "complainants must meet competition of coal dealers in north Chicago served by the Milwaukee railroad and those located south of the boulevard who pay the flat Chicago rates, and contend that with the modern methods of motor deliveries and this 10 cent differential (the difference in the freight rates) they are unable to sell anywhere in the north Chicago district at a price that will net them a reasonable profit. Ten cents represents the margin of profit in some instances.

"The maintenance of higher rates to the plants of the complainants located north of Irving Park boulevard at Mayfair than contemporaneously maintained to other coal yards at Mayfair located south of the boulevard subjects this complainant to unjust discrimination."

Germany Holds Insurance Payments to Marks Only

BERLIN, Sept. 14. — (AP) — Hard pressed as ever for foreign exchange, Germany today ordered her insurance companies and policyholders to make payments abroad in marks only. Dollar contracts will be adapted on the basis of 2.50 marks to the dollar.

DURABLE GOODS INDUSTRY TO ASK AID OF CONGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The prospect of a strong organization in Washington next winter to push the cause of the durable goods industries before congress was seen here today in the meeting of a group of industrialists in Hot Springs, Va.

The conference brought together about 150 members of the durable goods committee created from the code authorities of the "heavy industries" as an advisory body to the National Recovery administration. The basic belief of the durable goods committee is that permanent prosperity can be restored and retained only by the successive building of "capital goods," as distinguished from "consumption" goods.

The durable goods industries fought the securities act and the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market bill as drags on the capital issues market to which the "heavy" industries said they must look for operating funds. They supported such measures as the housing act and others by which the government sought simply to induce private lending by sponsoring cooperative movements.

SEC SUES TO END ALLEGED LARGE STOCK SWINDLE

Action Is Aimed at Tipster Sheet Service.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—In the first major action taken since it began functioning Sept. 1, the Securities and Exchange commission today brought suit against a group of firms and individuals in what the government described as a $10,000,000 stock swindle.

The defendants, according to John T. Callahan, attorney for the commission, are National Investment Transcript, Inc., of Camden, N. J.; Clement H. Congdon, and Marshall Ward & Co., brokers, of 40 Wall street. National Investment Transcript was described by Callahan as a "tipster sheet" with 12,000 paid subscribers in the United States and foreign countries.

Manipulation Charged.

The government charges that the company sold 1,000,000 shares of Rayon Industries, Inc., a stock listed on the New York Produce exchange on July 17, 1933, at about $4.50 per share, and since then progressively increased its price "by manipulation, rigging, pegging, and controling the stock by the defendant, Marshall Ward & Co."

The government charges that from May 11, 1933, to date, the stock was sold three or four times over, the total sales amounting to $20,000,000.

Marshall Ward, according to Callahan, maintained the market in the stock, supporting the market by buying the stock offered for sale at specific fixed prices and subsequently reselling it to the investors of the National Investment Transcript, Inc.

Sold Stock by Phone.

The National Investment Transcript, it is declared, sold the stock by long distance telephone, confirming sales by telegraph and supplementing sales talks with literature. The proceedings, according to Callahan, were directed from "boiler rooms" [fraudulent brokerage offices] at 588 Carman street and 23 Broadway, Camden, N. J. Callahan said the telephone bill covering the period May 11-July 11, 1933, amounted to $56,000.

The government contends, according to Callahan, that the National Investment Transcript, Inc., and Clement H. Congdon, its editor and owner, spent approximately $500,000 in getting so-called sucker lists, which they obtained by circularizing holders of the best securities listed on the New York Stock and Curb exchanges. Several millions of persons, it was alleged, were circulated, and people were "traded out" of valuable securities and cash.

Seek to Enjoin Sales.

The suit, filed today in federal District court in Newark, N. J. is an action to enjoin the defendants from these practices. Simultaneously Federal Judge William Clark signed an order, answerable on Sept. 17 at 10:30 a. m. at Newark, calling for a temporary injunction and ordering the defendants to show cause why they should not be restrained from selling Rayon Industries corporation stock or any other stock in interstate commerce.

The action was brought under section 20-B of the securities act of 1933. In addition, a specific violation is charged under section 7 of the act dealing with the fraudulent sale of stock in interstate commerce.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Seat Sells at $78,000, Up $2,000

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Sale of a New York Stock exchange seat for $78,000, a recovery of $2,000 compared with the previous sale, was announced today. Seats in recent weeks had fallen from around $95,000 to $76,000, or within $8,000 of the 1932 low price.

Commercial Paper Total Highest in Three Years

Along with the gains in outstanding commercial loans of banks last month, commercial paper during August increased $20,000,000 to $188,000,000, the highest total since October, 1931.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—United States government bonds, both direct obligations and guaranteed securities, again turned soft today, leading downward the entire listed bond market.

Called Fourth Liberty 4¼s fell 7-32ds of a point to a premium of only 15-32ds and the remainder of the direct obligations showed losses up to 14-32ds. The guaranteed issues were again the focal points of weakness, Federal Farm Mortgage 3¼s falling to a new low of 98 16-32ds, where they closed, off 24-32ds. Federal Farm Mortgage 3s were down 9-32ds to 95 14-32ds. Home Owners' Loan 3s fell 14-32ds to 95 8-32ds and the 4s were off 13-32ds to 95 8-32ds.

Refunding Uncertainties Deepen.

This further fall of "governments" deepened the uncertainties surrounding the treasury's $1,200,000,000 Liberty bond refunding operation. The outstanding treasury 3¼s of 1944 to 1946, which are comparable to the bonds, dated today, which the treasury is offering in exchange for the called issues, fell 10-32ds to a premium of only 1-32d of a point.

In the over-the-counter market trading began in the two new note issues on a "when issued" basis. The 1½ per cent notes due in two years from today were quoted 99 30-32ds bid, offered at 100 2-32ds. The 2½ per cent four year notes which are being issued today as an optional exchange for the called Fourth Liberty 4¼s were quoted 100 1-32d bid, offered at 100 4-32ds, to yield 2.46 per cent.

The weakness of the market despite treasury support, is a matter of comment in banking circles. Today's further decline came on the heels of the conversations held on Thursday by T. Jefferson Coolidge, undersecretary of the treasury, with bankers here.

Coolidge Probes Difficulties.

According to bankers who talked with him, Mr. Coolidge was endeavoring to discover why the treasury's refunding operation was meeting with such difficulties.

The general bond list followed the government list downward and trading volume increased to $16,725,000, compared with $13,210,400 on Thursday when the trend was upward. All groups of domestic issues were soft, but foreign bonds were firm.

National Refining.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate any information you can furnish relative to National Refining company. Thanks.—N. V. H.

Answer: National Refining company's producing oil properties are in Kansas and Oklahoma. It has several refineries with a combined output of about three million barrels a year. Its output is sold in about sixteen middle western and southern states under the trade name "En-ar-co."

Relative stability of petroleum prices in 1933 eliminated expensive inventory losses of previous years and enabled the company to cut its loss to $341,000. In 1932 net loss was $1,188,000, after inventory deduction of $308,000, against loss of $752,000, after inventory deductions of $800,000, for 1931. In 1930 net income was $1,002,000, or $1.30 per common share.

At the close of 1933 cash assets alone were about 13 times total current liabilities. There was no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 49,864 shares of 8 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 463,289 shares of $25 par common.

Preferred dividends were suspended on April 1, 1933. On July 2, 1934, a $2 payment on account of arrears was made. As of that date accumulated unpaid preferred dividends totaled $10 a share.

Swift & Co.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information regarding Swift & Co. bonds. In what denominations are they issued?—O. H. J.

Answer: Swift & Co. has covered its fixed charges by wide margins during normal packing years. Comparative stability of earnings, strong current position and ample fixed assets entitle the first 5s, due 1944, and the 5 per cent notes, due 1940, to a sound rating.

Net working capital on Oct. 28, 1933, alone was more than 3½ times total funded debt.

In the year ended Oct. 28, 1933, fixed charges were covered 4.59 times. The company was doubly benefited by higher prices. Not only was it possible to make a slight increase in the profit margin but inventory profits were substituted for inventory losses. In the preceding year inventory losses resulted in a loss of $2,160,000 before fixed charges of $3,178,000. Charges were covered 3.51 times in the 1931 year and 3.29 times in the 1930 year.

The 5s, due 1944, are available in denominations of $500, $1,000 and $10,000. The 5s, due 1940, are available in denominations of $500 and $1,000 only.

Words, Mere Words.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly inform me of the difference between an insurance company and an assurance company?—Mrs. N. S. A.

NOTE EXCHANGE IS SUCCESSFUL, TREASURY SAYS

Declares Bond Program Progresses Well.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The first step in the treasury's refunding program, the exchange of 1½ per cent two year treasury notes for certificates of indebtedness which mature tomorrow, has been successfully carried out, the treasury announced today.

According to a preliminary survey $508,000,000 of the certificates had been turned in and it appears probable that the final total of exchanges will approximate $520,000,000.

Books Closed Thursday.

Books of the exchange were closed yesterday and subscriptions received in the mail at the last minute were not covered in the early recapitulation. The small amount of the certificates not turned it will be paid in cash out of the general fund balance.

Reports received by the treasury today concerning exchanges of 4¼ per cent fourth Liberty bonds for either the 3¼ per cent bonds or 2½ per cent four year notes offered, continued encouraging, it was said. Books on this exchange, which involved $1,250,000,000 of Liberties called for redemption by Oct. 15, will remain open for some time.

Banks Prefer Notes.

Today's reports continued to indicate that the banks were showing a preference for the 2½ per cent notes. Officials here are confident only a relatively small percentage of Liberty bond holders will ask for cash payment on the redemption rate.

These holders also will be paid in cash out of the general fund balance, which on Sept. 12 totaled $1,344,000,000, exclusive of the profit accruing from dollar devaluation.

Indications here are that most of the banking interests have at last satisfied themselves that the treasury has no intention of using either non-interest bearing notes or gold profit in paying off holders who fail to turn in their bonds for exchange.

ONLY RATE BOOST WILL HELP RAILS, SAYS ATTERBURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—A reasonable ncrease in freight rates is the only racticable way to meet the difficulties reated by higher prices for materials, higher wages to employés, heavier taxes and other outlays, President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad told stockholders today in a etter accompanying checks for a dividend of 50 cents a share.

"We believe," he said, "that future state and national legislation could have no better policy in view than to assure proper returns to the railroads and their owners who, under most discouraging conditions, have made continuous contributions to our national prosperity.

"While stations, equipment, and other facilities need improvements the company's tracks are being maintained in sound condition to assure public safety and comfort."

Net income available for dividends in the first six months was $7,249,508. The present payment totals $6,583,848.

CHICAGO LABOR BANK ENLARGES SPACE BY LEASE

The Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, the only labor institution of its kind in Chicago, now at 111 West Jackson boulevard, has leased part of the second floor of the two story building now being erected at the southeast corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets. The rental and length of term were not disclosed.

According to M. B. Karman, president, the move was necessitated by the bank's growth. It will have approximately twice its present space. Samuel Levin is chairman of the board and Duane Swift is cashier. The bank will occupy all of the Monroe street frontage and part of the Dearborn street side on the second floor.

LABOR BOARD STICKS TO MAJORITY RULING IN WAGE BARGAINING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The National Labor board expects to stick by its "majority rule" decision. Chairman Lloyd K. Garrison declared today that, in the face of defiance from the National Association of Manufacturers and other industrial groups, the board intends to stand fast.

A court test of the decision will be risked by the board in order to enforce it, if necessary, Chairman Garrison said. The board's decision against the Houde Engineering company of Buffalo, N. Y., has been sent to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings for enforcement through court action, Garrison revealed. The Houde decision laid down the majority rule doctrine.

The doctrine, hailed as a major decision for the American Federation of Labor, holds that an employer under the NIRA can bargain collectively only with the union representing the majority of his workers. The Houde company is holding out against the order, and the manufacturers' association has advised its members not to abide by it.

Garrison, when reminded by reporters of this defiance, declared that if manufacturers or other employers refuse to appear in cases raising the majority rule point, the board will proceed regardless to hand down its decisions and seek to enforce them.

He also promised an early decision on the case involving the Kohler company of Kohler, Wis. The Kohler case raises a new issue, Garrison said, because the A. F. of L. union, at the same time that it demands an election, demands that the company union be dissolved before the election among the workers takes place.

U. S. AUTHORIZES MORE BUYING OF RELIEF BUTTER

May Require Several Million Pounds.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The farm administration today authorized the purchase of "substantial amounts" of creamery butter to be distributed through relief channels. The amount was not made public, but a spokesman of the AAA said it would run into several million pounds.

Farm administration officials asserted they were not attempting to stabilize the market. However, the purchases came at an opportune time for the dairy industry in view of recent price declines in the butter market.

Requests for government action to check the drop in price have flooded the office of A. H. Lauterbach, chief of the dairy division of the AAA, for several days.

At the same time Davis announced purchase of 2,805,000 pounds of domestic Swiss cheese at an approximate cost of $600,000. Davis' announcement did not state to whom the Swiss cheese contracts had been awarded.

Davis said the farm administration purchases of butter, delivered and paid for to date, amounted to 47,848,306 pounds and cost $10,561,312. This butter has been distributed through the Surplus Relief corporation and the Emergency Relief administration. He said this figure did not include separate purchases of butter made last winter by the relief corporation. In addition he said there remained undelivered 3,053,651 pounds, costing approximately $885,063. This brings the farm administration's butter purchases to 50,901,957 pounds.

The farm administrator also said the government had purchased and received delivery on 6,047,451 pounds of American cheese, costing approximately $884,418, and had an undeliverable order of 325,589 pounds, costing $55,019. In addition, Davis said, bids were being received for 5,000,000 more pounds of American cheese. These bids will be opened Sept. 25.

Canada Drops Railroad Surcharge for Two Weeks

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The board of railway commissioners ruled today there will be on surcharge on freight, express or passenger business between Canadian and American railways for the last two weeks of September.

FREIGHT TRAFIC CUT LAST WEEK BY LABOR DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Loadings of revenue freight on the railroads fell off sharply last week, principally as the result of the Labor day holiday. Trafic also continued to run somewhat below the volume of a year ago.

The weekly summary issued today by the American Railroad association placed total car loadings for the week ended Sept. 8 at 562,730 cars, a decrease of 83,050 from the preceding week, and also 15,203 below the corresponding week last year, although an increase of 61,193 over the corresponding week in 1932.

Less than carlot merchandise totaled 141,373 cars, a decrease of 21,466 under the preceding week, 7,173 under 1933 and 8,659 below 1932.

Grain Movement Smaller.

Grain and grain products totaled 31,913 cars, a decrease of 6,590 below the preceding week but 5,025 above 1933. It was a decrease of 3,957 below 1932. In the western districts loadings totaled 21,947 cars, an increase of 4,216 above last year.

Live Stock Shows Decrease.

Live stock loaded amounted to 35,834 cars, a decrease of 1,016 cars below the preceding week, but 17,022 above 1933 and 17,684 above 1932. In the western districts live stock loaded totaled 30,379 cars, an increase of 15,728 above 1933.

Total loadings from January 1 to Sept. 8 were reported as 21,275,046 cars, compared with 19,625,542 in 1933 and 19,163,184 in 1932.

Ford Truck Sales in Cook County Largest in 3 Years

Sales of Ford trucks and commercial cars in Cook county during August reached a new high for any month in more than three years, it was announced yesterday by W. K. Edmunds, in charge of Ford Motor company activities in the Chicago area.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

The city of Minneapolis yesterday rejected all bids tendered for its offering of $1,278,000 bonds. The sale was postponed until Oct. 12, but whether the terms of the offering will be the same at that time was not disclosed.

The highest bids submitted was that of a group headed by Phelps, Fenn & Co., which offered 100 and interest for $270,000 of the bonds, maturing 1937 to 1942, as 5s and the balance, maturing, 1943 to 1964, as 3¾s. This was equivalent to an interest cost of 3.82 per cent and was comparable to a bid of about 102.99 per cent for 4 per cent bonds. The high bidders stated that they were surprised at the rejection of their bid as they considered it a favorable one for the city.

Associated with Phelps, Fenn & Co. were Stone, Webster & Blodgett, R. L. Day & Co., the Wells-Dickey company and the Milwaukee company. A group headed by the Chemical Bank and Trust company submitted the second highest bid, 100.779 for all the bonds as 4 per cent securities, while the third highest bid, submitted by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., was par and interest for the bonds maturing from 1937 to 1962 as 4s and those maturing 1963 and 1964 as 3½s.

An offering of $300,000 deficiency bonds of the city of Dayton, O., was purchased by an Ohio banking group consisting of Van Lahr, Doll & Isphording, Inc., the Bancohio Securities company, and Stranahan, Harris & Co., Inc., at 100.15 for the bonds as 4s. The issue is dated Oct. 1, 1934, and will mature March 1 and Sept. 1, 1939 to 1946.

An issue of $50,000 relief bonds of Salem, Mass., dated Sept. 1, 1934, and due Sept. 1, 1935 and 1936, was sold to Blyth & Co., Inc., at 100.032 for 1¼ per cent bonds.

The city of Beverely, Mass., will sell on Sept. 19 a $100,000 temporary loan, dated Sept. 19 and due March 15, 1935.

State and municipal financing scheduled for next week amounts to $15,750,000, reports the Bond Buyer. The total for the last week was $7,421,420. New bond offerings during this week amounted to $950,000, compared with $17,612,000 in the preceding week and $3,700,000 in the same period of 1933.

HOGS ADVANCE TO WEEK'S HIGH DUE TO LIGHT RUN

Slump in Wholesale Price of Pork Is Checked.

Hogs advanced to the highest point of the week and the drastic price slashing in the wholesale pork trade was checked as slaughter supplies fell short at all of the leading packing centers yesterday.

The relatively low outside markets reported the most decrease in receipts, but supplies at Chicago were below trade requirements and buying by local packers continued at some of the low outside points which ordinarily are least in line with the Chicago market. Only 9,000 hogs arrived at Chicago, including 3,700 shipped direct to packers, leaving a scant 5,300 fresh receipts on the market.

Prices moved up 10 to 15 cents. Trading progressed rather slowly, but it did not take long to clear the meager supply of good to choice grades in the pens.

Only Poor Grades Unsold.

Practically all of the holdover at the close consisted of thin sows and unfinished lights, which have been accumulating during the week and for which there is little commercial value after the $2.25 processing tax is paid to the federal government.

Selected 197 to 227 pound "new crop" hogs topped the market yesterday at $9.50, including the tax, leaving $7.25 for the farmer. This is the first time hogs that light have sold at the top figure in some time.

Yesterday's bulk of hogs cost packers $8.50 to $9.45, returning the farmer $6.25 to $7.20, and of the $9.05 average paid by packers the farmers' market price was $6.80.

Prices yesterday were at the highest point since last Saturday and mostly 30 cents above the low day of the week, last Thursday. The break in fresh pork prices which was as sensational as the rise of three weeks ago, has evidently been halted. Top loins yesterday were quoted steady at 15 cents per pound, exactly 10 cents under the high point Monday of last week.

Cattle Receipts Too Heavy.

There was practically no dependable market for cattle here yesterday. Large numbers of all classes were carried over from Thursday's session and augmented by fresh arrivals of 3,000 commercial cattle the available supply proved too much for the demand.

Bids were no lower than at the low time of Thursday's demoralized trade, but they showed such sharp reductions compared with earlier in the week that sellers in all parts of the yards were soon taking stock off the market and locking it up for Monday.

Upwards to $9.65 was bid on some steers that were finally taken off the market. One shipment topped at $9.75, but the selling side was carrying a nominal quotation of $10.25 for prime weighty beeves. Most of the small supply of steers that changed hands were sold within a range of $5 to $8.50, with grassy kinds down to $4 and less in some instances.

The break in lambs was halted yesterday when supplies were cut down. Most lambs sold fully steady with Thursday's average, with a few 10 to 15 cents higher. Selected natives to city butchers ranged upward to $6.60, while packers bought at $6.40. Only one load of western lambs arrived, and this sold at $6.25.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable closed 3 points higher to 7 points net lower today. Sales were 214 contracts. Early in the period the market was firm, with new high records for some nearby positions on further covering, buying by refining interests, and scarcity of offerings. The weakness in outside markets discouraged holders later, however, and the market reacted under renewed local and commission house selling, with final prices around the lows of the day. NOVEMBER EGGS SINK TO NEW LOW FOR YEAR, BUT BUTTER ADVANCES

Liquidation was under way in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and November eggs dropped to 21⅛c, a new low for the year. Eggs closed with net losses of ⅜ cents, while butter rallied sharply and finished with net gains of ⅛ to ¼ cents. Potatoes lost 5 cents for the day.

The break in stocks and grain was a factor in inducing selling of egg futures, and statistical news was regarded as somewhat bearish. Good commission house buying appeared on the decline. Covering by shorts was a factor in causing the rally in butter.

HEAVY PRESSURE IN LARD; DECLINES 5 TO 12 CENTS

Heavy selling of lard futures by operators who were closing spreads with corn put considerable pressure on the former market yesterday but the offerings were absorbed by cash interests and commission houses. Weakness in grains also had some effect on sentiment, many scattered longs going out of their holdings during the day. Closing trades were at net losses of 5 to 12½ cents. Bellies were dull with the close 7½ to 17½ cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at $9.15; loose at $9.20 and leaf at $10.50 while bellies were held at $14.25.

Shipments of lard from Chicago since September 1 aggregate around 17,000,000 pounds while receipts have been around 2,000,000 pounds. The semi-monthly report on lard stocks to be announced late today is expected to show a liberal reduction in supplies. Prices follow:

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES DECLINE 6 TO 15 POINTS

New low levels on the current downturn were established on cotton yesterday with further selling induced by the textile strike, and the latter had the effect of curtailing buying. Closing trades were about the bottom with net losses of 10 to 11 points in Chicago and 6 to 15 points in other markets. Spot cotton declined 5 to 10 points with New Orleans at 12.95 cents; Galveston and Houston 13 cents and New York, 13.05 cents per pound. Mills must pay a processing tax of 4 cents per pound on cotton used domestically, tax not being included in the above spot quotations.

Consumption of American cotton in August, as officially estimated, aggregated 421,000 bales, or about as expected, compared with 359,000 bales in July and 589,000 bales in August last year. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today. No sales were reported and spot prices were unchanged at 2.86c. It was believed that sugars from store could be bought from this level up to 2.90c, but refiners showed no interest.

In a small mixed trade, futures moved in an irregular manner today, although the December position held relatively firm throughout, with the market closing 1 point net higher to 2 net lower. Sales were 11,150 tons. Prices:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
January	1.92	1.92	1.91	1.92	1.91
March	1.95	1.95	1.93	1.94	1.95
May	1.98	1.98	1.97	1.97	1.98
July	2.01	2.01	2.00	2.00	2.02

There was no change in the refined market, although a fair inquiry was reported both in the way of withdrawals and in new business in second hand quarters. Prices were listed at 4.75c for fine granulated by refiners, while second hands were available at from 5 to 10 points less.

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

If you have found a cat or a dog, a pocketbook, jewelry, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisements in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE, 1 SOUTH DEARBORN-ST.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisement of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of The Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisement receives the benefit of free listing in The Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.

Why work in air that's Drier than the Sahara?
The new air conditioning system in Tribune Tower promotes better work by protecting health. That's just one of the many advantages of a Tribune Tower office. An ideal location at the right price.

Lowers Loan Cost
Our new rate schedule reduces the cost of all loans above $100 and less than $300 below the rates we have been charging since July, 1933. Our previous low rate on $300 loans continues.
We have 17 branch offices in the Chicago district and do the largest business because:
1. We make loans of $30 to $300 at reasonable cost.
2. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives, or your tradespeople.
3. All of our offices are equipped to handle your business in a private room.
4. We give free, authentic information on managing family incomes.

RULE OF BAYONET KEEPS TEXTILE STRIKERS QUIET IN RHODE ISLAND. A typical scene in Woonsocket after the rioting and bloodshed had ceased and the National Guard had gained control. Guardsmen with fixed bayonets are on patrol duty throughout the town. The woman at the left does not seem to approve. Plans for calling United States troops to cope with the fighting have been deferred. The mills are closed.

AIR VIEW OF MILLS AT SAYLESVILLE, R. I., WHICH HAVE BEEN THE SCENE OF STRIKE RIOTING. Picture taken from airplane showing the area involved in the present uprising of striking textile workers. In foreground is the Sayles Finishing company, where fighting started and later shifted to Woonsocket and other towns. Plans for calling United States troops have been delayed as fighting subsides. (Story on page 1.)

LINDY'S PLANE FORCED DOWN IN OKLAHOMA. Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh as they left Kansas City on airport inspection tour. On Thursday they were forced down by motor trouble on ranch 17 miles from Woodward, Okla.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
